White Fountains

16mo. Boards. Net, $1.00

THE admirers of Mr. O'Brien's poems as they have been appearing in the leading magazines for the past few years will welcome the appearance of this volume.

"White Fountains" includes two odes entitled "Flesh" and "Flower" in free Gregorian rhythms, and a selection of lyrics, reprinted from Scribner's Magazine, The Poetry Review, The Smart Set, The Little Review and other periodicals, including "Irish," "The Piping Mountainy Man," "The Shepherd Boy," and others.

"The passion for spiritual expression," says William Stanley Braithwaite, "is the chief note in this collection. The two odes, 'Flesh' and 'Flower,' are unlike anything in our present verse. The lyrics are exquisitely turned in mood and melody. 'White Fountains' will help us to maintain our reverence for both art and life."

> "Life seems a gladsome thing as he writes of it. There are intimate nature touches, a glorification of the beauty in nature and its revelation of divinity. They are poems which attract for the singing quality of their music, for their conscious imagery of beauty and for the impelling quality of the poet's imagination." — Boston Transcript.

✠†Told in a French Garden: August, 1914

12mo. Cloth. With a portrait frontispiece in photogravure from a sketch of the author by Pierre-Emile Cornillier. Net, $1.35

AUGUST, 1914 — ominous date! — finds a group of delightful Americans enjoying a house-party in a quaint country place not many miles outside of Paris, a place not unlike that which forms the scene of the author's earlier book, the widely read "A Hilltop on the Marne." There are the Lawyer, the Critic, the Youngster, the Divorcée, the Violinist, the Trained Nurse, the Doctor, the Sculptor, the Journalist — all devoted friends and all, of course, unaware of the impending crisis.

War! — and discussion, too heated to be borne in friendly fashion! So war becomes the one topic that is taboo and, at the suggestion of one of the party, they fall to telling stories. Each one tells a tale as the company gathers in the garden after dinner in the bright August twilight, and the war is kept its distance. The stories are capital — read them and see! — and all the time, as the days go by, the war comes nearer and nearer, until —

BARTLEY, NALBRO

Paradise Auction

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.50

"LIFE is a paradise auction," says Sara Heath — "Darly," as the others call her — "with every one of us bidding for happiness at any cost. We each strive to bid the highest, the fastest, the cheapest, but we all want to buy paradise, not earn it."

The search for happiness of a group of people who had come to young manhood and womanhood after a childhood spent in joyous play together forms the underlying theme of this absorbing story.

"Paradise Auction" is a novel of the best type and introduces an American novelist whose brilliant promise as a writer of short stories it amply fulfills.

Some opinions of readers:

"A fine, strong and beautiful story. The ideal element which 'Darly' supplies is the hidden power in the novel and lifts the whole story far above the ordinary rank. There is plenty of warm human interest and real fun in it."

"It is one of the best novels I have ever read. I can't think of any novelist with whom I can compare Nalbro Bartley or any novel with which I can compare 'Paradise Auction', but as I read it I found myself having such diverse mental and emotional reactions as these: I recalled delightful memories of Louisa M. Alcott, on the one hand, and, on the other, I declared to myself that Mrs. Wharton, in 'The House of Mirth,' had written nothing more entertaining."

"This is an absolutely satisfying novel — a big thing in every sense of the word."

"Paradise Auction," is well worth reading." — New York Times.

"Paradise Auction," impresses us as an uncommonly fine story of American life. Hearts beat strongly in its pages." — Boston Herald.

BENNETT, ARNOLD (Author of "The Old Wives' Tale," etc.)

The Ghost: A Modern Fantasy

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.20

THE author of "The Old Wives' Tale" here tells a story that shows not only his versatility but also his consummate artistry in the creation of character and his exacting feeling for the right word.

In addition, he depicts a unique situation, developing an unhackneyed plot with rapid movement and unexpected turns which satisfy the reader's craving for the unusual and delight his sense of literary art.

The world of the opera forms the setting of the story and in its diverse elements the reader finds gradually developing the tempestuous love story of a brilliant and beautiful singer.

BILBRO, MATHILDE

The Middle Pasture

12mo. Cloth. With illustrations in color and black and white by Christine T. Curtiss and Frances Porter Pratt. Net, $1.35

"THE MIDDLE PASTURE" is a book for the whole family, old and young.

It is the story of the Crawfords, two families that dwell on either side of the middle pasture in the little town of Pine Grove, Alabama. The Crawfords and their many friends all have their problems, to be sure, but the problems are normal — like your own — and these pleasant people are all so interested in one another that life means happiness to them.

Beatrice Crawford tells the story and she is a delightful creature, a harum-scarum tomboy, whose anxiety for the happy outcome of the love affairs of half Pine Grove keeps her constantly in a state of palpitation. A most amazing series of surprises for the Crawfords keeps the reader's interest a-tiptoe, the while he chuckles over the many unexpected phrases and situations.

It is an exceptionally good book to read aloud — a wholesome, happy, mirth-provoking book for the whole family.

Miss Bilbro has a wide following throughout the country on account of the great popularity of the music which she has composed for children.

"There are all kinds of childish pranks and adventures, invariably natural and instinct with the true spirit of childhood and related just as such a child would relate them. A thoroughly enjoyable story."—New York Tribune.

"The author maintains the child's personality and psychology admirably without overdoing it and without depriving her of the very active intelligence which children have, and which most grown-up people deny them when they write about them or talk in front of them. This book is a good story about decent, lovable human beings told with directness and simplicity." — Independent.

BROWN, GEORGE ROTHWELL

My Country. A Story of America To-day

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated by Chase Emerson. Net, $1.35

HOW would you feel, if you had been brought to this country from Germany as a little boy, twenty odd years ago, had gone through years of hard work in the United States Navy unti you had made yourself internationally famous as a naval strategist — how would you feel, when everything in the spring of 1917 was tending towards hostilities between the land of your birth and the land of your adoption? Would it add to your difficulties to know that your twin brother was an officer in the German navy? Would it make you happier to realize that the girl you loved was somewhere in Germany?

This is Lieutenant-Commander Billy Hartmann's situation and the exciting story that Mr. Brown tells so engagingly is the story of how he works out the greatest problem in American life to-day.

BROWN, GEORGE ROTHWELL (Continued)

It is a thrilling story, too, with the elements of love, intrigue, secret missions, spies and detectives, secret service men, interned German sailors, the submarine, the wireless, problems of allegiance, the dramatic powers of a fascinating widow who is a secret agent without knowing it — yet, through it all runs the deeper note of "What is my country?"

"My Country" is the first novel to come out of our war with Germany,—a story of dual nationality, of torn hearts and triumphant patriotism. It is a significant book as well as an absorbing story.

"Teems with adventure and a deep sense of patriotism." — Washington Post.

"A story that takes the measure of 'Kultur' — a masterly exposure of German deviltry. It would be well to have it read by every American."— New York Tribune.

"A stirring story it is, so much adventure, good fighting and intrigue are packed into 'My Country.'" — Boston Post.

"The first American novel of our war. It is filled with intrigue, love, romance and war secrets." — New York Herald.

"Its atmosphere is filled with the German intrigue that amazed us during three years. It sets them forth in a manner that is as believable as it is sensational. Our eyes have already been opened to the almost incredible truth of German deeds, and they will remain wide open through the reading of every page of 'My Country.' It merely remains for Mr. Brown to write two novels yearly to become the Phillips Oppenheim of America. — Boston Transcript.

DICKSON, HARRIS

The House of Luck

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated by E. M. Ashe. Net, $1.35

ROUND an almost-forgotten but highly dramatic episode of the Lower Mississippi of the 'thirties, Mr. Dickson (already with "She That Hesitates," "The Black Wolf's Breed," "Old Reliable," etc., the winner of a reputation for stories that are stories) has woven a novel that, with its startling revelations of human ingenuity, its brilliant display of the rare qualities of supreme courage, the splendid sweep of its narrative, captures the reader's attention at the very outset and holds it utterly.

The title is derived from the strange house by the river bank, around which most of the action centers and to which the hidden strings of the mysterious "speculators" all come back.

"Dickson is a great story-teller ; he always has a story to tell and he knows how to tell it." — Cincinnati Times-Star.

The Yellow Wall Paper

GILMAN, DOROTHY FOSTER

✠The Bloom of Youth

GLASPELL, SUSAN (Author of "The Glory of the Conquered," etc.)

Fidelity

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.35

"FIDELITY" is one of the most brillant American novels, and Ruth Holland is a character that will linger long in the memory. The theme — the devotion of a young girl to the lover whose urgent need of her makes her loyalty to him self-sacrifice of a peculiarly poignant kind — is one that has seldom if ever been treated by an American novelist, and Miss Glaspell's remarkable skill in portraying the appealing situations which circumstances inevitably bring about is masterly.

"Brimming with life and love of living, faithful to her ideal of love and strong enough to preserve her fidelity even against herself, Ruth Holland is a character not soon to be forgotten." — Boston Transcript.

"It rings true from cover to cover, and this fact accounts in no small measure for its absorbing interest. The story is a big and real contribution to American novels." — New York Times.

"Nothing finer than he has ever appeared in fiction. His faith is glorious and his real appreciation of what it meant to be a Galahad Knight most touching. He saw that the Holy Grail is still to be sought in this world and still to be achieved, and that it is exemplified in noble purpose and right living. The story sets forth the very essence of faith in God, love of men and sound living." — Wilmington Every Evening.

HALLET, RICHARD MATTHEWS

The Lady Aft

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net $1.35

ONCE in a while a new writer of power and originality appears on the horizon. It is a rare privilege to be among the first to recognize him, as it was to discover such writers, for instance, as Jack London or Joseph Conrad. Mr. Hallet belongs to this select company.

In "The Lady Aft" he tells a tempestuous story of the life of a "stiff" — a green hand — in the forecastle of a sailing vessel of the present day, a story that stimulates and surprises the reader's imagination while it thrills and compels his unforced enthusiasm.

HALLET, RICHARD MATTHEWS (Continued)

"At last a writer worthy to be mentioned in the same breath with Joseph Conrad as an interpreter of the sailor and the sea. The author of 'The Lady Aft' is boldly individual. To those who prize that quality Mr. Hallet should be the most precious discovery in American fiction of recent years." — Boston Herald.

"The sweep of the sea and rush of winds, the flap of the frightened canvas and creaking of taut lines, the very roll and pitch of the old hooker is in the book. Indeed, Mr. Hallet knows the sea, knows the seaman and knows how to write." — Los Angeles Times.

The book is notable for its vivid pictures and characterizations of the men who 'get the steam." — New York Times.

" 'Trial by Fire' is a worthy companion of Ernest Poole's 'The Harbor." — New York Call.

"A gripping story." — Wisconsin Library Bulletin.

"A delightful piece of writing. There are not many modern stories told with such cleverness. The millionaires seem human — which is unusual since stories of their lives are generally written by those who know least about them from a personal standpoint — and the artists are excessively human as well as realistic. ✠The One and the Other

Small 12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.00

THEY were twin brothers and they were given names — real names—which were never used, for from the time they could creep they were known only as L'Un and L'Autre. It is L'Un who assumes the position of head of the family.

"A simple and appealing story. The Louisiana bayou-country atmosphere has been well preserved, and the Acadian patois is well handled." — A. L. A. Booklist.

"There is real charm and geniune human nature in this little story It deserves for its simplicity and truth a wide reading." — Outlook.

"A work of art, even better than the author's previous book, 'Marie of Arcady,' which is saying much." — San Francisco Argonaut.

MACBETH, MADGE

Kleath

12mo. Cloth. With illustrations in color and black and white by George W. Gage. Net, $1.35

A GLOWING STORY of Dawson City and life in the Klondike in the days of the rush for gold — a story that is distinctly different because the climax of the interest comes in the working out of a situation which would have been amazingly and emotionally big in any environment but which came, and could come, to its full flower only in such primitive and untrammeled conditions as existed in the Yukon region when the rush was at its height.

Christopher Kleath comes to Dawson to work on the new paper. There is mystery about him. He pays no attention to the wiles of the women who flock to Tim Meadows' saloon. In fact only Tim's daughter attracts him — and the wife of Dawson's physician is jealous, because the stranger fascinates her. The big scene of the story is an absolutely novel situation, dramatic to the last degree, and the reader closes the book with a feeling of having been in the presence of the very forces of nature herself, working inexorably on men and women in the grip of circumstance.

"A splendid story for those who like thrill and action, the doings of rugged men living under primitive conditions, strong in their hates and equally strong in their loves."—Boston Globe.

MacCONNELL, SARAH WARDER

Why, Theodora!

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated by Frank Godwin. Net, $1.25

"THE best kind of light fiction. It is written with an evident delight in its own charming heroine. The style is free, surprising and self-effacing. — New Republic.

Small 12mo. Cloth Net, 50 cents

"THIS story created a great amount of interest and speculation, perhaps more than any short story of the decade."—Boston Transcript.

INDEX OF SHORT STORIES FOR 1916.

"A volume that it is a pleasant duty to commend, alike for the wide variety and consistent quality of the entertainment its twenty tales offer to any lover of the short-story form; for the practical educative value of its author's sane, sound and uniquely applied and demonstrated criticism; and for the incalculable influence that its annual appearance and discriminating awards are coming to have upon American letters. Mr. O'Brien's work is a labor of love deserving of the widest recognition and support.—J. B. KERFOOT, in Life.

"Authors, editors, librarians, teachers of English, teachers of short story writing and others find it indispensable. Many colleges have adopted the book as a regular feature of their courses in English and short-story writing."—Philadelphia Ledger.

O'HIGGINS, HARVEY J.

Old Clinkers

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated by Martin Justice. Postpaid, $1.50

A THRILLING story of the fire-fighters, a companion volume to the same author's "The Smoke-Eaters."

O'SULLIVAN, VINCENT

The Good Girl

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50

A NOVEL of permanent literary significance which, says Edward Garnett, in the Atlantic Monthly, "entitles its author to a place among the first twenty American novelists."

"It is a work of genius in every sense of that work," says John Cowper Powys, in his One Hundred Best Books, "and it produces on the mind that curious sense of completness and finality which only such works produce."

Mr. O'Sullivan's short stories in such magazines as Scribner's, Century, etc., have gained him a rapidly growing circle of readers who are eager to read everything that he writes.

"It is not too much to say that 'The Good Girl' is one of the twenty best books by living American novelists." — New York Evening Post.

" 'The Good Girl' is a very candid effort, in which brilliance of portraiture nowise interferes with strong narrative interest." — Boston Herald.

"Its exceptional interest and quality are hereby commended to lovers of good fiction." — J. B. KERFOOT, in Life.

Sentiment

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.50

Mr. O'Sullivan's understanding of people is penetrating, but it is so warm-hearted that it has nothing of the cynicism so often associated with the interpreter of human nature. His portrayal of his characters, therefore, is exceedingly diverting and he tells his story with a whimsicality, as well as a sincerity, that make it a great delight to read.

O'SULLIVAN, VINCENT (Continued)

"Sentiment" will still further strengthen and confirm its author's standing as a novelist. Arnold Bennett burst upon the American reading public as an English novelist of power and genius whom it was a distinction and also a delight to know. Vincent O'Sullivan, by his recent return from twenty years in England, bids fair to have the same experience, and his rapidly growing circle of American admirers can take to themselves the added joy that he is an American.

PHILLIPS, MARY E.

Tommy Tregennis

12mo. Cloth. Printed on special deckle-edge paper. Net, $1.20

A CHARMING picture of life in a little Cornish fishing village presenting as its figure of chief interest a mischievous youngster by the name of Tommy Tregennis. It is one of those rare books that appeal to readers of all ages.

"Child psychology is so elusive and fleeting a thing that only occasionally is it captured and successfully imprisoned. By reason of its rarity it is all the more valued, and we cherish books whose standards are those of 'Emmy Lou' and 'Wee MacGreegor.' 'Tommy Tregennis' is fully capable of acquiring entrance to this advanced society." — Boston Transcript.

ROOF, KATHARINE METCALF

The Stranger at the Hearth

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.35

THE subject might be said to be New York City — now — to-day — and the great throngs of people of alien races that immigration has brought to our shores. Not how the alien can be Americanized but how the city that is called the American metropolis is being affected by the alien — de-Americanized, if we may adopt the idea of one of Miss Roof's characters — this is the standpoint from which Miss Roof views the substance of her story.

The story concerns a charming American woman who, after a ten year's absence, returns to visit New York, accompanied by her husband, a fascinating Italian nobleman.

"Fresh in spirit, unhackneyed in its directness, and worth reading as a representation of American life". — Boston Transcript.

SHEDD, GEORGE C.

The Incorrigible Dukane

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.25

THE story of a rich man's son who has been a good deal of a ne'er-do-well, and what he does when thrown on his own resources.

With John Barrymore in the title-role, "The Incorrigible Dukane" has been made into a moving-picture and has won an enviable success.

The Isle of Strife

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated by Stanley L. Wood. Net, $1.25

ON a quiet little island off the coast of Maine a young man in accidental possession of the plan of a European fortification becomes thereby involved in the most amazing adventures with German secret agents and incidentally becomes the centre of an absorbing romance.

"Capitally told, a vivid romance that holds our interest to the end." — San Francisco Argonaut.

"Never did a book live up to its title more accurately." — McClure's Magazine.

SHELDON, CHARLES M.

Of One Blood

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.25

THE theme of this remarkable novel by the famous author of "In His Steps" is the brotherhood of man.

"A watchword of peace for days of strife." — Congregationalist.

"He knows how to strike the note of elemental human feeling. He can, also, and frequently does in these pages, write with eloquence and persuasive force. It will make a strong appeal to young men." — New York Times.

"It has a sincerity that cannot be ignored." — New York Evening Post.

"A strong story. It is a book that will arouse dissent, but will be difficult to answer." — Chicago Advance.

SIDGWICK, ETHEL

✠Hatchways

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50

"IT is gladdening that the one recent novel which contains the clearest glimpse of serene and timeless beauty should be also among the most local and realistic. Hatchways is.....an unpretentious social comedy of eight or nine unforgettable people, introduced to us at a country estate which gives its name to the book. Hatchways is one expression of its mistress, Mrs. Ernestine Redgate: like her, it is coolness and quietude, taste and beauty, a haven of all the perfections. To tired people, the very thought of Hatchways was peace. The other, more intangible, expression of Ernestine is her silent and effortless smoothing out of many tangles in the lives of people who will never realize what she has done for them.

"Hatchways has received the stupid official frown of the London Athenaeum for having nothing to do with the war. It has, everything. To begin with, Miss Sidwick shows us the best of England and the best of France flashing out like released lightning to accept each other, in the time before the war. But there is a greater thing, which can be expressed only by saying that the book swallowed the war, gulped it down, got outside of it without a thought of evasion. This is why every chapter has the tremulous and noble beauty of a face which, having once known and conquered the uttermost of sorrow, can thereafter smile — and wait.

"Even the principled student of letters will at some time or other incontinently risk himself in prophecy; and at least one student is predicting that the twenty-first century will hear pens scratching (if there are any left then) in honor of this novelist's centenary, as the present year hears them in honor of Jane Austen's. One hopes it will be as late as possible in the twenty-first century."—Atlantic Monthly.

A Lady of Leisure

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50

A BRILLIANTLY written novel of English upper class life, the story of a charming, clever girl endowed with all that wealth and social position can give her, who, to gratify a whim, enters a dressmaking business with a worthy but bromidic and tasteless lady who has an establishment at Battersea. Among those who are closely associated with this "work for choice" lady of leisure are her parents, whose domestic relations are in a measure responsible for her choice of a profession, a clergyman, his second wife and their respective children by previous marriages, a gardener named Vane Peacock, who is a handsome creature with a mysterious past and the son of a baronet—all characters who have stepped from life into the pages of Miss Sidgwick's book. The story is told with rare appreciation of values and with exceptional literary finish.

"Brilliant conversation, delicate and allusive treatment of love situations and wit mark the tale." —Outlook.

Duke Jones

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50

"A CONTINUATION of 'A Lady of Leisure.' It carries on the story of Violet Ashwin and Charles Shovell after their marriage. Violet and Charles, while on their honeymoon down in Cornwall, make friends with Marmaduke Jones, an unimposng little man who attracted these two bright and whimsical young people by his very insignificance. Charles said that Jones had beien born without an aura and believed that he had discovered in him the proverbial 'man in the street.' But Jones, unimportant as he is, proves to be made of heroic stuff and rises nobly to the occasion that gives him his opportunity to show his loyalty and devotion to these two friends. The affairs of the three become interwoven with those of Violet's beautiful and erring cousin, Lisette. Violet's mother, Lady Ashwin, is also an important figure in the story." — Book Review Digest.

"It is full of interest and of subtlety, and finely written." — London Spectator.

"Miss Ethel Sidgwick has written another novel of quality. All of Miss Sidgwick's well-known characteristics are here — the design, the delicate creation, the vivacity and the humane charm. The story indeed, as a mere feat in holding the reader's attention, is noteworthy. And, while not without subtlety, it is a tale for all readers, and not for the mere literary. A very fine novel — one of the finest in recent years." — Springfield Republican.

✠The Accolade

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50

"THIS novel belongs to the group that already includes 'A Lady of Leisure" and 'Duke Jones.' In it Miss Sidgwick continues her study of the Ingestre family, devoting herself this time to the main branch and to young John Ingestre, the heir. Young John inherits a love for the stage and a talent for acting from his grandmother. Cut short in a career in which he might have found scope for his abilities and an outlet for his tempestuous humors, and forced into an uncongenial marriage, he is, at the opening of this story, ready for an outbreak. It comes in his love for beautiful Helena Falkland, much younger than he, but congenial and sympathetic to his moods as his perfectly balanced Ursula could never be. In her handling of the forces that restrain him, the author exercises her characteristically delicate skill." — Book Review Digest.

"Miss Sidgwick is one of the supreme English novelists of today. . . The artistic triumph of 'The Accolade' is an honor to English fiction. Not only in John Ingestre does Miss Sidgwick triumph, but in every character in the story. It is a fine achievement."—WILLIAM STANLEY BRAITHWAITE, in the Boston Transcript.

"Many sided and luminous, it cannot fail to leave with its readers an abiding impression, a sense, too, of having been ennobled by its companionship." — New York Times.

"To readers of fine fiction, a novel by Miss Sidgwick is always a notable literary event. She has established herself as an artist in finished character-drawing, in delicate design and creation and in sympathetic comedy. 'The Accolade' is a book that will stand with the permanent volumes of English fiction, as will this author's other work." — Chicago Evening Post.

"Discriminating investors will derive from their outlay of time and money a thoroughly adequate return in their enjoyment of this writer's deftness and delicacy, both of perception and treatment." — Life.

"She is the first and thus far the only English woman novelist of a younger generation (artistically at least) who, with each new laudable performance, continues to give new promise as well. In her books plot and character are inextricably interwoven, a firm whole of interaction and reaction." — New York Tribune.

✠Herself

12mo. Cloth. Frontispiece in color by Carton Moorepark. Net, $1.50

A STORY that is primarily a study of Irish character. Harriett Clench is the daughter of a clan, the Clenches, who originated somewhere "West of West" in Ireland. The Clenches as a clan are hot, impulsive, impractical and lovable. Harriet differs from them in that she is practical, and her father Brian and her cousin Pat, known universally as "Kathleen's son," are typical of the clan at its improvident best. Harriet is left, consequently, to face the world unaided. She does so in a French girls' school and as a private secretary in an English provincial neighborhood where her Irish independence and charm are misunderstood. The man of the story is Geoffry Horn, an Englishman, who first comes into the Clench family history by befriending Patrick in Paris.

"A charmingly written story." — A. L. A. Booklist.

"The charm of the book is in its quiet quaint flavor, its new and unlabored twang of style in the best sense of the word." — The Nation.

✠Promise

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50

A STORY which follows the development of a child genius. The child of promise is Antoine Edgell, half English and half French. His musical genius and the artistic temperament the boy inherits from his French mother, but together with his brilliance and ability there is in him a level-headedness and a consistency of purpose which must have been an inheritance from his father, the practical engineer. For through all the phases of his development, while those in whose care he is are trying to shape his career, the boy holds persistently his own individuality and follows out his own purposes. As in other books by the author, this one is rich in vivid characterization.

"An unusual story. The life of a young musical genius, half French and half English, is portrayed during his childhood and schooldays, and the theme consists in proving the futility of the influence either of environment or personality in controlling his artistic impulse." — A. L. A. Booklist.

"It would be hard to find in recent fiction anywhere a more complete, life-like and brilliant characterization than this." — New York Times.

"Miss Sidgwick has entered the field of fiction to become a commanding figure."— New York Sun.

Succession: A Comedy of the Generations

A Continuation of " Promise "

12 mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50

MISS SIDGWICK continues in "Succession" what she began in 'Promise', the history of the boy violinist of genius, Antoine Edgell, half French and half English, from the time he returns to France to live with his old grandfather the composer, his uncle and his elder brother until he is taken away again by his British father "for his health's sake" on a trip to America. It takes him therefore through a vital period of his triumphant career, from his debut in London to his success in Paris and Munich; reintroduces most of the characters in "Promise" and adds many new ones, drawn with equal brillance. The temperament of the musician and the genius is the theme; the psychological analysis is subtly subordinated to the humanities of the principal characters; and the conclusion is a triumph for the younger generation. The novel, as a work of art, is of course quite complete in itself.

"She appears to us to possess that true imaginative gift, as distinguished from the mere power of vivid reporting, which is the necessary qualification for continuing to produce work of permanent value in fiction." — London Times.

" 'Succession' is a finished literary performance which, regarded from many points of view, is remarkable. We express our admiration for the rare skill with which a succession of three generations of a gifted family, viewed merely in their physical relationship one to another, or in their artistic inheritance, is handled. The boy, left by his English father under contract to the great French virtuoso, his grandfather, escapes and achieves succcess with comparative ease, but the torture which a highly strung temperament can suffer at the hands of his best and dearest makes a study of poignant interest. The technical quality of the dialogue and the restrained yet profound emotional interest show the artistry of the writer." — London Athenaeum.

"It places Miss Sidgwick unmistakably among the leading novelists of the day." — London Morning Post.

"A novel that leaves one remembering a chain of scenes vividly impressed, and a good dozen of characters profoundly imagined and beautifully drawn." — Manchester Guardian.

"In the person of this young woman a new figure of unusually brilliant power has arisen in English fiction. She is the first woman novelist of the new period — the period of Wells, Galsworthy, Bennett, Merrick and Walpole — to accomplish as they have accomplished the conquest of the American public and critics. Miss Sidgwick comes of distinguished family connections in the English literary world. 'Succession' is indeed a tremendous piece of work. It is not only one of the big novels of the year, but also a permanent contribution to English fiction." — Boston Transcript.

"Ethel Sidgwick is the world's next great woman novelist. I'm confident that within ten years the critical perspective will show her on this pinnacle. Since George Eliot and the Brontës, I can think of no woman who has focused art and life so intensely into novel writing." — MARGARET C. ANDERSON, in The Little Review (Chicago).

✠ Le Gentleman

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50

THE "gentleman" of the story is Alexander Fergusson, a Scotsman with an Oxford education who comes to Paris for a needed rest and to be near Meysie Lampeter, the English girl to whom he is engaged. The title is given him in half derision by a young French girl who in her study of English literature has reached Tennyson's "Idyls" and who finds in him the ideal of an English gentleman there exemplified in King Arthur. In the bohemian society to which Meysie's friends belong and in the intimacy into which he finds himself drawn with Gilberte, Alexander is called on to live up to that ideal, just as Gilberte is required to be true to her own ideals of family duty.

"The atmosphere of the Latin Quarter is convincing and the story is exceedingly well done." — A. L. A. Booklist.

"The detail of the story is fresh and delightful." — Nation.

SNAITH, J. C.

Broke of Covenden

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.35

THE STORY of an English country family. This wonderful novel, first published in 1904, has sturdily outlived many a "best-seller" and to-day its place is secure among the really great works of English fiction.

"From the first moment Mr. Snaith makes your attention his willing slave you read with that rare vacillation which urges you to hurry forward for the story and to linger for the detail." — Atlantic Monthly.

STEELE, L. M.

Dr. Nick

12mo. Cloth. Frontispiece in color by Ronald Anderson. Net, $1.40

DOCTOR RIDEAU was a wonderful man, half priest, half healer, beloved of all the poor in the neighborhood of his hospital — especially the mothers. So it was not strange, when the little Russian boy, Nikon, arrived in America to find that his father had been killed that morning and that the authorities wanted to send him back to Russia, that Doctor Rideau should recognize the beauty of his spirit as coming from a great love and should also note the wonder of his hands. Doctor Rideau took Nikon into the hospital and there he grew up and became a doctor.

Meanwhile Naida was growing up. Her girlhood, like Nikon's boyhood, was spent among scenes where life was deeply involved with struggle, yet like Nikon she had her imagination and she clothed her world with happiness.

So when, at the beginning of the story, Nikon and Naida meet, they have learned to know what life means to them.

Their story is the story of what they come to mean to each other.

"There is every evidence of real genius in this absorbing story, with its wonderful beginning and innumerable passages that arrest attention." —Boston Globe.

" 'Dr. Nick' makes a distinct claim on our attention. No New York novel of recent date has surpassed 'Dr. Nick' in original and creative character work, and no fervent believer in individualism has come nearer to fitting the figment of his dreams into the fabric of actual life."—J. B. KERFOOT, in Life.

"A remarkable book, worthy of much more than a casual reading of the thoughts expressed, and containing at least one vital character which will not be readily forgotten." — New York Times.

STEPHENS, JAMES (Author of "The Crock of Gold," etc.)

✠Mary, Mary

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.20

"A charming story full of delicacy and humorous insight, which relates the growing up of 'Mary Makebelieve,' the dreamy, imaginative little daughter of an Irish charwoman." — A. L. A. Booklist.

It is hard to read goodness into the Great War or to apply EMERSON'S doctrine of compensations to it—though perhaps our sons and grandsons will be equal to that task. But JAMES STEPHENS hadn't world history in mind when he wrote "Mary, Mary," and perhaps that is why "Mary, Mary" makes such good reading in war time."—Editorial in Collier's Weekly of June 23, 1917.

STEVENSON, BURTON E. (Author of "The Holladay Case," "The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet, etc.)

A King in Babylon

12mo. Cloth. With illustrations in color and in black and white by W. H. D. Koerner. Net, $1.50

DO you ever long for a story that will give you the same keen enjoyment that was yours when you used to yield in glad surrender to the spell of some master story-teller, to read on and on in delighted anticipation, until at the end you drew a long breath and rushed out to tell your next friend that you had discovered a great story?

Well, here you have it!

No mere account of the story can give you much of an idea of its power. It is a tale that is new — the story of an American motion picture company and the things that befall them as they film a great picture in the romantic setting of a lovely Egyptian oasis.

VAN LOAN, CHARLES E.

✠The Ten-Thousand-Dollar Arm

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated by Wallace Goldsmith. Net, $1.25

"A COLLECTION of unusually good baseball stories, containing much more character study than description of spectacular games. It will appeal to all devotees of the game as played to-day, and to men whose interest is neither unusually keen nor up-to-date." — A. L. A. Booklist.

VAN SCHAICK, GEORGE

A Top-Floor Idyl

12mo. Cloth. With illustrations by Chase Emerson. Net, $1.50

IN his new book Mr. Van Schaick tells a charming story of a young mother and her blessed baby, of David, the diffident bachelor novelist who is her neighbor on the top floor of an old-fashioned New York boarding-house, of a "strong-minded" but gentle-souled woman painter, and of a young physician with ideas of his own about human nature.

The story is idyllic in sentiment but none the less dramatic in its big moments — and the readers of the author's "Sweetapple Cove," "The Son of the Otter," and "The Girl at Big Loon Post" know what to expect in his treatment of the simple fundamentals of the human drama.

"A Top-Floor Idyl" is more like "Sweetapple Cove" in style and sentiment than any other book the author has written since the publication of that popular story.

✠The Girl at Big Loon Post

12mo. Cloth. With a frontispiece in color and three other illustrations in black and white by I. D. Sisson. Net, $1.50

A DEEPLY moving story of the great north woods, of life and love at a Hudson's Bay trading-post, of chicanery and intrigue, of bravery and devotion.

The author knows his country and few writers can compete with him as a story-teller in his chosen field. Like his previous books, the new novel is marked by an unaffected sincerity, which adds zest to the reader's pleasure.

Listed by the A. L. A. Booklist in the Small Library List.

> "Those who have read that fine story 'The Son of the Otter' will expect something good from the pen of its author. In 'The Girl at Big Loon Post' he gives us a vivid picture of a Hudson's Bay trading-post in which the noble and the vile sides of human nature are revealed. The story is as full of exciting episodes as any of Dumas' romances." — Rochester Post-Express.

†The Son of the Otter

12mo. Cloth. With a frontispiece in color by George W. Gage. Net, $1.35

THE scenes of "The Son of the Otter" are laid in a country little traversed in fiction. One gets a vivid picture of the great trackless wastes of the Canadian fur country — its long bitterly cold days, and nights full of strange terror. The love of Ahteck, the big trapper, a man of primitive instincts and large virtues, for little Mititesh, is full of wild beauty and romance.

There is a spaciousness and breadth in Mr. Van Schaick's style which gives whatever he writes a strong emotional appeal. From cover to cover one is held spellbound as the plot unfolds, and one lays the book down with a sigh of regret that there is not more to follow.

"Mr. Van Schaick has done something new. He has written a story of the great North in which the characters, not only in semblance but in spirit, are human beings. Drawn simply and boldly, without any heroics, the figure of Ahteck is extraordinarily impressive. The style is plain and direct, with the restraint that gives evidence of reserve power." — Nation.

" 'The Son of the Otter' must not be thought of for an instant as 'another of those Canadian stories.' It is different and better, a romance, truly enough, but not of southern civilization transplanted in the north. It is of the north itself, and the hero is an Indian, as is his well-beloved, and they are real and simple souls, not so greatly different after all from people in more clement climates. The idyl is carried through the yellow forests to summer and the terrible white cold of winter's darkness, and always it bears the air of romantic truth." — Chicago Daily News.

"The novel is of high order and literary merit, ranking with the Canadian stories of Sir Gilbert Parker." — Baltimore Sun.

12mo. Cloth. Frontispiece in full color by George W. Gage. Net, $1.50

WHEN John Grant decides to leave the promising practice which he has begun to call his own in New York, and voluntarily go where life is harder and a man must prove himself a man as well as a physician, he goes "home" to Newfoundland. Quite by chance he chooses to settle in Sweetapple Cove, where a brave parson and his brave wife have been ministering to the physical as well as the spiritual ills of the fisher-folk, to whom life is a constant struggle with death. To the Cove in search of the excellent salmon fishing of which he has heard comes Walter Jellifie, in his yacht Snowbird, accompanied by his daughter, Helen, Jelliffe breaks his leg and is laid up for weeks with Grant as his physician — and then the story begins! It is a rare story of heroism, of the out-of-doors in calm and storm, of true love — a story told with transparent sincerity that gives the author at once a place among the writers of real literature.

"A wholesome, thrilling story, full of the winds of the sea, of unaffected sentiment and of the bravery of simple, unaffected folk is something to be marked, as the saying goes, with a white stone. So let there be a white stone at once for 'Sweetapple Cove', to signalize it as a delightful story, well worth reading." — Springfield Republican.

A book admirably conceived and well done. It has freshness and vitality, excellent pictures of island life and a fine, noble spirit throughout."—Springfield Republican.

WALLACE, EDGAR

The Clue of the Twisted Candle

12mo. Cloth. Frontispiece in color by I. D. Sisson. Net, $1.35

THERE is action a-plenty in this exciting story of the skill of Kara, the Greek, — educated at Yale and notable in London society for his unlimited purse — in weaving a net about his friends and acquaintances, and especially about one whose life is so strangely bound up with his own.

There are only a few genuinely unusual detective stories in the world; this seems likely to be added to their number. And the particular reader will appreciate the way in which the story is told.

"A decidedly clever, well-worked-out detective story."—Outlook.

Kate Plus 10

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.35

IN "The Clue of the Twisted Candle," which proved to be one of the most popular detective stories of recent years, Mr. Wallace won for himself a large circle of readers who are eagerly awaiting his next book.

Here it is — "Kate Plus 10!"

There is something mysterious, something inviting, in the very name of "Kate Plus 10!"

Who is Kate? And who — or what — are the 10?

Michael Pretherston knows and because he is a real detective he keeps his own counsel. He gets a lot of fun out of his job, too, and is such a neat and skilful workman that even the men who are trying to beat him have to acknowledge that he is a good sport. And when he carries his good sportsmanship too far for his own safety, and the girl's — but let Mr. Wallace tell it.

And Mr. Wallace does tell it delightfully. The mystery is intense throughout, the ingenuity of the detective is absorbing, and the whole story is told with a charm, a quiet humor and a skill at the depicting of human nature that make every chapter a real pleasure to read.

"A masterpiece of its kind."—New York Evening Post.

WASON, ROBERT ALEXANDER

And Then Came Jean

12mo. Cloth. Frontispiece in color. Net, $1.35

"Jean is a nice 'heroine' and that decidedly, for she is quite beyond the plane of the ordinary girl, who might be analyzed as interesting as Henry Ham himself, but she furnishes a bright thread of romance, and the reaction of her influence on Henry

WASON, ROBERT ALEXANDER (Continued)

Ham is the real point. And so Henry Ham finally grows up, out of foolish, youthful bravado into sure and quiet purpose — and there is nothing more to do but close the book. But one does so with a heart warmed by the humanness of it, inspired by the fineness of it, moved to mirth by the humor of it."—Chicago Tribune.

✠Friar Tuck

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated by Stanley L. Wood. Net, $1.35

"The story contains plenty of excitement, some fun and much human nature." — A. L. A. Booklist.

Happy Hawkins

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated by Howard Giles. Net, $1.50

"ONE opens 'Happy Hawkins' expecting the usual ranch and cowboy novel. Abundant, in truth, are ranch and cowboy, guns, gambling dens — but they all stand for something better and larger than 'effects.' Happy Hawkins tells his own story in undiluted western language. His story is so good and he tells it with such a fine capacity for knowing how to do it that every page does, indeed, hold the interest in a grip that is at first surprise, then admiration, and at last positive affection. The most dialect-weary reader must own that here the dialect is an indispensable charm; and those who stop the ears when American humor is mentioned need have no fear — for here is the thing in its best estate. Melodrama there is, but far more of daily human nature. In an occasional flaming color, there is revealed less of the theatrical than of the eternal boyish. The question is: has any novel of the West as good as this been written since 'The Virginian'?" — Nation.

Happy Hawkins in the Panhandle

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.50

"Happy Hawkins is easily the boss of the rollicking, adventurous, cowboy heroes of the year. An admirable open-air story." — Portland (Oregon) Telegram.

"This is another story of the engaging cowboy who has already figured in several stories of ranch life. It is full of humor."—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Knight-Errant

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated by Hanson Booth. Net, $1.25

"The story is well written and dramatic; the range of emotion runs deep." — Christian Science Monitor.

BILBRO, MATHILDE

12mo. Cloth. With illustrations by Christine T. Curtiss and Frances Porter Pratt. Net, $1.35

FOR a wide-awake young girl no less than for her mother and grandmother, this is a most delightful story. It is told by Beatrice Crawford, aged thirteen. She and her brother are two of the most genuine children in modern American fiction, children who have keen eyes and know how to use them.

"The Middle Pasture" has placed Miss Bilbro in that select company that includes Louisa M. Alcott, Kate Douglas Wiggin and L. M. Montgomery, as lovers of "Little Women," "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" and "Anne of Green Gables" gladly testify.

"The story of two families of Crawfords living in Pine Grove, Alabama, of their characters, their quarrels, their friends and their big mystery is entertainingly told by one of them, Beatrice, aged thirteen."—Independent.

"Beatrice is a charming girl character." — Boston Transcript.

The Dog and the Child and the Ancient Sailor Man

12mo. Cloth. With a frontispiece by Arthur Hutchins. Net, $1.00

THE author of "Happy Hawkins" is at his best when he is dealing with dogs and horses. In "The Dog and the Child and the Ancient Sailor Man," he has given us a dog that will live. The "Child" is a youngster who is being brought up by rule, by a mother who has one idea and a father who is indulgently, though in his inmost heart skeptically, acquiescent. What happens when a Great Dane is introduced into the scheme of things is amazing to the mother, but the accidental interruption to her rule of life brought about by the appearance of the Ancient Sailor Man caps the climax.

"A deliciously humorous story." — Boston Herald.

"Any one who is fond of dogs, and of children, and of fine old men with young hearts will find it a thing of delight from its first page to its last." — Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"'The dog' will find his place among the many beloved dogs of fiction, Rab, Patrasche, Bob, Son of Battle, and the rest."— Boston Post.

WELLS, H. G. (Author of "Mr. Britling Sees It Through", etc.)

✠ Floor Games

4to. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.25

"DESCRIBES and illustrates games which Mr. Wells plays with his two sons. They appeal both to the intelligence and the imagination and are based largely on the use of boards and planks of varying sizes, helped out with blocks, toy soldiers and animals, etc. Though printed in large type, attractively illustrated and bound in the style of a child's book, it is intended to be suggestive to 'other fathers and mothers and to uncles and such-like tributary sub-species of humanity.' " — A. L. A. Booklist.

"Let all fathers buy this book and see how an autnor has played with his own sons; read it, first for its agreeable manner and then for the suggestions. 'The jolliest indoor games for boys and girls demand a floor,' says Mr. Wells, 'and the home that has no floor upon which games may be played falls so far short of happiness.' 'One may build cities on a floor, erect hills across dictionaries, and run engines into the realms of other rooms!' " — Literary Digest.

Little Wars

4to. Cloth. With 20 photographs of miniature battlefields and 80 marginal drawings by J. R. Sinclair, printed throughout in two colors.

Net, $1.25

"A GAME for boys from twelve years of age to one hundred and fifty," says Mr. Wells, "and for that more intelligent sort of girls who like boys' games and books." With an appendix of special rules showing how a kriegspiel of educational value for the training of army officers may be developed out of the amusing methods of "Little Wars."

Mr. Wells has developed his game so that the country over which the campaign is to be fought is laid out in any desired manner, with the aid of branches of shrubs as trees, with cardboard bridges, rocks, chalked-out rivers, streams and fords, cardboard forts, barracks, houses, and what not; there are employed leaden infantrymen and cavalrymen, and guns to hit the toy soldiers.

There are strict rules governing the combat. Before a battle begins, the country is divided by the drawing of a curtain across it for a short time, so that the general of each opposing army may dispose of his forces without the enemy's being aware of that disposition. Then the curtains are drawn back and the action begins.

All moves of men and guns are timed. An infantryman moves not more than a foot at a time, a cavalryman not more than two feet, and a gun, according to whether cavalry or infantry are with it, from one to two feet.

"We welcome it as a novel activity, and one that could be put to more than an imaginative test. Military strategy and tactics require keen wit and acute analytical powers. Many a nursery floor will be turned into a battlefield once the code of warfare as worked out by Mr. Wells is mastered. We can imagine Napoleon feasting an such a diversion."—Literary Digest.

SHELLPROOF MACK

An American's Fighting Story

By Arthur Mack, late of the 23d Battalion of the London Regiment, H. M. Imperial Army

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.35

FROM the theatre to the trenches, from acting to action, from vaudeville to victory, Arthur Mack's career has indeed been a varied one. A Boston boy, who got his first taste of military matters when a student at Norwich University, Arthur Mack enlisted in the British Army in 1915. Now, after twenty-eight months of real fighting in some of the greatest battles of the war, he is back home.

"By this time it takes an unusual war book to arouse our attention — one in which, in addition to unimpeachable accuracy of technical description, there is a decided personal element, a characteristic touch, a new slant of vision at the life and problems of fighting. It is because Arthur Mack, author of SHELLPROOF MACK, has these things to an amusing degree that we have read his book with a decided amount of relish. It is because he so deftly voices just what the average New Yorker will probably think and undergo at the front, and says it with underlying sanity and a sense of proportion that we like his book. In his preface, Private Mack is careful to explain that his volume 'lacks everything that would be put into such story by a professional writer — the brilliancy of expression and the vividness of narrative.' As a matter of fact, it is because he has both of these qualities, that we enjoyed reading SHELLPROOF MACK."—Town and Country.

THE GERMAN SECRET SERVICE IN AMERICA

By John Price Jones and Paul Merrick Hollister

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $2.00

"NO newspaper man is better qualified than Mr. John Price Jones to tell the story of the German Secret Service system in America. From the very beginning, as a reporter for the New York Sun, he covered the activities of the secret service and other Government agencies in exposing German plots and catching German plotters.

"I came into contact with him daily and found his work thorough, painstaking and highly intelligent, so it is no surprise to me to find in 'The German Secret Service in America' a clear presentation of the facts.

"All those who have been directly concerned with the activities of German agents in America will recognize at once that this book does not suffer from a complaint which is too common in writing detective material, in that it is not overdrawn. Once in a blue moon there comes along a writer whose ability to tell his story, coupled with his respect for the truth, compels our admiration of his work. Such a man is Mr. Jones, and if you want to know what we have been up against in our pursuit of the underground Hun, read his book The widest possible audience for it will insure us against the further evils of the system he describes."

(Signed) William J. Flynn,
Former Chief, U. S. Secret Service.

THE PEAK OF THE LOAD (Tentative Title)

By Mildred Aldrich, author of "A Hilltop on the Marne," "On the Edge of the War Zone," "Told in a French Garden," etc.

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.35

THE ebb tide of battle comes back again to the Marne, where at the present moment America's soldiers are fighting shoulder to shoulder with the valiant French. Again Miss Aldrich sees history in the making from her house on the hilltop; in fact, she has been writing this new book under the very guns and airplanes of the enemy. They are within a few miles of her "Hilltop on the Marne." Her first book told of the suspense with which she watched the approach and the retreat of Von Kluck's army: her second described the work and life of her village, when the Germans had been pushed back well beyond the danger line; the third Marne book, now announced, will deal with the suspense of the second approach of the Huns in their mad drive for Paris.

BEYOND THE MARNE

By Henriette Cuvru-Magot

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.00

NOT the least interesting thing about this little book is the fact that its author is a friend and neighbor of Miss Mildred Aldrich, author of "A Hilltop on the Marne," "On the Edge of the War Zone," etc., and the book contains frequent references to Miss Aldrich "in her habit as she lives." Mademoiselle Henriette is the "little friend" who, as Miss Aldrich tells us in "On the Edge of the War Zone," came to her, the day after the Germans were driven away on the other side of the Marne, to suggest that Miss Aldrich go with her to visit the battlefield. Since the battle, she has been a nurse, — in fact, in "On the Edge of the War Zone" is a photograph of her "looking so pretty in her nurse's dress and veil." Her book might be called truly a companion volume to "A Hilltop on the Marne." It is a simple, personal narrative of the events of August and September, 1914 — and especially of that September week that saved France and civilization — as they appeared to the dwellers in the valley of the Marne. It shows a fine faith and an unbending trust in the eternal destiny of France.

COVERED WITH MUD AND GLORY

By Georges Lafond, Sergeant-Major, Territorial Hussars, French Army; Intelligence Officer, Machine Gun Sections, French Colonial Infantry. Translated by Edwin Gile Rich. With an Introduction by Maurice Barrès, of the French Academy and "A Tribute to the Soldiers of France," by Georges Clemenceau

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50

"SERGEANT-Major Lafond, of the Territorial Hussars, has not hitherto been known to fame. But writing from the fulness of a gallant soldier's heart and life, he has produced a volume epical in character and in literary style, as gracefully translated from the French by Edwin Gile Rich, by no means unworthy to have a preface from the pen of Maurice Barres, Academician, while in its revelations of French heroism it is splendidly in tune with Clemenceau's eloquent 'Tribute to the Soldiers of France.'

"It is a moving, living picture, a panorama of life, service, fighting, with a machine gun company on the battle front. It is instinct everywhere with intense vitality, with humor, with pathos and with a dramatic sense such as we have seldom seen surpassed. There is romance, too, or it would not have been written by a Frenchman. But in all the varied scenes there is not a single false note, not one uncertain touch. We have had books of this type from American and from British writers. Place by the side of the very best of them this from a Frenchman's pen and be grateful for la belle alliance." — New York Tribune.

THE AMERICAN WAR CAMPS SERIES

Each volume, 12mo., profusely illustrated from photographs taken under the authorization of the War Department and the Committee on Public Information. Net, 50 cents

CAMP DEVENS

By Roger Batchelder, author of "Watching and Waiting on the Border"

"IN breezy English Mr. Batchelder traces life at Camp Devens, Ayer, Massachusetts, from the time it received its first batches of motley recruits. The humor of the post, some of its discipline and much of its routine are well put between covers for the delectation of friends and relatives of soldiers trained there." —Boston Herald.

CAMP UPTON. Described and photographed by Roger Batchelder.

THE Camp Upton Unit has been aptly termed "The Metropolitan Division" as every man in the division was formerly a resident of greater New York. As Camp Devens has written the name of Ayer on the war annals of the country, and Camp Grant emblazoned with fame the town of Rockford, so has Camp Upton, the home of the metropolitan draft men, made Yaphank, Long Island, to the mind of the New Yorker, far more important than the provincial cities of Philadelphia and Boston.

CAMP DIX. Described and photographed by Roger Batchelder.

LOCATED at Wrightstown, New Jersey, where draft men from New Jersey, Delaware and New York state are in training.

CAMP LEE. Described and photographed by Roger Batchelder.

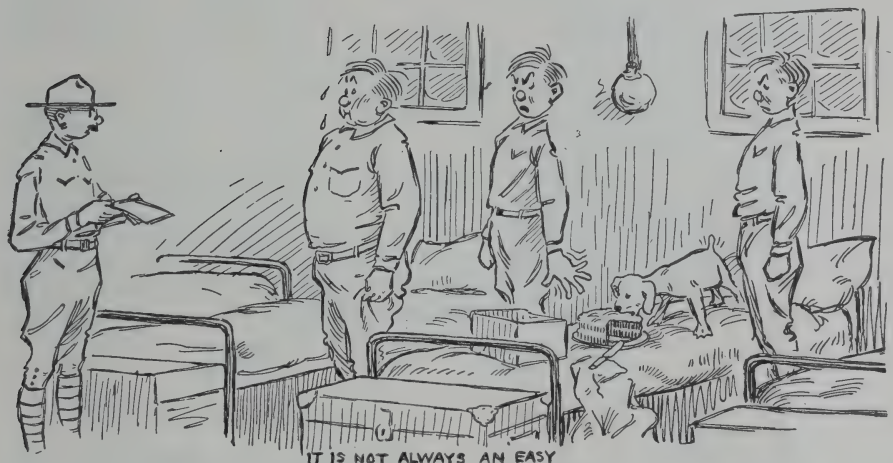
THREE miles distant from Petersburg, Virginia, where draft men from Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania are in training.

THE PERILS OF A PRIVATE

By "Ted" Stanley

12mo. Boards. Net, 50 cents

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE, humorous interpretations, in pen and ink, of the life of a private who is learning to be a soldier at one of the government training camps.



IT IS NOT ALWAYS AN EASY MATTER TO STAND AT ATTENTION

Like the soldier of Civil War days who answered General Ben Butler's question, "Who can repair this broken-down locomotive?" with "I can. I made it!"—"Ted" Stanley answers that he can mighty well depict the perils of a private because "I've been all through it!" A very able cartoonist, "Ted" Stanley is a private in a Motor Truck Company, and he drew each and every one of the cartoons included in this remarkable collection in the barracks at Camp Devens after his day's work of "intensive training" was over. A crowd of good fellows gathered around him, the cartoonist found out immediately if a picture didn't pass muster. All of the cartoons included in this book have, accordingly, been censored by a squad of rollicking rookies, who pronounced them "the real stuff."

THE WHITE FLAME OF FRANCE

By Maude Radford Warren, author of "Peter Peter," "Barbara's Marriages," etc.

12mo. Illustrated. Net, $1.50

THE front line trenches at Rheims during a bombardment when the shells were whistling over, two Zeppelin raids in London, the heroic services of devoted actors and actresses when they played for the soldiers of Verdun, the irony of the mad slaughter, the indestructability of human courage and ideals, the spirit and soul of suffering France, the real meaning of the war — all these things are interpreted in this remarkable book by a novelist with a brilliant record in the art of writing, who spent more than half a year "over there."

"A flame of courage to live, work and hope. The spiritual reconstruction of a generation. Maude Radford Warren beheld this, and describes it vividly in a book vibrant with vigorous individuality. On the grand route to Verdun, in Nancy the invincible, in Switzerland the 'good little pawn', in Paris, and many places, some not far removed from the trench, she came in close contact with soldiers and civilians, the young and the old; with all classes. Let us gratefully note a professional writer whose impressions of war are not subordinated to impressions of herself." —Boston Herald.

TALONS OF TREACHERY. (Tentative Title)

By Thomas J. Tunney, Captain and Inspector of Police, New York City, and head of the famous "Bomb Squad"

12mo. Illustrated. Net, $2.00

INSPECTOR TUNNEY, with his "bomb squad", was personally responsible for the unearthing and thwarting of many of the most serious German attempts on the peace and safety of the United States. In this book he tells how he worked out these now famous cases. The cases covered include, among others, the anarchist bomb explosions in the New York City churches; the Fay case; the Hindu plot; the Holt case — blowing up the Senate wing of the Capitol and the shooting of J. Pierpont Morgan; the ship fire plots; the rubber smuggling plots; the Trotzky papers; the Paul Koenig case; the work of Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, etc., etc. This book, by one of the world's really great detectives, reads like a Sherlock Holmes adventure—and is every word true.

"LONG LIVE THE KAISER—!"
By the American Press Humorists

12mo. Boards. Illustrated. Net, 50 cents

Drawn by Orson Lowell, New York

FORTY-TWO satirical verses and drawings by such well-known humorous poets as Don Marquis, Walt Mason, J. A. Waldron, Douglas Malloch, Maurice Switzer, Strickland Gillilan, McLandburgh Wilson, Grantland Rice and others, and such well-known artists as Orson Lowell, William Donahey, J. N. Darling ("Ding") and others. These poets and artists are representative members of the American Press Humorists' Association — "the men who make America laugh."

Th.e Humorists, in their preface, explain the spirit of the volume: "Mrs Shakespeare, who also wrote some very good stuff, has expres ed the opinion that 'the evil that men do lives after them.' The humorists of the American press wish to suggest to Fate that, in the case of the Kaiser, that gentleman be not permitted to make such an easy get-away. They therefore, and in that spirit, propose the toast, 'Long Live the Kaiser!"

" 'The men who make America laugh' have no quarrel with the German people, or the American people of German birth or ancestry. They love the German, but dislike the Germaniac.

"That the Kaiser may live to see not only the evil of his days, but also the evil of his ways, and that peace may return to all the nations, and laughter to all the world, is the hope and prayer of the American Press Humorists."

BUDDY'S BLIGHTY: Including "Zero Minus One" and Other Verses from the Trenches

By Lieutenant Jack Turner, M. C.

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.25

"The poet who has written the most popular bit of verse for American readers during the war is undoubtedly the least known of any poet I know. He is Lieutenant Jack Turner of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, a native of Newfoundland, the son of the Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture and Mines in the Newfoundland Government, and a man who has done his 'bit' in the grim business 'over there' to the taking of Vimy Ridge, where he became incapacitated for further active service. . . . . BUDDY'S BLIGHTY is a human book — humanity is not nearly so human under other circumstances as under the grim stress and suffering of war — it is a humorous book, a racy and direct book of singing verses. It tells of the rough, unsophisticated giant coming down from the frozen barrens of the North to get into the 'scrap' in Flanders — and the particular giant, 'Buddy Baldwin, Broncho-Buster,' is a singularly imaginative chap coming out of ether in a hospital in 'Blighty' — of the man with a yellow streak who proved the hero in his fright. Whether Lieutenant Turner wrote verse before going to the front I do not know, but he certainly shares with Service and one or two other men who have been through that hell in Flanders, a great popularity as one of the few who, in plain verse, has given us a deeply human and moving chronicle of the trenches."

— William Stanley Braithwaite in The Boston Transcript.

One of the poems, namely "Zero Minus One," included in this remarkable collection has recently been published as a song by Oliver Ditson Company, Boston.

SONGS OF SERGEANT SWANSON

A COLLECTION of war verses — quaint, jolly, humorous and pathetic—told in the dialect of a Swedish sergeant, who joins the forces of his adopted land — America — to fight under that "yolly gude flag — dis Star Spangled Banner." A collection of poems which will appeal to any and all classes of people by the author of that perennially popular volume "The Norsk Nightingale."

YOU WHO CAN HELP. Paris Letters of an American Army Officer's Wife, from August, 1916, to January, 1918

By Mary Smith Churchill

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.25

THE writer of these letters is the wife of Lieutenant-Colonel Marlborough Churchill, who, the year before the entrance of the United States into the war, was an American military observer in France, and later became a member of General Pershing's staff. Mrs. Churchill volunteered her services in Paris in connection with the American Fund for the French Wounded and these are her letters home, written with no thought of publication, but simply to tell her family of the work in which she was engaged. From time to time, as she had opportunity, she relieved, unofficially, so to speak, some especially poignant case of personal distress, and, quite without her knowledge, her accounts of these incidents became the means of raising funds for her use in relieving cases of the same kind. It is in the belief that they will, if made known to a wider audience, make possible still further special relief of this kind that these letters are published. As one who has read them says: "Anyone who can read these intensely interesting letters of the Paris hospitals, of the soldiers departing for the front from the Gare du Nord, of the 'filleuil' from the trenches, of the writer's visit to the evacuated region about Noyon, without wanting to give every red cent of which he happens to be possessed, has no heart and no imagination."

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE

By Edwin Carty Ranck

12mo. Cloth. With many illustrations. Net, $2.00

THIS is the first authentic and actual account of our own khaki-clad troops who went "over there" under the leadership of General Pershing to fight for America's rights, for suffering France and the just cause of the Allies. The first landing of the American soldiers in France, the rousing welcome given General Pershing and his men in Bordeaux and Paris, how "Black Jack" Pershing tackled the "big job" of preparing Americans to take their part in the most gigantic battle in the history of the world, the intensive training of our boys under the French soldiers, are here described by a well-known American war correspondent who wrote a large portion of this book right in the shadow of the big guns.

Here may be found a description of the American camps, the wonderful work being done by the S. O. S. (Service of Supply) who have practically transplanted portions of America to France, and are turning small French towns and hitherto unused seaports, into vast depots of supplies for the American troops.

Mr. Ranck's book presents the human side of the war, and is a commingling of the humorous and the dramatic, proving that America's sense of the ludicrous survives all the rigors and hardships of German "Schrechlichkeit." His is an inspiring volume which interprets the very soul of America's great army.

JOHN McCORMACK: His Own Life's Story
Transcribed by Pierre Van Rensselaer Key

With twenty-four full-page plates. Cloth decorative. Net, $2.00

WHEN some two years ago the matter of a book on his life and career was broached to John McCormack, he strenuously objected. "I am too young a man," he said, "to be written about. The printing of the life and career of one barely past thirty, whose professional rise lies within a decade might impress people as premature."

That attitude is typical of McCormack, but his councilors from their points of vantage discerned what the tenor could not see. He has always been diffident, he still is, and nothing so offends his sense of consistency as a word or deed out of time and place. His persuasion brought reluctant yielding. A final concession, we are moved to think, that the public to which he feels he belongs had to be considered. So the decision was made, and the story of the world's greatest concert tenor was begun. It is a fascinating story, too — a tale of an artist's rise to fame in a space so short as to savor of the Arabian nights, for no other individual meteoric ascendency may be found in music's history. The probability is that none other will recur.

A letter from John McCormack to his publishers

Gentlemen:

With the manuscript of "JOHN McCORMACK, His Own Life's Story", nearing completion, I am writing to remind you that I wish it clearly to be made known that this is my one and only authorized biography — an official document of my life and career up till now.

To my collaborator, Pierre V. R. Key, I have given full access to personal letters, private documents and all such other material in my possession. I have related to him the essential facts in my life as they occurred, and have exercised personal supervision in the preparation and editing of the manuscript.

I feel that I have been most fortunate in having for this exacting work as able and sympathetic a literary craftsman as Mr. Key. He has caught completely the spirit of what I have undertaken to set forth and has humanized his writing with rare and colorful touch.

Faithfully yours,

JOHN McCORMACK.

MUSICAL MEMORIES

By Camille Saint-Saëns. Translated from the French by Edwin Gile Rich

8vo. Cloth. Profusely illustrated. Net, $3.50

CAMILLE SAINT-SAËNS, intellectually the keenest, perhaps, and most broad-minded of living French composers, has here written a book that is bright, scintillating and charming. It is a record of impressions through a life which has been full of interest. M. Saint-Saëns, outside of his profession itself, — he is held by many to be the greatest living composer — reveals himself as a man of catholic tastes and very wide personal acquaintance with European affairs. Handicapped, it might be said, by being a recognized musical prodigy — for he was a "wonderchild" who began to learn the piano at two and a half and at five was playing Haydn and Mozart — he has had, nevertheless, the alert mentality to interest himself in many other directions. He has always taken a keen interest in art and gives one of the most intelligent and intelligible discussions of "Art for Art's Sake" that have ever been penned. His literary likings also receive charming treatment, especially his acquaintance with Victor Hugo.

As a student of the music of other masters, Saint-Saëns is probably without a rival, and it is with music that his book deals chiefly. Even a non-technical reader can perceive at once the great value of the author's extraordinarily acute judgments. MUSICAL MEMORIES is a book of value to every one interested in the history of music, while there is a pleasant vein of humor running throu higtall.

THE GOLDEN TREASURY OF MAGAZINE VERSE

Edited by William Stanley Braithwaite

12mo. Cloth. Net, $2.00

MR. BRAITHWAITE has been making annual studies and selections of the best poetry published in the American magazines for a period of fifteen years, and it happens that these years have been marked by what has been called "the new birth" of poetry in America and, keeping pace with poetical achievement itself, the steady growth of the appreciation of poetry. The realization of this desirable condition has been, in fact, in no small measure due to Mr. Braithwaite's undaunted championship of the cause of poetry in this country.

He has now, for the first time, gathered together an anthology of the best American poems of this great modern period that have chanced to have their first publication in magazines. Perhaps half of these poems have been reprinted in volume form by their authors, but the rest lie buried in the files of the magazines, practically inaccessible. Yet they are many of them among the finest poems in our literature, and must be taken account of in any adequate judgment of the poetry of our own times.

The Golden Treasury of Magazine Verse is a volume that has long been desired.

William Stanley Braithwaite, Editor.

Large 12mo. Printed on special deckle-edged rag paper and bound in boards, with cloth back. Net, $2.00

THIS, the sixth annual volume in Mr. Braithwaite's series of anthologies of magazine verse, it is expected, will attract more attention than its predecessors, for the quality of its contents. The best of the shorter, lyrical poems produced during 1918 have been chosen, proving that in spite of the realistic method and expressions, the spontaneous, singing note has not departed from American verse. The 1918 Anthology will not only reflect the ascending achievement of American verse, but will be notable as a record of the sane and traditional evolution of American poetry.

Between sixty and seventy of the leading American poets are represented by a hundred selections. As in the previous volumes of the series, the editor's broad and discriminating judgment is herein exercised. Besides the poems themselves, the volume contains an introduction on poetic inspiration and influence, with an account of the poetry of the year; a reference index of the titles and authors of the poems printed in more than thirty publications during the year; important lists of magazine essays and review articles on poetry and of volumes of poems and of books dealing with poets and poetry in every phase. There is also a biographical index of the poets included, which is of great human and literary value.

The Nation says that "Mr. Braithwaite's knowledge is unrivalled and his choices are discerning."

And the New York Times declares that this series of Anthologies "are signs of the times and milestones upon the way" of the American poetic advance.

NOTE: We have recently taken over, from another house, the publishing rights of all of Mr. Braithwaite's ANTHOLOGIES OF MAGAZINE VERSE, so that we now publish the complete series of ANTHOLOGIES as follows:

ANTHOLOGY OF MAGAZINE VERSE FOR 1913
ANTHOLOGY OF MAGAZINE VERSE FOR 1914
ANTHOLOGY OF MAGAZINE VERSE FOR 1915
ANTHOLOGY OF MAGAZINE VERSE FOR 1916
ANTHOLOGY OF MAGAZINE VERSE FOR 1917

THE BEST SHORT STORIES OF 1917

Edited by Edward J. O'Brien. Uniform with "The Best Short Stories of 1915" and "The Best Short Stories of 1916"

Cloth. 12mo. Net, $1.60

MR. O'BRIEN'S third annual collection. A volume of stories that are as enjoyable as they are distinctive.

In the new volume, the Editor presents the twenty stories which he has selected as the best by American authors published in more than seventy American periodicals during the year. These stories have an unusual degree of interest, as well as artistic excellence, and bear witness to the continuing success of the short story as the distinctive American literary form.

In addition to the twenty best stories, the volume includes the bibliographical features that have made up the Yearbook section in the previous volumes — the table of magazine averages, the list of volumes of short stories of the year, a critical summary of the fifty-three best short stories, a complete index of the short stories in the magazines considered and a critical summary of the year's best books of short stories.

"From every point of view — from that of the actual probabilities of reading enjoyment to be derived from it by all sorts of readers; from that of the vivid and varied, but always valid, concernment with life that it maintains; from that of technical literary interest in American letters, and from that of sheer esthetic response to artistic quality — THE BEST SHORT STORIES warrants an emphatic and unconditional recommendation to all." — Life.

"Indispensable to every student of American fiction, and will furnish each successive year a critical and historical survey of the art such as does not exist in any other form." — Boston Transcript.

A STUDY MANUAL OF THE SHORT STORY

By Dr. Blanche Colton Williams of Columbia University, author of "A Handbook of Story Writing."

Small 12mo. Paper boards. Net, 50 cents

THIS book is particularly designed for college students who will use as examples for study in short story courses Mr. O'Brien's valuable yearly collections,

THE BEST SHORT STORIES OF 1915.
THE BEST SHORT STORIES OF 1916.
THE BEST SHORT STORIES OF 1917.

In A STUDY MANUAL OF THE SHORT STORY, Dr. Williams, who is an authority on the subject of the short story, analyzes each one of the twenty stories in each of Mr. O'Brien's yearly collections, showing the problem that the author set for himself in the development of each story, and how successfully he solved the problem. The book is of decided educational value.

THE STANDARD INDEX TO SHORT STORIES, 1900–1914

By Francis J. Hannigan

Large quarto. Library buckram. Net, $10.00

THE STANDARD INDEX TO SHORT STORIES, Mr. Hannigan, who is head of the Periodical Department of the Boston Public Library, says, in his preface to the volume, "is the result of a long-felt need on my part for an adequate reference book to which librarians can turn in order to locate the whereabouts of short stories published in American magazines, but not reprinted in book form."

The Standard Index to Short Stories is an index, both by author and by title, under one alphabet, with many cross-references, of all the short stories published in twenty-four leading American magazines from January, 1900, to December, 1914, inclusive. It contains more than 35,000 entries, comprising the work of more than 3000 authors, and a number of the magazines which it indexes — notably The Saturday Evening Post — do not publish an annual index and have not before been indexed at all, in any form. The reason for its ending with 1914 is that Mr. Edward J. O'Brien, in the Yearbook section of his series of Best Short Stories, lists the short stories — not only those which he finds to be the best, but also all others — in the principal magazines, beginning with the year 1915.

The Standard Index will be found indispensable for libraries, editors, magazine and book publishers, motion-picture producers, short-story writers and other literary workers. Colleges which offer courses in short-story writing will find it a valuable means of tracing material suggested to students for illustrative purposes, and it should also prove useful to schools of oratory. It covers a field of its own.

THE MANNING HOME BUDGET

By Earl G. Manning

Large 12mo. Paper boards. Net, 75 cents

AN expense record designed with particular attention to the grouping of the various items of family expenditure into their normal, general divisions. While the BUDGET is designed particularly for the housekeeper, it can be used to very good advantage both in and out of the home in these days of rising costs.

"Until recent years no data of any real value had been obtained upon which a reliable average budget could be compiled. Through the good agencies of a number of public spirited individuals and organizations, however, enough data has been collected to make possible the publishing of the charts seen here. The charts which are shown are the result of a careful investigation by Earl G. Manning, of Boston. The data from which they have been compiled comes from reliable sources and represents actual and not estimated figures of recent date."—Boston Herald.

TAKING THE MESSAGE TO GARCIA

By Andrew S. Rowan, Major, U. S. Army (Retired)

Illustrated from photographs and from maps drawn by the author.

12mo. Cloth. Net, 50 cents

THIS is the real story of how Major Andrew Rowan actually carried the message to Garcia. Without a word or question or moment's delay, he took the letter that President McKinley handed to him, and, landing from an open boat under the very eyes of the Spanish guards, made his way alone across Cuba, delivered his message and escaped. That was twenty years ago; to-day we are engaged in another and far greater conflict. Major Rowan, who was a slim young lieutenant when the Spanish War broke out, is retired, and living in San Francisco to-day, too old for active service. But in this book of his he sends a message to our boys "Over There." "When you get an order, obey; do it without question or delay. That is a soldier's business; it is the spirit that will win the war." It is the spirit also of his story. His message was a good one with which to win the Spanish war; it is a good message with which to win the present great conflict. In this remarkable account he tells how he did it. Each and every one of our soldiers and sailors can profit by his example.

BARNEY OLDFIELD'S BOOK FOR THE MOTORIST

By Barney Oldfield "Himself"

Illustrated from drawings and photographs. 12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50

"BONG JOOR!" says Barney Oldfield. "I've been engaged to give my personal attention to your car. It has just been discovered that I've been absorbing a whole lot of valuable information about the care and up-keep of every car built in the past twenty years. During that time the public thought my sole interest was the establishment of a reputation for holding most of the world's worth-while speed records. I plead guilty. But it was my intimate knowledge of cars, the designing and construction and general ability to force the last ounce of power out of them, that enabled me to pull down so many 'firsts.' Just to help out a whole lot of good fellows who have been too busy with other things to devote twenty years of their life to acquiring this practical knowledge I've written a book for you. Do not merely glance my book through, or read it carelessly, but study it with a view to understanding it. Keep at this study until you have thoroughly absorbed the general advice and suggestions, even if you fail to grasp the more technical information it contains. No matter what class or price your car represents, I'll try to help you reduce the up-keep and increase its service.

YOU KNOW ME!"

BARNEY OLDFIELD.

MRS. ALLEN'S COOK BOOK

By Ida C. Bailey Allen — Official Lecturer United States Food Administration

Large 12mo. Illustrated and completely indexed. Net, $2.00

"MRS. ALLEN'S COOK BOOK" is not only the latest, it is also the best, word on cookery. It is emphatically a book for these times of conservation of food-stuffs and the economical and efficient treatment of the ever-insistent problem of "What shall we eat?" but it is more than that: it is a complete, permanent and authoritative cook book for the American housewife of the future as well as of the present. It has been well called "the cook book of cook books."

Lecturer to hundreds of eager Chautauqua audiences, editor of the "Housewives' Forum" department of The Pictorial Review, contributor to The Ladies' Home Journal, The Delineator, Good Housekeeping, etc., Mrs. Allen in her work wields an influence that is easily the widest of all American writers and teachers of household economics. In her "Cook Book," therefore, she gives the American homemaker something that has long been needed—a book that contains everything — for through her wide experience she is able to know the need and, in the truest sense of the word, to fill it.

"Of all the books that have been published which treat of the culinary art, few have come so near to presenting a complete survey of the subject as Mrs. Allen's. If evidence were needed to prove that cookery is so much of a practical art as to have become a noble science, Mrs. Allen has supplied it. There are more than three thousand recipes in this book! No reader need be an epicure to enjoy the practical information that is garnered here. The burden of the author's message is, 'Let every mother realize that she holds in her hands the health of the family and the welfare and the progress of her husband, and she will lay a foundation that will make possible glorious home partnership and splendid health for the generations that are to be.'

"In times of Hooverized economy, such a volume will find a welcome, because the author strips from her subject all the camouflage with which scientists and pseudo-scientists have invested it. The mystery of the calory, that causes the average housewife to throw up her hands, is tersely solved. The tyro may learn how to prepare the simplest dish or the most elaborate. The woman who wants to know what to do and how to do it will find the book a master-key to the subject which it treats."—Literary Digest.

MRS. ALLEN'S BOOK OF WHEAT SUBSTITUTES

Small 12mo. Net, 50 cents

THE most complete work of its kind yet published, taking up the making of all kinds of wheatless yeast breads, quick breads, such as muffins, griddle cakes and similar breads, etc., the making of puddings, both steamed and baked; of all types of cookies; of wheatless pie-crusts, wheatless cakes, the use of wheat substitutes in savory dishes, and so on. Mrs. Allen's book includes, as well, introductory chapters showing how to use the substitutes, such as cotton-seed flour, barley flour, potato flour, etc., etc. This is a book which the times demand. Every housekeeper should adopt its use.

MRS. ALLEN'S BOOK OF MEAT SUBSTITUTES

Small 12mo. Net, 50 cents.

IN this book Mrs. Allen shows how other foods can replace meats, and tells how to plan meatless meals. The substitutes are built up in groups, such as milk and milk recipes, eggs and egg recipes, cheese (dairy and cottage) and cheese recipes. Included also are nut recipes, and suggestions for the use of dried peas, dried beans and dried vegetables for meat substitutes. Each section of the book is accompanied by explanatory menus, showing how the meat substitutes should be introduced into the menu. The book contains approximately 100 interesting meat-substitute recipes.

MRS. ALLEN'S BOOK OF SUGAR SUBSTITUTES

Small 12mo. Net, 50 cents

IN the interests of sugar conservation, Mrs. Allen shows how molasses, brown sugar, corn syrup, maple syrup, maple sugar and honey can be used in delicious and economical ways in the making of breads, cakes, cookies, pastry, custards, sweet sauces, frozen desserts, etc. The book of sugar substitutes contains about 125 recipes, all of which conform to the rules laid down by the Food Administration, in that they conserve fat and wheat and exploit the use of substitute products.

FROM BASEBALL TO BOCHES

By H. C. Witwer

12mo. Cloth. With Illustrations by F. R. Gruger and Arthur William Brown. Net, $1.35

HERE are nine innings of breezy, rollicking, fun-provoking letters written by Ed Harmon, a famous baseball player — who answers his country's call and gets into the big world series "over in that France place" — to his pal back home.

"There ain't over forty cents in taxi-cab distance between us and the Germans," writes the famous southpaw. "The space that keeps us apart is called No Man's Land and from where I sit it looks more like one of them Long Island real estate swindles than anything else. But we're going to trot across that diamond, and we won't stop trying 'til we lead the mob into Berlin."

Full of "pep" and philosophy, keen observations, some satire and a great deal of scrapping, Ed Harmon's effervescent account of what is going on "Over There" is only approached by "Chimmie Fadden." Every baseball fan in the country, every soldier and sailor in Uncle Sam's service, every little boy and big boy, mother and sister will enjoy FROM BASEBALL TO BOCHES, because it is a bubbling, cheerful, stimulating book, full of soldier fun, of sporting spirit and the joy of youth.

THE WHIRLWIND: A Tense Story of Russian Court Intrigue

By Edna Worthley Underwood

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.50

A COLORFUL and dramatic story that is especially timely because the central figure is the great Catherine of Russia and the reader is given a clear insight into the Russian Court of the eighteenth-century Romanoffs, with its insidious Teutonic intrigues. The time of the story is the dramatic moment when the reign of the Empress Elizabeth was drawing to its close and the throne itself was hanging in the balance. Would Catherine become empress or would her detestable husband take control as Peter III? The situation is a tense one — a great moment of historic time — and the author, who is already known for her remarkable understanding of Russia and the Russians and of Russian literature, has told a wonderful story, filled with the excitement of court intrigue, of murder and sudden death, of ruthless power wielded without reserve, of the quick changes of fortune that in such surroundings can overtake court jester and grand duchess alike, of love, of passion, of great historic figures who show how humanly they can act under stress, all woven into a tapestry of brilliant color and texture. It is not too much to say that since "Quo Vadis," no more powerful historical romance has been produced.

JAMESIE

By Ethel Sidgwick, author of "Hatchways," "Promise," etc.

12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50

"THE unusual pleasure of having a book by Miss Sidgwick to read was the more keen because I had wondered a good deal how the war would affect her work. HATCHWAYS, appearing over two years after the outbreak of the war, was as aloof from it as Trollope or Austen. And now that a work does come, showing, as anything written of English life now must, how the war has penetrated into the life of each and every individual, it is interesting to find how naturally she uses it for a background for her characters. For no matter how it may color and influence and affect their lives, it does not absorb them; they are still themselves.

"As always, Miss Sidgwick is content to picture the life of a group with interests so vital that it is not necessary to go outside for excitement. Large affairs and interests are there, but they are kept outside the charmed circle. The Irish question, while it has a lot to do with the development of the story, is not allowed to overburden it. Even at the war, men seek relief 'where they had always sought it — in comradeship, friendliness, — in echoes of innocence — in family affection.'

"The Jamesie of the title is Iveagh's seven-year-old son — thus the story dates some eight years or so after HATCHWAYS — and he is as darling a child as you would expect a son of Bess and Iveagh to be. Miss Sidgwick's children are always real, but Jamesie is too real to talk about.

"It is satisfying to find Miss Sidgwick entirely herself in regard to the war; not bitter, or heated, or strident, but as quiet and just and observant as ever. What she means is never blurred, but always clear and beautiful. Her magic touch has not failed her — JAMESIE is real because its characters are absolutely real."

From the report of a critic who has read the book in manuscript.

"Ethel Sidgwick is the world's next great woman novelist. I'm confident that within ten years the critical perspective will show her on this pinnacle. Since George Eliot and the Brontes, I can think of no woman who has focused art and life so intensely into novel writing." — Margaret C. Anderson in The Little Review.

"Miss Sidgwick has many delicate gifts which do not seem to be constrained by a rare strength and deftness of touch. She reveals more of character in a dozen sentences of dialogue than your meticulously exact describer of details in as many pages, not only observing finely, but selecting vigorously. She can light up a situation with a sudden flame of passion and quench it with a timely reticence. She can create adorable people, and, with less evident pleasure, but as subtle a contrivance, quite dislikable ones."

THE SHIELDING WING

By Will Levington Comfort

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.50

BY a peculiar combination of ill circumstance, Archer, an American war correspondent in Austria, finds himself set adrift, his mind sick unto death of the war. He determines to forget it all in Asia, to drift across the only expanse of country not yet touched by wars or rumors of wars. By the time he has crossed all the rivers of Asia, he is worn clean of everything but the need of a friend. And at Kaigan, he chances upon one after his own heart — Reever Quiston, who has been near death in an attempt to free a Siberian colony, and who is in a pitiful condition, his face terribly scarred, his eyesight half gone.

Reever Quiston takes Archer home with him to Peking, where his mother's art school is a center of influence for the Young China movement, and here he meets the radiant Nayan, beautiful and wonderful, a "man's heroine." The events that follow are fast and furious. Archer is hounded by Austria's secret service men; sees the inner workings of the Big Mill; is instrumental in rescuing the Quistons when Old China gets them in her clutches; has the great adventure of living in Hun Sang the Weaver's mystery-house; knows the thrill of being made up as a Chinese priest, and of escaping through secret passages and sliding walls.

The mystical spirit of the Orient has been caught to perfection and transferred to every page. Mr. Comfort tells a ripping story and his own zest in the performance is so keen that his enthusiasm is imparted to the reader.

THE PEACE OF ROARING RIVER

By George Van Schaick, author of "A Top-Floor Idyl," "Sweetapple Cove," etc.

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.50

MADGE NELSON had come to the end of a long, dark road — in other words, after an unequal struggle for a place in the world, for work, for food, for clothing, for a roof above her — she finds that she can no longer go on. Then by a strange twist of fate, a little door is opened, a door that one chance out of a hundred means happiness, and the other ninety-nine times spell disaster. Madge takes the chance—it was the "sporting" thing to do. That's why you'll like this girl, whose fight for happiness against dreadful odds, makes this vivid story of the Canadian Northwest an out-of-the-ordinary novel — a fascinating human story of love and daring.

SOMETHING THAT BEGINS WITH "T"

By Kay Cleaver Strahan

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.35

"FROM its first word through to the end," says a critic who has seen it in manuscript, "this book is delightfully refreshing and original. It possesses charm and humor and humanness. We are shown a lovable, 'different,' twenty-odd-year-old girl who mothers in a comrade-y way an equally lovable little boy. The author (whom I recognize as the author of 'Peggy Mary') does not strain to make this girl original. She just naturally is. The reader loves Phyllis from the beginning, and keeps on loving her in everything she does. She becomes very real and we could read the book many times and not tire of her. We feel very sorry when we reach the last page, but the world seems brighter because of Phyllis. We find ourselves smiling for a long time at the odd, human little pictures that Phyllis and 'all of her family' — that's what she calls Pat, the boy — have left in our minds. We can't help feeling that if we were a little boy we'd want to be 'brought up' the way Pat is. The humor of the book is that truest of all humor that makes us laugh, with just a suspicion, now and then, of a little choke.

"There is something very natural and convincing about the unexpectedness of Phyllis; the odd quirks of her mind and speech surprise us, and fill us with delight. The charm of the book does not rest in its plot, yet back of the action there is genuine motive and romance that create keen suspense and strong human interest.

"Altogether I like this book better than any other book that I have read for a long, long time."

THE MAN WHO KNEW

By Edgar Wallace, author of "The Clue of the Twisted Candle," etc.

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.35

IF a good detective story be one which shall hold the reader interested, even breathless for three or four hours, shall suggest the solution, yet baffle and be consistent throughout, THE MAN WHO KNEW certainly fulfills the requirements. This story of the amazing adventures which come into the life of a retired diamond merchant, who comes from the mines of South Africa to London, is clever in plot and effective in style. Clues there are a-plenty and they are unravelled in surprising fashion, bringing the story to a whirlwind finish. As a writer of detective stories, Mr. Wallace occupies an enviable place. THE MAN WHO KNEW shows him at his best.

THE HEART OF ARETHUSA

By Frances Barton Fox

12mo. Cloth. With a frontispiece in color. Net, $1.35

DEAR madcap Arethusa — what a flyaway she is! And how the reader loves her! And her great-aunts love her, too, though only one of them, Aunt 'Senath, really understands her, and perhaps she, too, is the only one of the three whom Arethusa understands. But, then, Aunt 'Senath represents Romance to her grand-niece — the Romance of the Past, too! — and whenever Arethusa stole away to read in Aunt 'Senath's Woods, she knew that she was surrounded by the atmosphere of the most wonderful love-story that she could imagine. Timothy had his own ideas about that, but so did Arethusa, so when her father came back from Europe, after so many years away from home, and asked his daughter to come and live with him, she insisted on going, in spite of all that Timothy could say. She had a glorious time in the great city, too, — new gowns and parties and friends — and — but that's the story!

The Heart of Arethusa is a story that all girls, from fourteen to one-hundred-and-four, will delight in!

Miss Fox is a Kentuckian. One of her brothers is the artist, Fontaine Fox, the creator of the Powerful Katrinka, the Terrible-tempered Mr. Bang and the Toonerville Trolley That Meets All the Trains.

"A toothsome confection, glistening, syrup-filled, luscious! Not to be consumed at a sitting if one be over twenty. A gay, glad little study of a young girl's development. Fresh as the Springtime." — Chicago Herald.

BRUCE OF THE CIRCLE A

By Harold Titus, author of "—I Conquered"

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.35

A THRILLING story of the southwest, with its wide sweep of mountain and valley, of the range, of the town that contrasts so sharply with the range and yet is born of it, of a fine-souled woman and of a man who knows love and comes to his own through a struggle that calls for all his courage and devotion. It is a big story that makes the reader forget time and the hour until he has come breathlessly to the end of it.

"The kind of a story that the boys of a generation or more ago would have delighted to read, for it is full of adventure and has the breeziness and fine outdoor atmosphere of the frontier and the cattle country." — New York Herald.

MERRY ANDREW

By F. Roney Weir

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.35

"AFTER reading F. Roney Weir's MERRY ANDREW I had it placed at once on our library list. The order has been forwarded to the Toronto house with which we usually deal. The book ought to be widely read, and taken to heart. Not merely because it's a thoroughly interesting story, nor for the sake of the characters so wonderfully delineated — Merry Andrew, Sylvia, Grandpa and Grandma, Wully McNab and the delicious Pudneys — but because it drives home the worth-while lesson that huge possibilities await the capable girl or woman on the farm; possibilities, not of endless drudgery, but of really big achievement. That lesson makes MERRY ANDREW timely, exceptionally timely; and that's why it's nationally worth while to push it. Pardon a perhaps instrusive letter, but I see bigger things in MERRY ANDREW than even the big, whole-souled story itself."

From a letter from Victor Lauriston, Secretary Chatham (Ontario, Canada) Public Library Board, Author of "The Man Who Could Not Quit," etc.

JOLLY POLLY

By Gertrude Smith

FOUR PLAYS FOR CHILDREN
By Ethel Sidgwick

Square 12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Net, $1.25

A NEW edition of a volume of plays that have long since become classics for children to read and act. The author, who is the well-known English novelist, understands children and knows, too, how to write for them.

The four plays are: "The Rose and the Ring," dramatized from the story by Thackeray; "The Goody-Witch"; "The Goosegirl"; and "Boots and the North Wind." All easily acted, they have proved themselves successful for children's entertainments, particularly for people who wish to do something out of the ordinary. Practical suggestions and directions add to the usefulness of the volume.

In answering a request to "recommend plays that can be acted by young people without much rehearsal," the New York Evening Post, in its Readers' Guide department, says: "Four Plays for Children, by Ethel Sidgwick, are beautiful little fancies and should not take much preparation."

ABERNETHY, ARTHUR TALMAGE

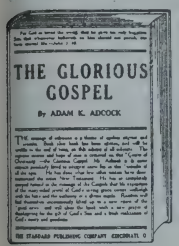
Center-shots at Sin

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting uphill. A book penned with a plume of experience, dipped in the heart's blood of a preacher who has met sin; who has accepted its challenge to combat on the field of action, and has felt its shell-shock; who has inhaled sin's noxious gases; who has been submerged in life's torpedoed ocean of sin's submarines; who has been rescued more alive than dead through the S. O. S. of Jesus. The author is a strong and virile thinker, his style clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye-opener.

ADCOCK, ADAM K.

The Glorious Gospel



Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.00.

A book of sermons devoted to fundamentals, seeking to reflect the truth of the New Testament and reason, and to show their agreement. "The book shows the author to be a deep thinker and fine reasoner."—J. B. Briney.

"No one except a thorough and devout student of the Scriptures could have written 'The Glorious Gospel.' The author shows excellent analytic and synthetic power and knowledge in the selection and organization of the Biblical teaching on the various subjects treated."—Christian Journal.

ANDERSON, H. T.

The New Testament

Translated Afresh from the Original Greek.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

In 1864, Mr. Anderson made an entirely new translation of the New Testament, which was published in 1866. It had a wide circulation at the time. The author thoroughly revised this edition—in fact, practically made a new translation, which is now published for the first time. Mr. Anderson says of his work: "It is not a revision of a version, but a translation. I have been careful to express the exact sense of the original, without permitting myself to be confined to an imitation of the letter of the Greek."

AULD, CHARLES H.

Sand Table Work in the Bible School

Its Values and Possibilities.

Illustrated. Paper, oblong. Price, postpaid, 50c.

A most suggestive work on a subject which is rapidly coming to be recognized as a very important method of Bible teaching. Twenty full-page illustrations.

AZBILL, W. K.

Science and Faith

The Spiritual Law in the Physical World.

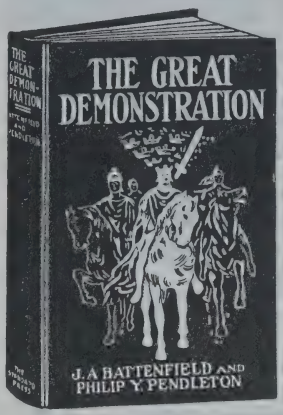
Cloth, 8vo, illustrated. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

The author of this work was equipped by experience as minister, educator and missionary for a broad and varied view of the relations of science and religion. His scientific studies in particular led him to examination of the most recent discoveries in the realm of nature. He has kept his mind open to the progress of thought in all matters affecting our knowlege of the world. Questions such as that of the ether of space, of matter and electricity, of the nature of gravitation and the ultimate causes of planetary motion, of the essence of life, as well as its terrestrial functions and higher possibilities, have claimed his careful attention, and he has not shrunk from considering the most radical theories advanced regarding them.—The Continent.

BATTENFIELD, J. A., and PENDLETON, P. Y.

The Great Demonstration

The Master Key to Prophecy.



A large 8vo volume, handsomely bound in red cloth, with symbolic cover design and an emblematic paper wrapper, nearly 500 pages, with many charts and diagrams. Price, postpaid, $2.00; paper, $1.00.

The word of God is the only basis from which man may comprehend the world's present movements. This masterly interpretation of the inspired lines of prophecy illuminates present events.

"The Great Demonstration" is an interpretation of the self-evident correctness of the prophecies, easily understood by all.

It is pre-eminently a book for the home circle. It presents a drama superior to, and more magnetic and sublime than, any piece of writing. It involves the destiny of the race, the victory of God's truth over all error, and the final glorious reign of peace and life everlasting.

BAYNE, MARY ADDAMS

Bluegrass and Wattle; or, The Man from Australia

Illustrated, decorated cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

A novel that deals, with unusual vigor and power, with the religious unbelief of the day and its cure. The hero—with the glowing confidence and sublime faith of youth—enters the university with high ideals and undaunted purposes. Here his faith is chilled by the sophistries of the New Theology. The plot is an account of his wanderings in the mazes of this form of infidelity, and his final redemption.

"The charm of its unsullied love story, its unique plot, playful humor, its Christian breadth of view and its skillful portrayal of social and religious conditions, make this book a captivating piece of literature."—Cynthiana Democrat.

Crestlands

A Centennial Story of Cane Ridge.

Illustrated, cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

A wholesome story of pioneer days in Kentucky. With consummate skill this talented writer has woven into the narrative a romance of unusual charm and beauty. The book gives, with photographic accuracy, the customs and manners, the hardships and sacrifices of frontier life. It is a story that will sustain interest and awaken in the reader all that is true and good, for it is a direct challenge to practice that which is worth while.

BENTLEY, W. P.

Illustrious Chinese Christians

A Brief Treatise of the Customs, Superstitions and Religions of the Chinese People.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.00.

A stimulating and thought-provoking treatise on the efficiency of the gospel in China. It is very doubtful whether or not there is any record of devotion or self-sacrifice in either profane or sacred history that this fascinating series of twenty-two Chinese biographies will not parallel. The persecutions and martyrdom which these Chinese converts suffered will inspire real missionary enthusiasm and create apostolic activity in any community where this book is circulated.

BOOK, W. H.

Columbus Tabernacle Sermons, Vol. I.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.00.

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. It is a message that never fails to quicken into action the reader's mind and heart. This author's well-known powers of oratory, his profound grasp of the teachings of Jesus and his apostles, his fearlessness in condemning wrong and error, his virile, forceful style and his unique personality, are well preserved in every line. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stenographically reported as the burning words were uttered by this master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

Columbus Tabernacle Sermons, Vol. II.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.00.

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual demand the first volume created.

"I pronounce W. H. Book's second 'Tabernacle Sermons' the strongest and most Scriptural our people have ever produced."—D. R. Dungan.

The Indiana Pulpit

Edited by W. H. Book.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.00.

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. The author has condensed, with unusual discrimination and taste, the message of such widely known preachers as Z. T. Sweeney, James Small, T. J. Legg, etc. A photograph and brief biography of each contributor precedes every chapter.

"'The Indiana Pulpit' will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each one who reads it better, and it will strengthen the faith of all who carefully peruse its pages."—George A. Miller.

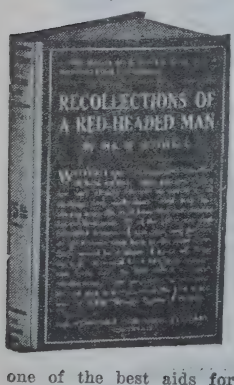
Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, 75c.



Here is something new under the sun—a really humorous work. Not since the publishing of Bill Nye's famous "History of the United States" has there appeared a book containing more spontaneous wit and homely philosophy. Its laughable anecdotes and quaint humor make it a book that will be read over and over again with an ever-increasing delight.

"I thank you for the loan of the MS., 'Recollections of a Red-headed Man.' I read it, and I must say that I am indebted to you for one of the most enjoyable afternoons I have ever spent. It is better than 'Mark Twain' or 'Bill Nye.'"—B. M. Crabtree.

"It helps folks to appreciate that they live in a world of humor. It is splendidly written, and is one of the best aids for digestion I have found."—P. H. Welshimer, Canton, O.

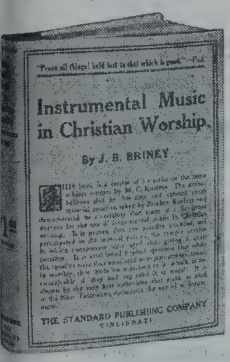
BRINEY, J. B.

Instrumental Music in Christian Worship

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.00.



This book is a review and refutation of "Instrumental Music in the Worship," by M. C. Kurfees. The author demonstrates a Scripture warrant for the use of instrumental music in Christian worship. That the apostles attended and participated in the musical part of the temple service in which instruments were used, thus giving it their sanction, is clearly shown. Quotations of leading authorities prove beyond refutation that psallo, as used in the New Testament, authorizes the use of an instrument.

"Instrumental music in the worship is a subject that I have examined carefully from both standpoints. I must say your work upon this theme is the strongest, greatest and most complete vindication of the affirmative side I have ever seen."—Jas. A. Stevens, Burnet, Tex.

HUNKEY, JOHN

How I Became a Non-Catholic

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25; paper, 60c.

This book weighs Roman Catholic teaching in the balances. It is not the usual sensational narrative of priestly lust nor a realistic portrayal of the ambitions and baneful influences of this great politico-ecclesiastic machine. It treats solely of Romish theology. The author, an ex-Catholic, clearly reveals the utter lack of foundation for the teachings of Rome, either in reason or revelation. His work is an arsenal of facts that fully meet the arguments of those defending these childish superstitions. It is doubtful if any other book on the subject proves more conclusively that Catholicism is built upon the shifting sands of error and ignorance.

JOY, JANE ELLIS

Golden Years

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, 75c.

A temperance tale of unusual power for young people. Few stories so vividly portray the blight that liquor leaves upon every home it touches. The story impresses upon the young mind in a most realistic way the suffering and poverty that so many innocent people are forced to pass through because of drunken fathers, brothers or friends. It exposes with clearness and power that worm-eaten fallacy which every drinking man uses as an excuse, "I can drink or let it alone." In this day when the temperance people are rallying their forces to shell and capture the citadels of the liquor traffic, this book should have a wide circulation in every community because of its strong arguments for prohibition.

This pocket textbook and guide in successful soul-winning is a compact and conveniently arranged series of instructions, answers to objections, and Scriptural references for ready use in personal evangelism. Christian workers will find this work an invaluable guide to the use of the Bible in convincing the unconverted and arousing an indifferent believer to a higher sense of personal obligation and his soul's welfare. Ministers should see that this manual is placed in the hands of their church workers, for its scientific methods of personal work will surely develop a higher degree of efficiency.

LAMAR, J. S.

Memoirs of Isaac Errett

Two volumes. Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid, $2.50.

"The biography of Isaac Errett is of necessity a history of the disciples, and pre-eminently the story of their progress for the last thirty years. So thoroughly identified was this devoted servant of Jesus Christ, and distinguished teacher and preacher of the gospel, with every forward movement of those who have pleaded for the restoration of the original New Testament order, and the union of God's people upon that foundation, that, studying this life, we must, from the very nature of things, become acquainted with the work of the religious people with whom he was associated. No one can rightly comprehend the genius and growth of this movement since Alexander Campbell's labors closed, who does not carefully estimate the work of Isaac Errett."—F. D. Power.

First Principles and Perfection

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, 75c.

In this masterly work, Mr. Lamar subjects the fundamental doctrines and ordinances of Christianity to the severe test of reason, human need and social welfare. The beauty and symmetry of the laws of salvation are unfolded as this gifted author relates these principles and laws to spiritual growth and perfection in the Christian life. The Christian economy, and its place and mission in human affairs, is explained with scientific accuracy. Step by step the author points out the way to salvation, with the reason for each step.

LAPPIN, S. S.

Where the Long Trail Begins

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, 60c.

No other book that we have published has won such instant response in the hearts of the people as this little idyl of human life in the Middle West. It loosens the fountains of feeling with the magic of homely narrative. It is a type of book that should introduce a new era in our literature. "'Where the Long Trail Begins' is also 'where a little classic begins.' There is a heart-throb in every page. In this human document there is the spell of the past, the strength of the present and the lure of the future. Tender pathos, Christian sentiment and heavenly aspiration make it a story well worth while."—Prof. E. W. McDiarmid.

The Training of the Church

Its use as a text-book in every church would produce what every pastor so heartily longs for, a thoroughly trained membership.

Did Jesus Command Immersion?

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

This work defines and defends New Testament baptism. It is, without question, the most exhaustive study of the word "baptize" in print. The author's purpose is not to stir up controversy, but to help unite all Christians with regard to the true meaning and purpose of baptism. In the preparation of this great work, all the leading dictionaries, encyclopedias, Greek lexicons, Greek commentaries, etc., of all Christian bodies were thoroughly examined and constantly used. This book furnishes indisputable evidence from the highest authorities that "baptism" always means immersion, and that immersion alone will satisfy the requirements of all religious bodies. No other book published quotes so many authorities.

The Highest Culture and Christianity

New Edition of "Cultura."

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $2.00.

An enlarged and thoroughly revised edition of the book "Cultura," now published under a new title. It is seldom that one finds life's profoundest issues treated with more scholarly insight or rarer literary charm. The writer's own successful struggles with present-day materialistic thought, together with his intellectual vigor and keen spiritual discernment, make it possible for him to point out the sure way of escape to all who are ensnared in the meshes of the plausible philosophies of our time. This work will be especially helpful to those who are called upon to meet the questionings of self-sufficient students and radical thinkers. To such it will be an almost inexhaustible source of argument and information.

Struggles and Triumphs of Truth

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid, $2.00.

A guide-book and practical introduction to history, philosophy and skepticism. Pre-eminently fitted by natural endowment and wide research for such a work, this noted author proves conclusively the superiority of Christianity over intellectualism and philosophical speculation. His work is a history of the struggle of the Christ ideal with the various influences combating it from within and without, and its complete victory over them all. It is a most conspicuous piece of argumentative writing. In these days of loose thinking and intellectual confusion, when men are crying, "Lo here! and lo there!" this book will pilot the reader through the mazes of doubt into the harbor of spiritual quietude and assurance.

Macrocosmus

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

It is a thesaurus of information on the questions of life that inevitably present themselves for solution to every thinking man. It is really a treatment of the universe as seen through the eye of Christian faith in the light of Christian teaching. Every thinking Christian should have this book. It will establish his faith, and equip him to fully meet the arguments of unbelievers.

LUTZ, HENRY F.

To Infidelity and Back

New Edition.

Cloth, 16mo. Price, postpaid, 75c.

In this brilliant autobiography of a soul in the search after truth, the author who is one of the most successful evangelists of the day, exposes, with an inexorable logic, the sophistries upon which the infidelity of to-day is built. Having traveled over the rocky path of despair, and having eaten the husks of unbelief, he speaks with the authority of experience. The work is a most convincing and satisfactory apology for Jesus Christ as the Son of God, his church as the only redeeming institution in the world, and the Bible as the only safe and sure guide in faith and practice. It is an unanswerable argument for a united church whose plea is the Bible, and nothing but the Bible, as the only agency that can conserve the forces of the churches and regenerate mankind. Every lover of truth should thoroughly master the contents of this book.

LYON, PROF. O. L., Ph.D.

Principles of Literary Interpretation

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.00.

While this book is admirably adapted for a college text-book, it is also especially valuable to all who seek to perfect themselves in English literature by home study. The principles are so clearly enunciated, the illustrations so admirably chosen, that no earnest mind can fail to enter into its purpose and receive its benefits. "The author believed that the 'Bible contains the best poetry in the world,' and we are sure that he made his thesis good. The work is replete with quotations representing the gems of universal literature, all of them fittingly illustrating the themes under discussion."—F. D. Kershner.

MABRY, J. C.

A Legal View of the Trial of Christ

Cloth, 16mo. Price, postpaid, 50c.

A popular discussion of the trial of Jesus before the Jewish and Roman tribunals. The author, a leading lawyer in Iowa, brings to his task a well-trained, legal mind. He clearly demonstrates that in condemning Jesus the judges violated every principle of Jewish law and displayed a wanton disregard for every principle of justice. He proves, beyond all doubt, that the evidence submitted against him was so contradictory that it had absolutely no foundation, and that the entire proceedings were farcical and a willful perversion of all established precedents. Every believer should read this book. It throws a new light on the moral grandeur displayed by Jesus in the face of the baldest and most indefensible injustice ever meted out by human judges.

MATHEWS, ROBERT T.

Evangelistic Sermons

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.00.

In this volume of sermons the gospel is preached in a most inspiring and forceful way. Every discourse, dealing with some important phase of salvation, is a model of clearness, simplicity and directness. As a pulpit orator, Mr. Mathews had few equals. His winning personality, personal charm and wide knowledge of the Bible are fully preserved in these sermons. This book should be on the study-table of every minister and Sunday School teacher. It will give to its readers a clearer conception and a keener appreciation of the gospel plan of salvation and of the all-sufficiency of the word of God.

McCAULEY, W. F.

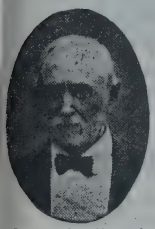
The Bible in Story

Illustrated, cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

This unusual work is a guide for parents and teachers in discussing religion in the home. The entire Bible is given in story form. The thirty-six chapters and nearly four hundred pages are illustrated with ninety-one pictures and five maps. The main incidents of the Bible are discussed in the family circle, in which both young and old take part. Each person contributes to this conversation, asking questions, raising objections and drawing the lessons of each incident. It should be in every Christian home, for it points out the way to a natural and effective method of successfully teaching religion in the home.

McGARVEY, J. W.

A New Commentary on Acts of Apostles



Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

A commentary on this great book of the Bible that is original in form, broad in scholarship, and truly conservative. In this volume President McGarvey is at his best. His versatility, profound knowledge of the Bible, his skill in arraying evidence and his sympathy with the divine record combine to make a work of surpassing value and originality.

A practical and inspiring commentary that will illuminate the study of the New Testament.

Jesus and Jonah

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, 50c.

A vigorous defense of the Book of Jonah. Belief in this Bible miracle involves the belief in the divinity of Jesus Christ. The author exposes the cavils of the higher critics in a way that leaves them no ground to stand upon. Those who have not full confidence in the story of Jonah should not fail to read this able defense of its authenticity.

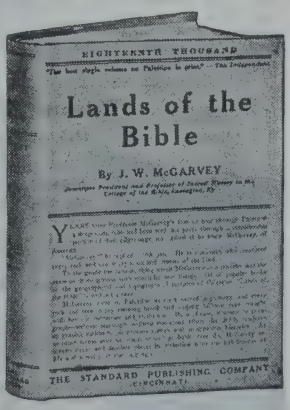
Class Notes on Sacred History: Acts of Apostles

Cloth, 8vo, interleaved. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

"This volume contains a printed copy of the author's class notes, by the guidance of which he gives instruction in 'Acts of Apostles.' These notes present the result of many changes and improvements made during an experience of twenty-four years; and they are now put to print, not because the author considers them perfect, but in order to save hereafter some labor in the classroom, to furnish former students the notes in their improved form, and to make known to other teachers the author's method. The printed volume will save, both to the professor and student, the time and labor of writing, except the writing of the additional notes which each student may think is needful to make on the lecture; and for the convenience in writing and retaining these latter notes, every right-hand page is blank."—Author's Preface.

Lands of the Bible

Illustrated, cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid, $2.00.



An exhaustive guide-book to the geography, topography and social customs of Palestine. President McGarvey went to Palestine as on a holy pilgrimage. To him every rock and tree, every running brook and sloping hillside were fraught with sacred memories and traditions. With painstaking care he traveled over the country with tape-line and measuring-rod in order to secure the most accurate information — information which is so necessary to a full appreciation of the Bible as its own best evidence of divine authorship and its own best interpreter. He has classified and arranged and presented all this in that graphic, clear-cut and forceful style for which he was famous. This great work is especially valuable to superintendents, Sunday School teachers and adult pupils, for it can be used in the preparation of every Sunday School lesson.

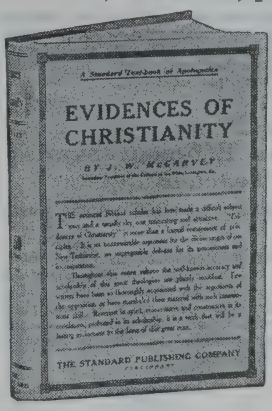
Evidences of Christianity

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid, $1.50.



A standard text-book of apologetics. This notable work is much more than a formal statement of principles; it is an unanswerable argument for the divine origin of our New Testament and an impregnable defense for its genuineness and its inspiration. Few writers have been so thoroughly acquainted with the arguments of the opposition, or have marshaled their material with such consummate skill. This work should be in the hands of every believer in the Bible, to fortify his faith in it and to defend it against every form of infidelity. It is reverent in spirit, profound in scholarship and constructive in its conclusions.

The Authorship of Deuteronomy

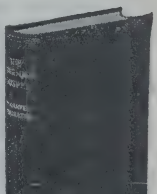
Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

The Mosaic authorship of the Pentateuch is fully vindicated in this work. Bible critics all agree that the issue finally rests with the Book of Deuteronomy. Combating the boastful claims and "assured results" of the destructive conclusions reached by modern infidelity, President McGarvey not only proves that Moses may have written the book, but that he alone could possibly have written it, and at the dictation of Jehovah. All lovers of the Bible ought to thoroughly digest this work, both for their own peace and that they may be able to point out the errors of those who oppose it.

McGARVEY, J. W., and PENDLETON, P. Y.

The Fourfold Gospel

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.65.



A harmony of the four Gospels, so arranged as to form a complete chronological life of Christ, divided into titled sections and subdivisions, with comments interjected in the text. In preparing this work, there has been no sparing of time, labor or expense. The American Revised Version has been used, and the author, in collaboration with P. Y. Pendleton, has carefully avoided all conceits, quibblings and useless refinements, and has studied to present only that which is useful, helpful and practical. It has not been the aim to produce a commentary for the textual critic, the theologian or the professor, but a plain and simple guide-book for every-day readers of God's word.

Standard Bible Commentary on Thessalonians, Corinthians Galatians and Romans

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid, $1.65.

A companion volume to "The Fourfold Gospel." The original method of treatment in that standard harmony has been employed in preparing this volume. The commentators have kept fully in mind the needs of the busy Bible student. They have produced in this work a most practical and helpful exposition for the use of all readers of God's word.

Biblical Criticism

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

In this series of short essays on modern criticism, this eminent Biblical scholar has prepared a remarkable defense of the Bible. The clear thinking and keen analysis that are so characteristic of all Mr. McGarvey's writings are here found in their highest form. His inexorable logic tears off the mask of learning from the utterances of the enemies of the Bible, reveals their sophistries and upholds the integrity of the Scriptures in a most able way. Nowhere has this noted author employed his wit, sarcasm and Biblical knowledge so effectively as in this book. It should be in the household of every believer for constant reference.

MEDBURY, CHAS. S.

From Eden to the Jordan

Cloth, 16mo. Price, postpaid, 50c.; paper, postpaid, 30c.

A series of lessons on the Pentateuch. This is the third book in the first year of the Advanced Teacher Training Course. (Twenty lessons.) A text-book that is both suitable and readable. The teacher-student feels that he is actually journeying through Bible lands and mingling with Bible people, so realistic is the author's style. The idea of this course of studies is to take up intensively the work treated extensively in Herbert Moninger's book, "Training for Service."

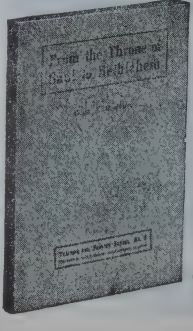
From Jordan to the Throne of Saul

Cloth, 16mo. Price, postpaid, 50c.; paper, postpaid, 30c.

The first book in the second year of the Advanced Teacher Training Course. (Twenty lessons.) The second of the three text-books by Mr. Medbury kindles a keen desire for the third. Outlines and topics for research and discussion abound. The events of Old Testament history are so associated with the men and women who took the leading parts that the reader remembers both. The thought of these lessons is to thread our way through the entire Old Testament narrative in a way that will make clearer to many the ongoing of our God. There is no pretense to anything but A. B. C. outline work, which, however, has its vital place. Indeed, without it there is no understanding of Scriptures.

From the Throne of Saul to Bethlehem

Cloth, 16mo. Price, postpaid, 50c.; paper, postpaid, 30c.



The second book in the second year of the Advanced Teacher Training Course. (Twenty lessons.) The author of these three volumes is one of America's best preachers. In this last book he is at his best as he gathers for the teacher the rays of revelation focusing upon Calvary. Throughout the three books the teacher's training is trained Christward.

These three books, "From Eden to the Jordan," "From Jordan to the Throne of Saul" and "From the Throne of Saul to Bethlehem," make a splendid outline study of the sweep of Old Testament history, the student's attention being always directed to the coming of the Christ.

Thousands who have read his "Big Smoke Mountain," "Saddles and Lariats" and "The White River Raft" will be eager to follow the fortunes of "Fort Blocker Boys." Mr. Miller writes with convincing realism because he himself once lived the life of these pioneer boys.

"It is a fine book for boys; it will encourage the best in them, and is exceptionally interesting in inspiring courage, self-reliance and hearty devotion to the highest welfare of mankind. It contains over 300 pages, and no dull page is found. It is written in a racy style, such as naturally captivates young people." —Evangelical Messenger.

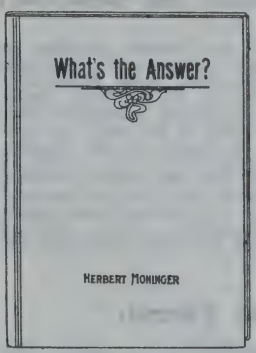
What's the Answer?

Cloth, 16mo. Price, postpaid, 25c.; paper, postpaid, 10c.



A unique way of acquiring many of the facts of the Bible. There are twenty-six problems. Here is one of them:

"How many books did the major prophets write?" Alfred asked his Bible School teacher. The teacher replied: "If to the number of the books of the Law in the Old Testament you add the number of books in the New Testament written by Peter; multiply that by the number of books written by Luke; multiply that by the number of letters in the name of the great river in Egypt; subtract the number of letters in the name of the river near Babylon; subtract the number of letters in the name of the city of Chaldea from which Abraham was called, and divide by the first chapter in Acts that contains a record of Paul's conversion, you will have the number of books written by the major prophets. Answer, 5.

The book contains the autobiography of Barton W. Stone, in which is given a graphic description of the great meeting held at Cane Ridge in 1801, in which Mr. Stone was the chief actor."—J. B. Briney.

ROTHERHAM, J. B.

Studies in the Psalms

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid, $2.25.

A new emphasized translation and a complete commentary. "The man who can deal successfully with the Psalms must be endowed with no ordinary capabilities. He must not only have surpassing literary gifts, a mastery of the Hebrew language, keen analytical acumen, the technical skill combined with the patience and perseverance of the explorer; but he must also have profound spiritual insight, the instinct and genius of the poet and musician, a deep and wide experience of the world and of nature and the ever-changing emotions of the human heart. Above all, he must have a reverent and adoring love of God and a large-hearted sympathy with weak and erring humanity. One can not read many pages in this fascinating book without coming to the conclusion that the author possessed all those characteristics in no small measure."—The Messenger.

The Emphasized New Testament

Cloth, square 8vo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

A new translation, adjusted to the Westcott & Hort Text. The author says in his Preface: "This work is a third edition. The book has been so thoroughly remodeled as to be practically a new work." Signed J. B. R., London, Oct. 1, 1897. The work is throughout characterized by scrupulous care and general excellence. It is an extremely literal translation; the drift, point, and emphasis of the original—the very feeling of the Greek—being clearly discernible in English. Familiar passages thus appear in fresh and often picturesque form; the text is displayed on the page in a manner that shows at a glance narrative and speech. Section headings assist the eye, and the accompanying indications of parallel passages in the other Gospels invite comparison therewith. Quotations from the Old Testament are printed in italics, and a valuable introductory note on the interpretation of the Bible precedes the first Gospel. The only authorized edition.

The Emphasized Old Testament

Cloth, square 8vo. Price, postpaid, single volume, $5.00; in three separate volumes, per volume, $1.75.

A new translation. Designed to set forth the exact meaning, the proper terminology, and the graphic style of the sacred originals; arranged to show at a glance narrative, speech, parallelism and logical analysis, also to enable the student readily to distinguish the several divine names. Emphasized throughout after the idioms of the Hebrew and Greek tongues, with expository introduction, select references and appendices of notes.

The Emphasized Bible

Cloth, square 8vo. Price, postpaid, $6.00.

The above Emphasized Old and New Testaments may be secured in one handsome and substantial volume.

The most striking contribution of the Restoration movement to Biblical scholarship is this masterly work by Bro. J. B. Rotherham, whose life was given to the closest Bible study, and who is acknowledged as a great scholar the world over.

Studies in the Epistle to the Hebrews

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.00.

A new, emphasized translation, with critical and expository notes.

"The title of this little book modestly indicates its quantity and quality. 'Studies in' rather than a 'commentary on,' and 'studies' rather than oracular pronouncements. And yet the author in the use of that word 'studies' has accurately described his book, and has employed the finest word possible for all dealing with Scripture. It is at once saintly and scholarly, reverent and bold. It is a rich, if brief, contribution to the exposition of one of the most fascinating books of the New Testament."—G. Campbell Morgan.

ROTHERHAM, J. B. (Continued)

Let Us Keep the Feast

Cloth, 16mo. Price, postpaid, 50c.

"It may add to the interest of the readers of these chapters to know that they are the last written words of the earnest Bible student whose name they bear. During the last few months of his life the writer of these chapters enjoyed a short period of leisure. About this time a friend lent him two large volumes containing a summary of the teaching regarding the Lord's Supper, from the first century to our own times. As a result, there followed a series of discourses, delivered on Lord's Day morning, and once again, by desire, the pen was taken in hand to condense into permanent form the substance of the spoken addresses."—Foreword.

Christian Ministry

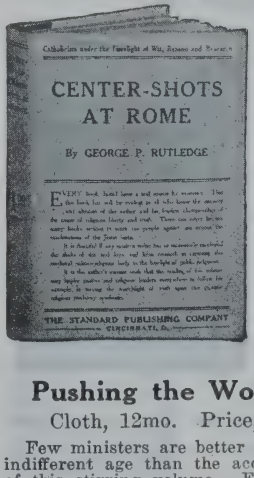
Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, 75c.

"Here is a book of rare freshness and charm. Mr. Rotherham, with his ripe scholarship and rich experience, sketches with a master hand the outlines of the sacred task of ministering, and then fills in the details of his picture with the skill of an artist and the ardor of an enthusiast. He deals most helpfully and convincingly with the subject of preaching, and gives sound advice to all who desire to preach with effectiveness; but he includes all Christians in the 'work of ministering,' and has something to say to parents and neighbors as to their privileges and responsibilities."—Baptist Times.

RUTLEDGE, GEO. P.

Center-shots at Rome

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.



Catholicism under the limelight of wit, reason and research. Every book should have a real reason for existence. That this book has will be evident to all who know the sincerity and altruism of the author and his fearless championship of the cause of religious liberty and truth. There can never be too many books written to warn the people against and expose the machinations of the Jesuit junta.

It is doubtful if any modern writer has so successfully employed the shafts of wit and logic and keen research in exposing this medieval politico-religious body to the limelight of public judgment.

Pushing the World Along

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.00.

Few ministers are better fitted to preach the gospel to this indifferent age than the accomplished and successful author of this stirring volume. Every sermon is a shaft of truth winged with apt illustrations, which go deep into the heart of the hearer. The preacher who wishes a fresh stimulus to more forceful and original sermonizing should read Mr. Rutledge's discourses.

SAINT-ETIENNE, RABAUT

The Old Cevenol

Art boards, 12mo. Price, postpaid, 75c.

A realistic story of Catholic persecution. The inhuman cruelties that were perpetrated upon the Huguenots by the Roman Catholic Church constitute the story of this volume.

This book is deserving of wide circulation, for it is exceptionally timely for the conditions of the day. The message it contains—written in the blood of the martyred Huguenots—warns us to keep inviolate the liberties we have inherited from the sacrifices of our forefathers and to call a halt upon the encroachments on these liberties by the Roman Catholic Church.

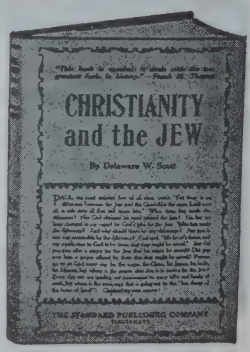
SCOTT, DELAWARE W.

Christianity and the Jew

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, 75c.



In the preface to this volume, Frank M. Thomas makes this strong statement: "This book is epochal; it deals with the two greatest facts in history."

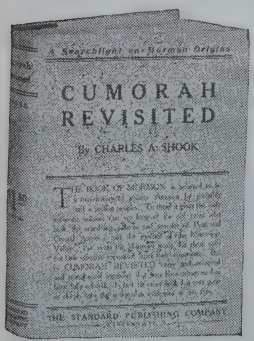
"This book will set our old friend, the Jew, in a new light before the average Gentile. It is a strongly written book, setting forth in part the great debt which Christianity owes to Judaism. It breathes a true Christian spirit. The author wonders why the church is making such great preparation for the conversion of the Chinese, the Japanese, the Indian, and other races and nationalities, and is doing so little for the conversion of the Jews, who gave us Christ and the apostles and the Bible itself. The plea is an appealing one."—United Presbyterian.

This is the most vital book that has been written upon this vital subject.

SHOOK, CHAS. A.

Cumorah Revisited

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.50.



A searchlight on Mormon origins. The Book of Mormon is believed to be a true history of ancient America by probably half a million people. To them it gives the only authentic account that we have of the old races who built the crumbling palaces and temples of Peru and Central America, and the mounds of the Mississippi Valley. For years the Mormons made this claim with but little effective opposition from their opponents. But in "Cumorah Revisited" every archæological and ethnological argument that they have advanced has been fully refuted. In fact, no other book has ever gone so deeply into the antiquarian evidences as has this. It completely refutes their claims and shows to what extent they have systematically played upon the credulity of a gullible public and to what extent this sect has gone in the way of willful deception in order to mislead the world. This is a vital and important book.

The True Origin of the Book of Mormon

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

A false revelation exposed. What is the Book of Mormon? Two answers have been given to this question. The Mormons claim that it is the inspired history of the ancient inhabitants of North and South America, translated by Joseph Smith through the power of God. The Gentiles declare that it is nothing more than the manuscript found by Solomon Spaulding, revamped by Smith and his colleagues, Rigdon and Cowdery. In "The True Origin of the Book of Mormon," Mr. Shook mantains the latter view with an array of evidence that is both startling and unanswerable. This book is the most comprehensive and conclusive contribution that has ever been made to the literature on the subject.

The True Origin of Mormon Polygamy

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.35.

A social evil revealed. Who introduced polygamy in the Mormon Church? Mr. Shook, in "The True Origin of Mormon Polygamy," proves conclusively that polygamy originated with Joseph Smith, and that he was guilty of other practices which also plainly nullify his claim to being a prophet of God.

The Gist of the Bible

Common Sense

Cloth, 16mo. Price, postpaid, 50c.; paper, 30c.

The second book in the first year of the Advanced Course of the Standard Teacher Training Series of Text-books. This work is a masterly little treatise on practical religious pedagogy and psychology. The title of this book is somewhat misleading in that it is not a treatise on common sense, but is the special application of that saving commodity to that all-important task, the training of the young, whether in the home, the school or the collegiate institution. While it is a treasure to the teacher and the professor, it is, above all, the book for the parent who feels the responsibility he is under to make the most of all opportunities to impress the child with right ideas and right motives. And it is to parents especially that we commend it as by far the best work obtainable for this purpose.

"The Sunday School teacher who studies it will be a better teacher next Sunday, and the parent who reads it will be a better parent that very day."—W. C. Pearce.

TRAUM, SAMUEL W.

Mormonism Against Itself

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

The Mormon evil unmasked. Consistency and coherency have been claimed by the Mormons as the chief foundations upon which their belief has been built. That Mormonism is divine, that its founder was inspired, that it carries upon it in plain view the stamp of God's approval, is the boast of all its emissaries. They solicit the most careful and exacting tests for all their teachings. This volume applies the tests. Herein is proven, beyond question or doubt, that the founder of this cult was an impostor, that its teachings are subversive of morals, and its system of theology lacking entirely in the power to appeal to man's rational nature. The insidious character of this modern iniquity is shown in all its ugliness, and the frightful blasphemies that it teaches are systematically set forth and rigorously exposed.

By M. M. DAVIS

Important facts of church history are herein recited by one who knows. A great scholar, a great preacher, a great writer, tells the truth about the triumphs of the New Testament church during the last one hundred years.

How to Become an Efficient Sunday School Teacher

By PROF. WM. A. McKEEVER

The distinguished author, who is Professor of Child Welfare in the State University of Kansas, is a recognized authority in the domain of applied psychology and pedagogy. He writes clearly and simply. His book is one that the average reader will understand and enjoy. It would be difficult to find any one better qualified to tell the Bible School teacher how to become efficient.

How to Promote Christian Union

By F. D. KERSHNER

A distinguished educator gives a sane, Scriptural solution to one of the greatest problems confronting the Christian world. God's people will be and must be one. How can we help? Study this book for "light and leading."

The Two Standard Series of Sunday School Periodicals

The most Scriptural, complete and practical aids for both teacher and scholar. Their aim is the conversion of the children. Each series is superior in every respect and each has several matchless features. The unique publications in the Uniform Series are a superintendents' quarterly, a vest-pocket quarterly, and a journal for the mothers of the Cradle Roll. Those in the Graded Series are the colored Picture Lesson Roll and the colored Picture Lesson Cards for the three Primary grades. In paper, printing, engraving, and all typographical features, they equal the best.

Sample copies of any of our fifty-one (51) periodicals will be gladly sent on request.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF
E. STEIGER & CO.

ESTABLISHED 1864 — 49 MURRAY STREET — P. O. BOX 1905

NEW YORK

Importations of foreign books and periodicals are, in consequence of conditions which have arisen in the course of the last two or three years, subject to more or less delay, if at all feasible. Our representatives in London and Paris and other book centers in Entente and neutral countries are, in spite of difficulties, filling our orders with all possible promptness.

While our erstwhile well assorted stock of German books, covering all subjects from belles-lettres to languages, arts, sciences etc. has been depleted, we still have a considerable stock on hand, and booksellers can therefore send us their orders for imported publications with the assurance of the promptest service and lowest prices which circumstances admit of. In view of the depletion of our German stock, however, it would be advisable in ordering to give not only the title actually desired, but also a second or third choice in the event of the first being out of stock, or merely to give the kind of book wanted without specifying any particular title. All prices are subject to change without notice.

Import orders are accepted only subject to delay and possible loss in transit at purchaser's risk, and are not subject to cancellation. Prices of subscriptions to periodicals in particular are subject to change without notice. Quotations upon request.

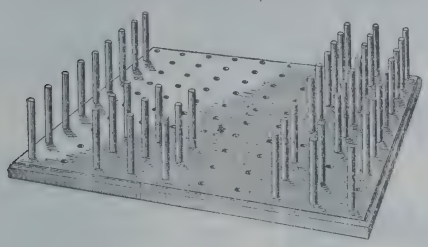
Peg Boards or Busy Work Tiles.



An occupation for younger children in the home, the kindergarten and the primary school.

The tile is a well finished square board, with holes drilled at regular intervals for holding pegs of various colors.

The pegging of lines, angles and geometrical forms, the arranging of the colors in the various combinations, and the invention of new forms and combinations give much pleasure, while affording the means of instruction to the little ones in the kindergarten and at home. In connecting and primary grades peg-boards are utilized in various ways, particularly in teaching arithmetic.

For kindergarten and school use, the boards are put up without pegs (Nos. 1732 and 1735 a) and the pegs are in boxes of 100 or 1000 each, assorted in six colors. For use in families one board with an assortment of pegs is put up in a paper box, making it complete. (Nos. 1732 a, 1733 a, 1734 a, 1735.)

1732 1 Peg-board, 6×6 inches, with 100 holes arranged 1/2 inch apart in the form of a square, without pegs. $0.25

1732 a. 1 ditto, in a box, with pegs. $0.35

1735. 1 Enlarged peg-board, 10×10 inches, with 100 holes 3/16 inches in diameter, arranged 1 inch apart in the form of a square, with 100 pegs 2 inches long, in six colors. $0.50

1735 a. 1 ditto, without pegs. $0.35

STEIGER'S KINDERGARTEN BOXES FOR THE NURSERY.

Packages containing a generous supply of properly made kindergarten material for one child, with directions for use, at $0.25 to $0.50 per package (absolutely net, no discount whatever). These packages are very reasonable in price and can easily be sold at a profit of 50% by booksellers and stationers.

Mat-Weaving.

This occupation, popular among little boys as well as girls, while entertaining, affords instruction in the elements of arithmetic. It promotes accuracy, neatness and generosity, some of the articles capable of being made from mats, such as napkin rings, needle-books, sachet bags, cornucopias etc, making acceptable little presents for relatives and friends. It stimulates the inventive faculties and develops the sense of color harmony in the child.

No. 743. This envelope, while exceedingly reasonable in price, contains a cardboard mat with wooden strips already inserted to teach the child how the weaving is done, a patented steel weaving-needle of simple pattern, some twenty weaving-mats with the requisite fringes and a few fancy silver and gold mats, as well as illustrated instructions explaining the use of the needle and material. net $0.25 (including postage). No discount.

Chain-Making and Bead-Stringing.

No. 795. A box containing 200 strips of colored kindergarten paper for making chains, 200 straws, 54 wooden beads, 200 paper disks and squares and 6 laces for stringing, net $0.50 (including postage). No discount.

This assortment of kindergarten material provides entertaining and instructive amusement for children of four to seven years of age. The ends of the first strip are pasted together, each successive strip is past thru the preceding one and its ends joined in similar manner, forming a chain which, when draped as a garland over picture-frames, curtains etc. forms an attractive decoration.

The laces past thru the straws and paper disks or squares alternately, the paper being punctured in the center by the tab at the end of the lace, form equally attractive festoons, a fit ornament in the nursery.

Stringing the wooden beads in a systematic manner with due regard for the variety in form and color, the assortment comprising red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet spheres, cylinders and cubes, affords not only any amount of entertainment, but, as the materials described above tend to develop the power of observation in the little ones by teaching them to discriminate between the several colors as well as the properties of the various forms, Frœbel's principles of learning by doing and learning while playing are practiced in these occupations.

This volume is arranged to meet the needs of the beginner or amateur, especially for those who have limited areas that are available for the purpose.

The Sandwich System herein described is not an idle theory, but a solid successful fact, the result of years of careful, painstaking experiment, and highly successful efforts in practical vegetable and flower gardening.

New York Sun: "This book will rouse the ambition of the city agriculturist. It is much more effective and practical than 'Back-to-the-Farm' Sermons."

Montreal Daily Mail: "It is one of the most complete treatises on the growing of vegetables and flower gardens yet issued for the beginner, and the information is so classified that anyone can become successful if they follow the instructions given."

ANONYMOUS

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE THEATER

Precisely what the title indicates—facts as they are, plain and unmistakable without veneer of any sort. It goes directly to the heart of the whole matter. Behind the writer of it—who is one of the best known theatrical men in New York—are long years of experience. He recites what he knows, what he has seen, and his quiet, calm, authoritative account of conditions as they are is without adornment, excuse or exaggeration. It is intended to be helpful to those who want the facts, and for them it will prove of immeasurable value.

"The Truth about the Theater," in brief, lifts the curtain on the American stage. It leaves no phase of the subject untouched. To those who are ambitious to serve the theater, either as players or as playwrights, or, again, in some managerial capacity, the book is invaluable. To those, too, who would know more about the theater that they may come to some fair estimate of the worth of the innumerable theories nowadays advanced, the book will again prove its value.

Wm. Lyon Phelps: "It is an important book and justifies its title. It ought to be read everywhere in America."

James Ford, New York Herald: "It is refreshing to read about the stage, not through the customary glamour or through the tawdry exaggeration of the press agent, but in the light of common day. No prize is offered by the publishers for the correct guess of the author's name."

WITH THE COLORS: SONGS OF THE AMERICAN SERVICE.

A book of virile verse dealing with the War-work of America. Poems that, in good American slang, have Punch plus Pep. Perfectly safe for anyone to read except traitors. All in all, probably one of the most noteworthy volumes of verse published this year.

Oakland Tribune: " . . . In some ways a quite remarkable collection. . . . They speak the American language, the American spirit-soldier talk in soldier days. . . . An excellent gift for a soldier or one who is close to a soldier."

One of the poems in the collection, "The Woman Who Understands," has been copied extensively both here and in England; Current Literature declared it a complementary poem to Kipling's "Vampire." Others have a ruggedness and strength that is a little unusual and wholly uplifting.

Chicago Record Herald: "This is a heartening little volume, insistent with manly faith and courage. A good book to put in the pocket, traveling satchel, and the heart."

AUER, Harry Anton.

CAMP FIRES IN THE YUKON.

In this book the author, an explorer, a hunter of big game, and a lover of the Great Out-of-Doors, takes the reader from the shut-in life of the cities to the mighty wilderness of Alaska and The Yukon.

Hunters of big game will revel in this journey to the greatest range of big game on the continent; lovers of animal life will find keen interest in observing and studying with Mr. Auer the habits of the wild life of the far North, while the reader who loves the Open Places of God's Great Nature will be dominated by the intimate contact with the Majesty, Might, and Beauty of the Wilderness of Alaska and The Yukon.

We are given a liberal supply of that practical and useful information that we need in venturing into the Silent Places, interesting alike to those who roam the untrodden trails and to those who remain at home; we are told much that we should know about the romantic and Golden North, and all in a simple, unpretentious style that comes from contact with bigness.

The remarkable and numerous photographs with which Mr. Auer illustrates his work bring us very close to the great heart of the far-off Northern Wilderness.

Deseret Evening News: "He gives liberally of that useful and practical information needed by those who venture into the silent places, and he does it in so friendly a manner as to interest not only such as may themselves roam the untrodden solitudes, but also such as follow the trails in imagination from the peacefulness of their own fireside. The book is remarkably illustrated, both as to the number and the artistic beauty of the pictures, which further help to bring the reader very close to the heart of the far-off field."

CAWEIN, Madison.

THE REPUBLIC. A LITTLE BOOK OF HOMESPUN VERSE.

Mr. Cawein's latest volume of Poems was written with a purpose. In it he makes a plea for plain living and high thinking. In the second part of his little volume, which is appropriately named "In Homespun," he gives us something different from anything he has done heretofore. They are little messages of love and hope and cheer. Homely and refreshing as a drink from the old spring, in them a flavor of the soil of Good-will to God and man; and content, no matter what our lot in life.

Our Dean of American Letters, William Dean Howells, says of Mr. Cawein: "He has the gift, in a measure surpassed by no poet, of touching some smallest or commonest thing in nature, and making it live from the manifold associations in which we have our being, and glow thereafter with an inextinguishable beauty."

Review of Reviews: "Mr. Cawein's nature poetry is a vessel brimming with the Elixir of Youth in which our faded roses of remembrance renew once more their pristine freshness and perfume."

MINIONS OF THE MOON.

A Little Book of Song and Story.

In this new book of Poems Mr. Cawein has given us something entirely different from anything ever attempted before in American Verse. He speaks with authority of his American faery. They are the articulate elements which interpret for him the beauty of the world, symbols if you please with which she addresses the soul.

Mr. Cawein has long been sure of his following among those whose judgment really counts and for whom poetry to be real poetry must be a deep interpretation of Nature and the Soul of Man.

Boston Transcript: "It is Mr. Cawein's landscape feeling for nature which constitutes the most abiding contribution of his art to American poetry. In 'Minions of the Moon' we have been given a work of delicate beauty which communicates pleasure, and for this we are duly grateful."

THE YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK.

The World's Greatest Wonderland. America's only Geyser Land.

An entirely new and revised edition with new plates and new illustrations of this remarkable classic of The Yellowstone. Ever since its discovery, more than forty years ago, the Yellowstone Park has grown in popular interest. Its natural wonders surpass anything to be found in like compass elsewhere in the world.

To these attractions have been added others in the form of wonderful mountain roads built by the Government, and a system of hotels and camping facilities which make traveling through the Park a delight quite apart from its scenic interest.

The 1918 edition of The Yellowstone is the most comprehensive book on the Park ever published. It gives a complete history of that region, as well as a full scientific description of its natural wonders. It is also an admirable Guide Book.

Bulletin of American Geographical Society: "There is practically nothing relating to the Park of interest to intelligent readers that is not treated in this volume."

Ready's Mirror: "Gen. Chittenden possesses the art of making even dry statistics bloom, and his book, supplied as it is with a splendid index and a map to delight, is replete with human interest."

SKETCHES OF GREAT PAINTERS.

"Sketches of Great Painters" treats in a biographical and critical way of fifteen great painters. Among these are the pre-eminent old masters, Leonardo, Raphael, Michel Angelo, Titian, Velasquez, Rembrandt, and Rubens; then there are Murillo, Van Dyck, and Reynolds, and the modern Millet, Corot, Turner, Whistler, and Rosa Bonheur.

This book is in no sense a formal history of art, nor does it attempt that thoroughness which is sometimes akin to boredom. But no one can read these "Sketches" now graphically presenting the life and personality of the painter, and then again entertainingly describing one of his masterpieces, without absorbing much valuable information about those great masters of painting, whose art has quickened our appreciation of beauty.

The Bellman: "Here we have a book which performs the inestimable service of bringing that enlightenment which stimulates appreciation and enjoyment of great masters, this time in the field of pictorial art. . . . Pleasantly untechnical, and graphic as well as accurate, it is especially a book for laymen. . . . Illustrated with Reproductions so excellent as to merit being taken out and framed."

CLARK, Barrett H.

EUROPEAN THEORIES OF THE DRAMA.

An Anthology of Dramatic Theory and Criticism from Aristotle to the present day in a series of selected texts, with Commentaries, Biographies, and Bibliographies.

A book of paramount importance. This monumental anthology brings together for the first time the epoch-making theories and criticisms of the drama which have affected our civilization from the beginnings in Greece down to the present day. Beginning with Aristotle, each utterance on the subject has been chosen with reference to its importance and its effect on subsequent dramatic writing. The texts alone would be of great interest and value, but the author, Barrett H. Clark, has so connected each period by means of inter-chapters that his comments, taken as a whole, constitute a veritable history of dramatic criticism, in which each text bears out his statements.

Nowhere else is so important a body of doctrine on the subject of the drama to be obtained. It cannot fail to appeal to anyone who is interested in the theater, and will be indispensable to students.

The introduction to each section of the book is followed by an exhaustive bibliography; each writer whose work is represented is made the subject of a brief biography, and the entire volume is rendered doubly valuable by the index, which is worked out in great detail.

CONTEMPORARY FRENCH DRAMATISTS.

In "Contemporary French Dramatists" Mr. Barrett H. Clark, author of "The Continental Drama of Today," "The British and American Drama of Today," translator of "Four Plays of the Free Theater," and of various plays of Donnay, Hervieu, Lemaitre, Sardou, Lavedan, etc., has contributed the first collection of studies on the modern French theater. Mr. Clark takes up the chief dramatists of France beginning with the Théâtre Libre: Curel, Brieux, Hervieu, Lemaître, Lavedan, Donnay, Porto-Riche, Rostand, Bataille, Bernstein, Capus, Flers, and Caillavet. The book contains numerous quotations from the chief representative plays of each dramatist, a separate chapter on "Characteristics" and the most complete bibliography to be found anywhere.

This book gives a study of contemporary drama in France which has been more neglected than any other European country.

Independent, New York: "Almost indispensable to the student of the theater."

Boston Transcript: "Mr. Clark's method of analyzing the works of the Playwrights selected is simple and helpful. . . . As a manual for reference or story, 'Contemporary French Dramatists,' with its added bibliographical material, will serve well its purpose."

FOUR PLAYS OF THE FREE THEATER: "THE FOSSILS," "THE SERENADE," "FRANCOISE' LUCK," "THE DUPE."

The Serenade.—A Burgeois Study in Three Acts.....Jean Jullien
Francoise' Luck.—A Comedy in One Act, Georges de Porto-Riche

Brieux says: "Antoine . . . it was who for the first time introduced to the public a large number of dramatists hitherto unknown, many of whom it is certain would otherwise never have had a hearing. He was the first to bring Ibsen to France, and François de Curel into international renown. Antoine showed us greater and finer possibilities in staging. . . . He reduced the number of stage conventions, he encouraged and successfully produced the works of new authors, and taught the general public to look for and appreciate dramatic work of better quality and nobler inspiration than that to which it had as a rule been accustomed."

Brander Matthews says: "The book is welcome to all students of the modern stage. It contains the fullest account of the activities of Antoine's Free Theater to be found anywhere—even in French."

DE LESSELINE, Liddell

THE TWO CROMWELLS. A Prose Tragedy, in Three Acts.

"No more coining of men's groans and tears into greatness;" thus Richard Cromwell, in Act III, Sc. 1, as he abdicates the Lord Protectorship of England.

But Philosophy and Thesis are incidental only; the drama places the wife of a condemned conspirator between the antipodal characters of Oliver and Richard, and unfolds how, upon her desperate attempt at a rescue, hinges her own destruction; the estrangement of Oliver and Richard; Oliver's death, and the emergence of Richard from licentious roistering into the empyrean of self-sacrifice and renunciation.

Salt Lake Tribune: "The work is an example of dramatic tragedy of the old school, wherein human greatness is made to succumb to overwhelming circumstances; and amid our poor imitation plays of pathology it comes as a pleasant surprise. Literary students will welcome it as a sign of the reawakening of dramatic art; and, if presented, its true picture of life is sure to please the theatergoing public."

EATON, WALTER PRICHARD

PLAYS AND PLAYERS—Leaves from a Critic's Scrapbook. Preface by Barrett H. Clark.

A new volume of criticisms of plays and papers on acting, playmaking, and other dramatic problems, by Walter Prichard Eaton, dramatic critic and author of "The American Stage of To-day," "At the New Theater and Others," "Idyl of the Twin Fires," etc. The new volume begins with plays produced as far back as 1910, and brings the record down to the current year. One section is devoted to American plays, one to foreign plays acted on our stage, one to various revivals of Shakespeare. These sections form a record of the important activities of the American theater for the past six years, and constitute about half of the volume. The remainder of the book is given over to various discussions of the actor's art, of play construction, of the new stagecraft, of new movements in our theater, such as the Washington Square Players, and several lighter essays in the satiric vein which characterized the author's work when he was the dramatic critic of the New York Sun. Unlike most volumes of criticisms, this one is illustrated, the pictures of the productions described in the text furnishing an additional historical record. At a time when the drama is regaining its lost position of literary dignity, it is particularly fitting that dignified and intelligent criticism and discussion should also find accompanying publication.

Outlook: "There is meat here for all who are concerned with the development of the American stage."

EHRMANN, Mary B.

MELODIES IN VERSE.

Music and Poetry, twin sisters of beauty and imagination, are clearly shown hand in hand in the above book by a well-known composer.

True to title, the verses are filled with melodious rhythm, many, such as "The Garden of Allah," "La Riviera," "Dolce far Niente," reflecting the atmosphere of the locality in which they were written.

The author calls them "little songs, a bit old-fashioned," but we all know that old-time melodies are often the sweetest and most dearly loved.

Detroit Free Press: "Her poems are unambitious, she herself calls them 'a bit old-fashioned,' but they are melodious, largely related to nature, and daintily presented by Stewart & Kidd."

The Salt Lake City Tribune: "The verses have a finished style and a perfect rhythm. They are written in the words most natural to the images and their beauty is at once apparent."

FORAKER, Joseph Benson.
NOTES OF A BUSY LIFE.

In two volumes Mr. Foraker has sketched his experience of three years in the Union Army, three years on the Bench, four years as Governor of Ohio, and twelve years in the Senate of the United States.

He deals with many political and public events of great importance and, incidentally, with many national characters whom he met in connection therewith.

He quotes letters from Presidents Hayes, Harrison, McKinley, Taft, and Roosevelt, and from Senators Sherman and Hanna, Secretary Hay, and other distinguished Americans, which have never before been published.

He covers the Spanish-American War, the Panama Canal, and many other important subjects, closing with comments on modern developments in political methods and practices, having special reference to the Initiative, Referendum, Recall, and Primary system of making nominations, all of special interest at this time when these methods are being tested by practical experience.

The book will prove of special interest to all students of our political history, whether they are public officials or only public spirited Americans interested in the preservation of our Institutions.

Philadelphia North American: "It is primarily compact of documentary evidence, reinforced by contemporary comment."

Outlook: "To the reader these two volumes introduce a character worth knowing; a man of ability, independence, courage, and combativeness."

Louisville Courier Journal: "The entire work will prove instructive. The most valuable contribution to history is that portion which relates to the author's career in the Senate of the United States."

GOSS, Charles Frederic, D. D.
JUST A MINUTE.

Most of our minds are too sluggish or too absorbed to initiate serious and philosophical trains of thought. We need some other mind to give us a shove or a shock.

May this little volume act in that capacity, offering the bread of life to some hungry soul in that swiftly fleeting moment which is its only opportunity for perusal in one of those frenzied days through which all of us have to pass in our high-pitched modern life.

Worcester Gazette: "The little essays are wonderfully refreshing, containing none of the cut-and-dried philosophizing which is so distasteful to, and so little understood by, the majority of every-day men and women. Every reading sends out its uplifting message of good cheer and happiness, which cannot fail to have an effect upon the reader of especial value at this time of strife and frenzy."

EUROPEAN DRAMATISTS.

This scholarly volume by an author of international fame deals with seven of the most formidable figures in European Drama—Ibsen, Maeterlinck, Shaw, Wilde, Strindberg, Schnitzler, and Barker.

Chicago Record Herald: "His essays in interpretation are welcome. Mr. Henderson has a catholic spirit and writes without parochial prejudice—a thing deplorably rare among American critics of the present day. * * * One finds that one agrees with Mr. Henderson's main contentions and is eager to break a lance with him about minor points, which is only a way of saying that he is stimulating, that he strikes sparks. MacMILLAN, Mary.

SHORT PLAYS.

To fill a long-felt want. All have been successfully presented. Suitable for Women's Clubs, Girls' Schools, etc. While elaborate enough for big presentation, they may be given very simply.

Review of Reviews: "Mary MacMillan offers 'Short Plays,' a collection of pleasant one- to three-act plays for women's clubs, girls' schools, and home parlor production. Some are pure comedies, others gentle satires on women's faults and foibles. 'The Futurists,' a skit on a woman's club in the year 1882, is highly amusing. 'Entr' Act' is a charming trifle that brings two quarreling lovers together through a ridiculous private theatrical. 'The Ring' carries us gracefully back to the days of Shakespeare; and 'The Shadowed Star,' the best of the collection, is a Christmas Eve tragedy. The Star is shadowed by our thoughtless inhumanity to those who serve us and our forgetfulness of the needy. The Old Woman, gone daft, who babbles in a kind of mongrel Kiltartan, of the Shepherds, the Blessed Babe, of the Fairies, rowan berries, roses and dancing, while her daughter dies on Christmas Eve, is a splendid characterization."

MacMILLAN, MARY

MORE SHORT PLAYS.

Plays that act well may read well. Miss MacMillan's plays are good reading. Nor is literary excellence a detriment to dramatic performance. They were put on the stage before they were put into print. They differ slightly from those in the former volume. Two of them, "The Pioneers," a story of the settlement of the Ohio Valley, and "Honey," a little mountain girl cotton-mill worker, are longer. The other six, "In Mendelesia," Parts I and II, "The Dryad," "The Dress Rehearsal of Hamlet," "At the Church," and "His Second Girl," contain the spirit of humor, something of subtlety, and something of fantasy.

Oakland Tribune: "When Mary MacMillan wrote her first volume of 'Short Plays' she performed a distinct service to a large number of boarding-school and college girls who had more than once sought, in vain, for the right play in which to place dependence for the amusement of an audience and of the players. Now Miss MacMillan has written more of these dramatic little offerings, all of them bright and rippling, some symbolic and whimsical, and not one uninteresting or dull.

"'More Short Plays' are to be read for the fun in their reading. They may be played successfully. The author has displayed a versatility that is surprising and refreshing."

THE LITTLE GOLDEN FOUNTAIN AND OTHER POEMS.

Some of these poems have appeared in "Poet Lore," "The Boston Transcript," "The International," "The Masses," "Midland," "The Club Woman's Magazine," "Men and Women," "The Smart Set," etc.

Some of them have been set to music by Louis Victor Saar, Wintter Watts, Sidney Durst, and others.

In form they run the gamut from the conventional French forms, the triolet, roundel, ballade, vilanelle, the Italian rispetti, the sonnet, blank verse, the more ordinary rhyme schemes, to the poet's own individual expression of free verse. In thought they vary, too, being concerned with philosophy, nature, description, religion, love, though love holds the dominance, as it does with poets.

SCHNITZLER, ARTHUR

COMEDIES OF WORDS AND OTHER PLAYS. Translated by Pierre Loving.

The contents are: "The Hour of Recognition," "Great Scenes," "The Festival of Bacchus," "His Helpmate," "Literature."

In his "Comedies of Words," Arthur Schnitzler, the great Austrian dramatist, has penetrated to newer and profounder regions of human psychology. According to Schnitzler, the keenly compelling problems of earth are: The adjustment of a man to one woman; a woman to one man; the children to their parents; the artist to life; the individual to his most cherished beliefs; and how can we accomplish this adjustment when, try as we please, there is a destiny which sweeps our little plans away like helpless chessmen from the board? Since the creation of Anatol, that delightful toy philosopher, so popular in almost every theater of the world, the great physician-dramatist has pushed on both as world-dramatist and reconnoiterer beyond the misty frontiers of man's conscious existence. He has attempted in an artistic way to get beneath what Freud calls the "Psychic Censor" which edits all our suppressed desires. Reading Schnitzler is like going to school to Life itself!

Saturday Night, Toronto: "Indeed to the reader who can enjoy the drama in printed form—and we are free to admit that not everyone can do so—this collection of plays is of piquant, thoughtful and unflagging interest."

SEX PROBLEMS OF MAN IN HEALTH AND DISEASE.

This volume by Dr. Moses Scholtz, an expert on venereal diseases, is an entirely new departure in the literature of sex hygiene. It is the first attempt to present to the general public in a thoroughly scientific comprehensive way all the facts of the sex life of a man. A youth struggling for purity in his manhood will find powerful support and encouragement from a scientific viewpoint.

An unfortunate victim of venereal disease will be greatly enlightened and benefited by the wealth of information of a practical character. Next to the instinct of self-preservation, sex is the most powerful and dominating factor of human life. Its proper interpretation and control bring to man happiness and a fully developed healthy life. Its ignorance or abuse spell ruin in a destruction of body and soul.

HOW TO GROW 100 BUSHELS OF CORN PER ACRE ON WORN SOIL.

This volume, as the title suggests, will prove of inestimable value, and if its teachings are followed by the farmers throughout the country, it will revolutionize the art of farming and make it a most profitable business. As one man says: "You make conservation of the soil plain and practical. You present a difficult problem in such a good, commonsense way."

Boston Transcript: "The author is a determined enemy of the soil robber. . . . To the possessor of worn-out land Mr. Smith offers the fruits of long experience, and he has certainly accomplished wonders. He treats exhaustively of soil, drainage, organic matter, ventilation, soil covering, etc. . . . His chapter of 'Don't Forgets' is a rich garden of agricultural epigrams, and not the least forceful warns the farmer: 'Don't forget that the soil-robber is the highwayman of agriculture.'"

The book deals with every phase and feature of the farm.

Practical Farmer, Philadelphia: "In these days of intensive farming, lots of brains must be used in connection with brawn, and this work is exceptionally well fitted to give great assistance. It treats of farming as a business, and the practical farmer can get much help from it. SYMBOLIC TEACHING: OR MASONRY AND ITS MESSAGE.

While this is a book of Essays having the Ancient and Accepted Order of Freemasonry as a basis it is quite different from other books of its kind in that it goes to the heart of things. "In his way the author stands alone. He has invented a new manner — that of telling stories by word painting. His crash and subtlety of language are splendid. He is the Goya of letters, with all the color, rhythm, rush and spate of expression of the Spanish painter, drawing bulls and horses, women and strange types with the same inimitable bravura and precision."— English Review.

ANGLO-GERMAN RIVALRY AS A CAUSE OF THE GREAT WAR

By Oscar A. Marti

The following extract from the vision of the late Tolstoi, written in 1910, is the keynote of Mr. Marti's book, the title of which is self-explanatory: "I see floating upon the surface of the sea of human fate, the huge silhouette of a nude woman. She is in her beauty, her poise, her smiles, her jewels — a super-Venus. Nations rush madly after her, each eager to attract her especially. But she . . . flirts with all. In her hair ornaments of diamonds and rubies is engraved her name 'Commercialism!' . . . Much destruction follows in her wake . . . and the flame of war that the beautiful courtesan carries from city to city and from country to country."

THE SUM OF FEMININE ACHIEVEMENT

By Dr. W. A. Newman Dorland, Editor of The Chicago Gynaecological Society, and Secretary of the Illinois Society of the Order of Founders and Patriots of America

The book contains a minute, complete and fascinating account of the work accomplished by the women of the world. Mrs. Florence G. Tuttle, the New York novelist, writes: "I am amazed at the valuable amount of information that has been collected in this book. The author proves that woman's genius, in spite of obstacles, has flowered in every field in all time. . . . As a source of reference, alone, the book is invaluable. I marvel at the amount of research it represents."

The most valuable part of the book is an alphabetical appendix, most comprehensive in scope, of the great women of history, including those living at the present time, with an account of the life work of each.

In THE SUM OF FEMININE ACHIEVEMENT the author summarizes a thousand books in one.

THE RIDDLES OF HAMLET AND THE NEWEST ANSWERS

By Simon Augustine Blackmore, S. J., Professor of Philosophy and Literature, Campion College

A new and tremendously illuminating interpretation of Hamlet from the Catholic standpoint. Of Professor Blackmore's critical originality and fine insight into the real significance of the tragedies of Shakespeare the New York Times writes: "He shows not only the critic's insight, but the historian's vision. . . . His criticism will be of considerable assistance to those readers whose appreciation of the greatest plays in our language is as yet formal rather than genuine."

This book will interest both Catholics and non-Catholics. Whether you do or do not agree with Professor Blackmore's interpretation, you will see Hamlet in an entirely new light.

SONGS OF A SAMMY

By Corporal Warren C. Vining

Corporal Vining is a Sammy, through and through and up and down, and he's mighty glad and proud of it. And this mighty gladness and energy of his are so excellently incorporated in his book, Songs of a Sammy, that these poems will set you a-singing and a-whistling while you tackle your day's work, whether it be to do your bit in the game of Democracy at home, or to show the fellows across there just how we Americans play the game.

Determination, Optimism, Energy and Pluck are the four corner-stones of this splendid book of verses.

MODERN LIGHT ON IMMORTALITY

By Henry Frank

This is a conspicuous work which, on its appearance, called out over 100 extensive reviews and criticisms in leading daily newspapers and periodicals, in this country and in Europe.

Perhaps no other work extant so precisely and meticulously presents the history and evolution of the conception of immortality in the human mind. As the Open Court says, "beginning almost with the inauguration of human thought," the author reviews the origin and development of the doctrine in each of the great ethnic religions presenting innumerable facts of astounding interest, and then attempts by a comprehensive survey of the science of physics, electricity and the laws of energy, to reveal the logical attitude of modern natural science toward the great enigma.

Of the author's success the Brooklyn Times said: "It is rare to see a man of ecclesiastic training pursuing a subject with so admirable a scientific disposition and temper and in so unbiased a fashion."

Second edition, enlarged. Over 500 pages.

The Review of Reviews says:

"There is a freshness about the whole collection that is beautiful. By all means, let us have more of these college Anthologies."

Prof. J. W. Cunliffe, Associate Director of the School of Journalism at Columbia University, says:

"One's first impression in running over the American collection is the general high level of workmanship; the next, the variety of theme and treatment."

William Stanley Braithwaite writes of the book:

"I think this Anthology will have a deep interest for readers unassociated with academic life, for in the poetry world it may well serve as the yearly Spring of Song."

AS THOU WILT, and OTHER POEMS

By Ethelwyn Dithridge

The title poem of this book won a $100 prize in a competition held by the St. Louis Art League and open to all the poets of America. Here is the poem that won the prize:

AS THOU WILT

If in the sheltering circle of my arms
No little child of mine shall ever rest,
Nor I may feel the touch that thrills and charms
Of helpless, searching lips against my breast,
Yet for the sake of that beloved child,
Of whom my dream is ever, night and day,
Teach me the mother spirit, tender, mild,
That from no childish heed can turn away.

And if the love that I had held so sure,
Grow dim and distant till it vanish quite,
Grant me that changeless love that shall endure,
Strong and sufficient for earth's darkest night.
Take from my heart all bitterness and pain
Until these futile, selfish strivings cease;
Use Thou the life I should but spend in vain,
And in the joy of service grant me peace.

SONG-FLAME

By Amy Sherman Bridgman

The subjoined definition of Poetry, taken from "Song-Flame," is a good specimen of Miss Bridgman's fervid and truly inspired verse:

Impassioned, radiant Vision, —
Elusive, compelling, sublime;
Enamored of rhythmic beauty,
Indifferent to rhyme;

Her minister is Music,
Her henchman, Soul's-desire;
Not Heaven itself confines Her,
This Goddess ringed with fire.

ANTHROPOLOGY UP-TO-DATE

By George Winter Mitchell, Professor of Classics, Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario.

In this fascinatingly written book on Anthropology, Prof. Mitchell tells the following humorous story to illustrate the danger of gathering your data by questioning savages and others about what you think they ought to know:

"To test the method of getting evidence by firing questions at all and sundry, I once made a systematic canvass to find out what meaning people attached to the Holy Ghost. I interrogated an eminent divine, a celebrated lawyer, a highly successful physician, and a clerk of a first-class hotel. To my question, 'What do you understand by the Holy Ghost,' the divine said, 'A sort of emanation from the Supreme Being.' The lawyer's answer was, 'A-hem, I'll look it up, and give you my opinion tomorrow,' and the physician's, 'Why really, I don't think I ever thought just what I did think about it.' The reply of the hotel clerk was brief, but quite as satisfactory as the others. He said, 'Rats.' "

THE RETURN OF ODYSSEUS

By Marion Mills Miller, Litt. D., Editor of "The Classics-Greek and Latin," Vols. I-XV, etc., etc.

In this poetic drama Dr. Miller, well known for his splendid modern interpretations of the spirit of the Classics, has reproduced the beautiful atmosphere of the Greek tragedies. Written in the form of those ancient tragedies, the dialogue and the lyrical passages are as fresh and spontaneous as the gushing of a spring in the forest. Vividness, motion and color characterize this play. There is only one other drama written by a living poet which in our opinion resembles in any way "The Return of Odysseus," and that is, the "Prometheus" of Robert Bridges.

IN STRATFORD AND THE PLAYS

By Horace Spencer Fiske, Author of the "Ballad of Manila Bay and Other Verses," "Chicago in Picture and Poetry," "Provincial Types in American Fiction," etc., etc.

In stratford and the plays contains sixteen sonnets, previously published in various forms, which have already attracted high praise from leading poets and critics. The sonnets on famous characters in the plays of Shakespeare celebrate some especially dramatic or pathetic moment in the development of each.

The unique and notable illustrations, one for each sonnet, are chiefly of great actors and actresses in the various character parts referred to in the sonnets.

This book is a work of art in every way. The handsome illustrations alone are each worth many times the price of the book. These illustrations and the text are printed in brown ink on India tint paper, and the beautiful effect is enhanced by a dark blue binding with a cover design stamped in gold.

A splendid gift book.

ACROSS THE YEARS

TRANSLATIONS FROM THE LATIN LYRIC POETS

By Charles E. Bennett, Professor of Latin at Amherst College

In these translations Professor Bennett has proven himself to be an iconoclast. He has shattered our picture in which the ancient poets have been represented as stiff, tin-soldier-like figures whose talk sounds like a lecture in rhetoric. Instead, he shows us human beings who talk, sing, and yes, cuss like us. These translations, or rather adaptations, enable us to hold out our hand across the centuries, and to clasp the warm hand of our deathless fellowmen.

THE CLASSICAL INFLUENCE IN ENGLISH LITERATURE IN THE 19TH CENTURY, AND OTHER ESSAYS

By William Chislett, Jr., Ph. D.

The essays in this book, covering a wide field of authors and subjects, flow like a limpid river and bear the reader amidst delightful scenes and cooling breezes all the way from the classical sources down to the literature of the last century. For lucidity of expression, beauty of style and soundness of criticism, you will find that the book has few equals. Among the subjects so charmingly treated are: "The New Hellenism of Oscar Wilde," "The Platonic Love of Walter Pater," "The Influence of William Blake on William Butler Yeats." "The Work of Robert Bridges," "The Influence of Nonnus on Elizabeth Barrett Browning," etc., etc.

THE NEW CONVERT

By Sergei Stepniak (Kravchinsky)

A PLAY OF THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTION, IN 4 ACTS, TRANSLATED BY THOMAS B. EYGES, WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY PRINCE PETER KROPOTKIN

Stepniak occupies one of the foremost places among the heroes that the Russian Revolutionary movement has produced. An artillery officer in the Russian army at twenty, he later became disgusted with the barbarity of the Russian government and devoted himself to the cause of the Nihilists.

In this play Stepniak depicts the real Revolutionist,—not the blood-thirsty, bewhiskered, bomb-throwing ruffian as he is generally pictured to be, but the gentle, sensitive, humanly loving and suffering friend of the down-trodden people.

"The New Convert is among the best of recent Russian translations."—Boston Advertiser.

"There is much beauty in the play, a warm sympathy pervades the whole and that big simplicity which emanates from all of Russia's great men."—Thomas Seltzer in the N. Y. Call.

PSYCHIC PHENOMENA, SCIENCE AND IMMORTALITY

(A sequel to "Modern Light on Immortality")

By Henry Frank

One year after the publication of Modern Light on Immortality the author fulfilled his promise to publish another volume setting forth his deductions from so-called psychic phenomena, bearing on the problem of immortality. This work proved to be even more of a storm centre than the former work, and equally as popular.

Sir Oliver Lodge, while not conceding the author's deductions, admitted their ingenuity and suggestiveness.

It appeared as "interesting as a novel" to a writer in Light, England; and to a reviewer in the Manchester (Eng.) Guardian, "one of the most interesting arguments ever presented."

This work is now in its second edition and enlarged.

Nearly 600 pages. Price, $2.50 postpaid.

LIGHTS AT DAWN

By Aristides E. Phoutrides, Instructor of the Classics at Harvard University

In these poems Dr. Phoutrides combines the calm, classical beauty of the ancient Greek lyrists and the facility of expression of the modern American poets. A deep, sincere patriotism is the alpha and omega of these poems.

Here is what critics say of the book:

Prof. Clifford H. Moore, Harvard:—

"Certainly Dr. Phoutrides has the poetic gift."

Prof. Herbert Weir Smyth, Harvard:—

"This poet possesses, to a very high degree, the merit of a lofty poetic purpose, great deftness of craftsmanship, and an acute sense of beauty."

Dr. Demos, in the Greek National Herald:—

"Any reader who feels deeply will find some ray to take as his own from these 'Lights at Dawn.'"

THE DOOM OF DOGMA

By Henry Frank

This is a classic which has passed its third edition and been several times revised.

The purpose of the book is not iconoclastic but to reveal the dissolution of the old theological doctrines in the light of loftier ideals consonant with the demands of the present Age.

It has proved to be an inspiration to thousands who, as the London Athenaeum said, face "the many problems that must be solved by one who throws off authority and follows the light of reason."

While appealing to the intellect it is aflame with spiritual illumination.

Third edition. Enlarged. Over 400 pages, Price, $1.75.

THE KINDERGARTEN IN JAPAN

ITS EFFECT UPON THE PHYSICAL, MENTAL AND MORAL TRAITS OF JAPANESE SCHOOL CHILDREN

By Tsunekichi Mizuno, B. A. Hiroshima Higher Normal School, Japan.

This book outlines the status of the Kindergarten in different countries and more especially in Japan. In the last part of the book there is the record of a careful investigation, "The effect of the kindergarten training upon the physical, mental, and moral traits of Japanese school children." This investigation was conducted among the kindergartens of a number of cities in Japan, and the results bring to light some very salient facts. This book contains many valuable suggestions for parents and educators. If some earnest readers of the book will conduct similar investigations in this country and compare their results it should be a great contribution not only to the educational field but also to human civilization.

THE TRAGEDY OF HAMLET: A PSYCHOLOGICAL STUDY

By Henry Frank

This treatise is something new even in a theme worn threadbare for over three hundred years.

The plan of the work is to make a study of each one of the acts, seeking its motive and main theme. This work called forth most interesting and extensive comments. A reviewer in the New Orleans Times-Picayune writing a three column critique says, "The brilliancy of these dissertations and the purity and elegance of the diction, captivate the attention and hold the reader enthralled."

The book is superbly illustrated by twelve photogravures representing the great actors who have played the title role from David Garrick to Southern.

Handsomely bound, making a beautiful gift book.

Over 300 pages, Price, $1.75 postpaid.

THE CHALLENGE OF THE WAR

CAN SCIENCE ANSWER THE RIDDLE OF THE GRAVE

By Henry Frank

The author of this work has approached the problem of "Immortality" from a view-point wholly original and unique. Ignoring the time-honored metaphysical and philosophical interpretations, which have so often slipped on the shifting sands, he admits, at least for argument's sake, all the propositions and proclaimed principles of the mechanistic interpreters of Nature, and then, by a most incisive process of logical deduction, demonstrates the answer of Nature to be affirmative of Man's universal hope.

Coupling the discoveries of the materialistic biologists with the latest revelations of the physical sciences, especially in the wide field of electricity, he shows how they lead naturally to an affirmation of immortality, howbeit he discards the orthodox interpretation as a theological doctrine, and seeks wholly a scientific demonstration.

This work is the last of a trilogy on the Great Theme from the pen of this author, and brings the long historic and scientific research which he has traversed for a quarter of a century to a convincing culmination.

The publishers are convinced that no thoughtful, studious or investigating mind in this Age can afford to ignore this elaborate work.

Bound in substantial style, printed on heavy paper. Price, $2.50.

INTRODUCTION BY HEREWARD CARRINGTON

THE STORY OF AMERICA SKETCHED IN SONNETS

By Henry Frank

This is a most unique effort. It sets forth a picture of all the great characters and events in the history of our country in poetic form. It is, in truth, an epic poem set in sonnets.

On the appearance of this remarkable work the Living Age ranked the author as the poet-laureate of American history.

Richly produced on heavy paper, covers illuminated. One of the most desirable of Holiday Gift Books.

WOMAN'S VOICE

AN ANTHOLOGY EDITED BY JOSEPHINE CONGER, Editor of "Home Life."

THIS ANTHOLOGY presents a woman's view-point of life. Those whose words are quoted here are leaders in their various activities, being among our foremost writers, artists, teachers, actors, orators and organizers.

It is our earnest hope that this volume will circulate very largely in the women's clubs and particularly in the homes of our Nation. We want the millions of women who are feeling and thinking, but who are as yet inarticulate upon the larger affairs of life to find their need and their voice in this volume. We want that great isolated sisterhood, many of whom have never read a book by women on Social questions, to have this volume in their hands, and always near at hand; on the sewing table or on the kitchen cabinet, where it may be referred to between cake-making and bread-making times. We hope the children in these homes will memorize these poems, and recite them at the Friday afternoon "Literaries" in their schools. For this book contains in its pages the most precious gems by and about the women of this world. It is the Bible of the Feminine Movement.

THE CLASH OF THRONES

BY HENRY FRANK

THIS is the second edition of Henry Frank's sonnets written as the events of the great war successively followed one another, reflecting the changing spirit and feeling of each period. The poem on the "United States" was written in 1915 while yet our country fondled the great hope of peace, and kept out of war. This new edition contains additional sonnets on America in the war supplementing the other sonnets, and presenting the glorious realization of what the author realized in the first place, — namely, the justice of the cause of the Allies.

THE FAITH THAT MAKES FAITHFUL

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

This book by the director of the Abraham Lincoln Centre and editor of Unity is now in its 36,000th, an almost unparalleled success for a book of sermons. It has been translated into several languages. The explanation of its remarkble appeal to people of all countries is that it contains a little of pure piety unadulterated with theology, and is throughout inspired by the spiritual verities free from ecclesiasticism. It upholds no creed, and preaches no dogma, but is the Bible of the religion of mankind.

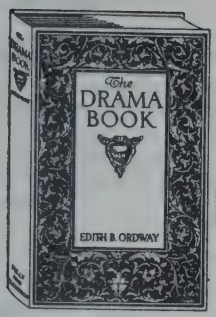
ART, POETRY, DRAMA and MUSIC



The Drama Book

By EDITH B. ORDWAY

8vo, cloth, gilt top, fully illustrated,
Boxed, net $3.00

The same, three-quarter Morocco,
Boxed, net $6.00

The Drama Book contains the stories of seventy-five or more of the more significant dramas that have been staged in the United States and England during the last six years. These include plays of a number of representative European dramatists—such as Ibsen, Bjornson, Maeterlinck, Tchekhov, Sardou, Sudermann, Strindberg, and Hauptmann—as well as English and American plays. The English playwrights are represented by such names as Barrie, Shaw, Wilde, Barker, Pinero, Galsworthy, Jones and Davies; the Irish playwrights, by Yeats, Singe, and Lady Gregory; the Americans, by Moody, Thomas, Fitch, Klein, Mackaye, and others.

The book is confined mainly to contemporary dramas, either those of recent success or perennial revival, although the stories of some dramas of the past that have been great favorites are included.

The stories follow the development of the plays act by act, as the aim has been to preserve the dramatic effect as much as possible. The style is simple, concise, and clear, and mirrors with unusual fidelity the dramatist's thought. Portraits of famous actors and actresses in the roles in which they excelled add to the artistic value of a volume which, in elegance of binding and clearness of typography, is distinctive.

The Study and Enjoyment of Pictures

By

GERTRUDE RICHARDSON BRIGHAM, A.M., Ph.D.

Instructor in Art, George Washington University.

12mo, cloth, fully illustrated . net, $1.25

A popular Guide to Pictures, resulting from the author's extended travel, teaching, and European study.

This book offers perhaps the widest range of subjects connected with pictures yet assembled in a single volume. It is written both for the general reader and the student.

It includes a résumé of art principles, a brief history of schools of painting, and a practical guide to pictures in Europe and America. Besides covering the text of picture study in advanced schools and colleges, the book suggests many other phases of review in Literature and History, the added use of which in an art course is optional with the teacher.

It is illustrated with artistic prints from works of the best masters, and contains a helpful Bibliography and a thorough index.

"Miss Brigham is thoroughly grounded in the principles of appreciation of art and knows her painting schools besides. As a practical guide to pictures to be seen in Europe and America—especially those in Boston, New York, Washington, Detroit and other American cities, giving equal value to modern schools of painting with the older schools, it is a unique compendium, and a very handy, because condensed, manual of the permanently best in picture shows."—The Boston Evening Transcript.

"Miss Brigham writes with enthusiasm and the chapters reviewing the schools of painting and noting important paintings to be seen in public collections, in America and Europe, will be found informing by those who are unacquainted with the history of Art and the great galleries of the world."—The American Magazine of Art (New York).

"A practical book for art lovers. Here is a book which should find many buyers and still more readers, because it is both an entertaining and a highly instructive book . . . . The book is richly illustrated and the illustrations are selected with an eye for effectively pointing a lesson."—The Chicago Examiner.

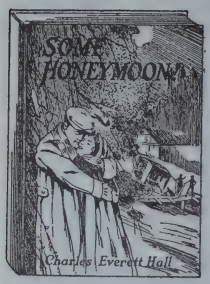
It is a real guide to the interpretation of what actually takes place on the stage, rather than a retelling in story form of each opera plot.

FICTION



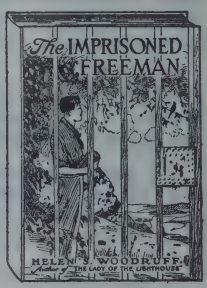
Some Honeymoon!

By CHARLES EVERETT HALL

12mo, cloth, illustrated and with colored jacket. . . . . net $1.25

Does a man know whom he marries when he takes him a wife? John Ryder thought he did, but his wife was of another opinion. And the woman—did she or did she not know her own name? A story full of ludicrous situations and absurd predicaments, painful perhaps for the participants, but inexpressibly funny to the onlooker from the moment Ryder first meets The Woman until the end, when mystery and misunderstanding are swept away. But before this end one is privileged to meet the inimitable "house detective," and the mirth-provoking "Mrs. Judson" and to watch Ryder, the Wall Street magnate, corner the lamp and oil-stove market. A farce-comedy of high order and one sure to be talked about.

The Imprisoned Freeman



By HELEN S. WOODRUFF, author of "The Lady of The Lighthouse," "Mr. Doctor-Man," etc.

12mo, cloth, with beautiful colored jacket, net, $1.35

If you like to meander through a book, drowse over it, take it up only when insomnia threatens—if you like a story without either action, plot, or suspended interest—we warn you NOT to commence "THE IMPRISONED FREEMAN," for once commenced, you cannot lay it down!

From its opening description of the splendid young "Wood-God," Dick Dennison, and his beloved outdoor haunts, the story moves quickly. The reader is taken through the sorrowful days following his mother's death, his father's harsh treatment of him, his escapades, his marriage, and finally his experience with the terrible and utterly unjust dealings of "the law." In spite of his faults and weaknesses, our affection goes out to this very human young man, whose character is developed sympathetically, but without sentimentality; and when the story's dramatic culmination is reached we lay the book down with the sense that we are richer for its perusal.

Courageously exposing the real significance of some of our laws which admit of the perpetration of atrocities, this virile American novel is the author's best work. But aside from this, its underlying and deeper note, this human-interest story possesses the charm, pathos, delicious humor and exquisite poetic imagination which has characterized Mrs. Woodruff's earlier work. No voter, man or woman, should fail to read it for its serious side. No lover of a thrilling novel should fail to read it, because it is the gladness, and not the sadness, of the optimistic author which makes the book so doubly worth while.

FICTION

Phoebe Pretends

By ELEANOR GATES, author of "The Poor Little Rich Girl," "Apron Strings," etc.

Full Colored Jacket by Clarence Underwood

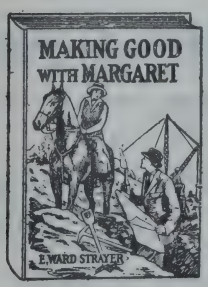
In this her latest novel, Eleanor Gates presents a heroine who is such an altogether charmingly quaint and wistful young person that readers of all ages will take "Phoebe Pretends" to their hearts. The story shows how startlingly the new generation differs from the older in some important and unexpected ways; it shows, too, certain fresh problems that touch upon the youth of our American cities, and how "society", the law, and the church clash—even amusingly—in considering, or in failing to consider, these same problems—which have to do with every-day, "polite" family life. The book is full of laughter and tears, of unexpected twists, and delicious whimsicalities.

The Diamond Cross Mystery

By CHESTER K. STEELE, author of "The Mansion of Mystery"

12mo, cloth, illustrated and with colored jacket . . . . . net $1.25

Here is something positively new in the line of mystery stories. Colonel Ashley, a military man turned detective, is a character that once known is never to be forgotten. The plot hinges on a murder and the mysterious disappearance of a cross of diamonds, and suspicion points to the lover of one of the sweetest girls ever introduced in fiction. And then—and this is unusual in a detective story—there is some real humor, the trail of Spotty, who was willing to confess to anything.



Making Good with Margaret

By E. WARD STRAYER

12mo, cloth, illustrated and with colored jacket . . . . . net $1.25

Ross Goodwin, just graduated from Yale, falls heir to his uncle's property, including a large contracting business. Margaret Poole, a girl he has loved from childhood, wants him to become a professional man. He is awarded a big contract in the face of fierce competition, and his enemies set to work to handicap him in every possible way. Meanwhile a young doctor sets out to make love to Margaret and he too does what he can to bring the young contractor's efforts to naught. A strong, up-to-date story of love and business.

In the meanwhile the other girl had gone to the front too, with the Red Cross. A volume full of thrills of battle and big business—with a strong element of love.

By JAMES A. COOPER

12mo, cloth, illustrated, and with colored jacket . . . . . net, $1.25

In this volume, humor and pathos are well mixed. Many of the doings along the Cape shore are taken from life. Tender love scenes are not lacking; and there is high excitement when a great storm wrecks a vessel off the coast and it looks as if some of the loved ones might be drowned.

Wilbur Crane's Handicap

By JOHN MAXWELL FORBES, author of "Doubloons and The Girl."

12mo, cloth, illustrations and colored jacket by A. O. Scott . . net $1.35

Can an innocent man, handicapped by a prison sentence, make good? In trying to answer this question for himself, Wilbur Crane stows himself on a ship on which is sailing "the sweetest girl in the world," a girl at once courageous and well poised. And this is well, for there comes a time of excitement and stress when both man and woman need all their courage. There is not only shipwreck and days spent under the hot sun on a floating raft, but the story reaches back to earlier intrigues that almost cause the loss of another ship. A tale of love, peril and adventure graphically, breathlessly told, which carries the reader along as on a tidal wave.

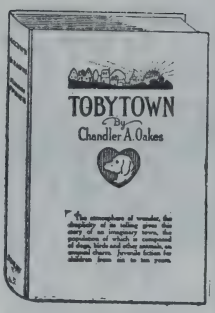
Tobytown



By CHANDLER A. OAKES

12mo, cloth, illustrated with four full page illustrations in two colors, and sixteen illustrations in the text . . . . net, $1.00

An interesting story of animal life for youthful readers. It contains that mixture of the real and the fanciful bound to appeal to the inquiring minds of children from 6 to 8 years who delight in fairy stories. The dog Toby has many human qualities and exercises all the thought and resourcefulness of mankind in overcoming difficulties and attaining the ends sought. Dogs, birds, foxes, monkeys and other animals comprise the population of the ideal "Tobytown" over which its founder presides as a beneficial monarch.

"If Mother Goose, Father Æsop and Uncle Remus could collaborate in writing a story for present-day youngsters, the result would scarcely be happier than this bright and amusing little story of a town peopled by animals."—Philadelphia Press.

"The animals speak in carefully chosen English—and 'Tobytown' will on account of its careful use of words, win its way into many a home, where an educated mother wishes to keep the language of her children pure and free from slang for as long a time as possible."—Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star.

Navy Boys Series

By HALSEY DAVIDSON

12mo, cloth, illustrated and with beautiful colored jacket. . . . Each, 50 cents

1. NAVY BOYS AFTER THE SUBMARINES, or Protecting the Giant Convoy.

Here we have the true story of the jackie of to-day—clean cut, brave, and always on the alert. The boys join the navy, learn what Uncle Sam's jackies have to do, and then are assigned to one of our big warships. This is at a time when a big convoy of ships carrying soldiers and ammunition is about to set sail for Europe. The particulars of this thrilling voyage are given, including the sighting and sinking of several enemy submarines. How one of our heroes went overboard and came close to being lost makes interesting reading. A graphic pen picture of our navy today.

2. NAVY BOYS CHASING A SEA RAIDER, or Landing a Million Dollar Prize.

For many months a German Sea Raider had been at work in the Atlantic—stopping American and other ships, taking off the most valuable portions of their cargoes, and then sinking them. Orders came to "get" this monster, and our heroes were on one of the warships assigned to that work. The chase was a thrilling one, and ended in a running battle which lasted two days. In the end the Germans tried to blow up their richly laden vessel, but it was our own gallant jackies who frustrated that wily scheme, and brought the prize safely to port.

3. NAVY BOYS BEHIND THE BIG GUNS,

Or Sinking the German U-Boats.

Much is being written about the army and the aviation corps, but little is said about the absorbing work now being accomplished by Uncle Sam's jackies. Here we have a record of big-gun work in helping to rid the ocean of the U-boat menace. A story in which every chapter is of interest.

Here is a book that will delight and entertain the little folks and at the same time teach them some pertinent and instructive lessons. For the "Dolls" all have distinct personalities of their own, and exhibit characteristics—desirable and undesirable—which are common to doll-owners as well as to dolls themselves. "Polly Comforter," "The Doll Who Wouldn't Study," and "The Domestic Doll" are some of the chapter titles. The stories have the pleasant flavor of the olden days, when life was less fierce and manners were more gentle than now. An interesting feature of the book is a genuine letter, never before printed, which was written by an eye-witness of the battle of Lexington. Illustrated by F. Liley Young.

The illustrations by Mr. Dummer are a feature quite worthy of the unique and clever text.

Who does not recall his childish, gleeful interest in one of Mother Goose's creations, Little Miss Muffet?

Miss Ball has studied the life of foreign nations both in books and by visiting many of them, and she has adapted the Miss Muffet idea to little girls of all nations, the national peculiarity in each case being cleverly depicted. The drawings by Mr. Dummer admirably fit the text and bring vividly before us the youngsters of far-away places whom Miss Muffet encounters in her travels over the world. "The big spider," that "sat down beside her" at home, is companionable compared to the creatures encountered in other lands, and finally Miss Muffet returns to her "curds and whey" with gladness.

One Thousand Literary Questions and Answers

By MARY E. KRAMER

12mo. Cloth . . . . . net, $1.25

A thousand of the questions that come from time to time into the mind of almost every reader of general literature are asked and answered in this book. The questions are stated as briefly as they arise in conversation,—now a detached name of some character or book or author, again a line of poetry or the first words of some saying that has clung to memory quite unassociated with a name. The questions touch all periods and phases of English and American literature up to the present day, and are such as may reasonably be asked of any intelligent reader. Dramatic circumstances are noted, many obscure yet valuable facts are brought to light, illuminating connections made, and matters of salient interest pointed out.

Homans' First Principles of Electricity

By J. E. HOMANS

12mo, cloth, fully illustrated . . . . . net, $1.25

As either a primer of electrical science, or as a handbook of fundamental principles that would be appreciated even by an advanced worker, this little book is in a class by itself. The author starts with the assumption that the reader, although, perhaps, unlearned in the science of electrics, really desires the information that one would expect in a book with such a title. He undertakes, therefore, to treat of the principles of the science, from the ground up, passing in review all the matters necessary to constitute a fundamental knowledge of all forms of electric current, with singularly lucid explanations of obscure points.

"This book is in a class by itself. We have never seen anything so lucid and thoroughly practical for amateurs as well as the person already versed on the subject of electricity."—The Medical Summary.

"This volume certainly will be a great help to those who wish to learn the fundamental facts of electrical action and apparatus. Not only will it be useful to beginners, but to advanced students as well, and also to practical electrical workers."

The Art of Letter Writing

By Nathaniel C. Fowler, Jr.

12mo. Cloth . . . . . net, 75 cents

Limp Paste Grain Leather, boxed net, $1.25

"The Art of Letter Writing" is not an old-fashioned collection of stilted forms of epistles for all occasions, but is a series of instructions as to titles, addresses and all the details of preparing letters, with directions as to letters of especial character, as those of condolence, congratulation, of introduction, etc. Outline forms of letters applying for a position are given among others. There is a brief chapter on paragraphing and one on punctuation. Much information as to postage rates, the parcel post, etc., is included. It is a practical and useful book and one that might well be in the hands of every boy and girl."—The Indianapolis Star.

"We know of no better book to recommend on this subject."—The Boston Herald.

Signs, Omens and Superstitions

By Astra Cielo, author of "Fortune and Dreams."

12mo, cloth. . . . . net 75 cents

There are few persons no matter how rational or level-headed who are not given to superstition in some form. With some there is a deep-seated belief that evil will result from an infraction of a rule. With others an amused idea that if a ceremony does no good it can do no harm, and so to be on the safe side they carry out Some Mummery.

It is the object of this book to review the subject of superstition without prejudice or condemnation, but to present the data and explain their origin wherever possible, leaving it to the reader to reject such beliefs as seem absurd and irreconcilable with modern culture.

Fortunes and Dreams

By Astra Cielo

12mo. Cloth . . . . . net, 75 cents

A practical manual of fortune telling, divination and the interpretation of dreams, signs and omens.

This book has been compiled for the use of intelligent people who desire to know the various ways in which events have been prophesied by occultists the world over, and who wish to test their own faculties and consult the "Book of Fate" in their own behalf. The various methods and tables are offered to the reader at their own value, without any special claim for their accuracy or efficacy. Each inquirer must determine for himself in how far he may trust the oracle that he has consulted. Some of the material is new and is not to be found in modern books of this nature. Most of the tables have been gleaned from very old authorities.

Bible Study

Amurru the Home of the Northern Semites

By Prof. A. T. Clay, Yale University. A study showing that the religion and culture of Israel are not of Babylonian origin. Light on the Old Testament from Babel

Historical Charts of the Life and Ministry of Christ

With an outline harmony of the Gospels. By George E. Croscup, B. A. Author of "A Synchronic Chart of United States History." The distinctive feature of this work is found in the two sheets of folding colored charts bound in at the back of the book. These charts make visible and real the earthly life of our Lord by localizing its historical facts and features, which are harmonized with the gospel story thereof, thus helpfully connecting time, place and event. Harmony and charts are interdependent, and make up the author's "visible method" of teaching history and applying it to the Gospel narratives.

There is also included an abundant bibliography of books to consult, a pronouncing and explanatory dictionary of proper names, lists of the miracles and parables of Jesus, an outline of the Jewish Calendar, a diagram of the Herodian Family, and a brief record of the Twelve Apostles.

This is destined to become a standard work, necessary to every Bible student's equipment. $1.00.

It also conforms to the well-known Harmony of the Gospels by Stevens and Burton, and with slight variations to the Outlines of the Life of Our Lord, by Dr. S. J. Andrews.

The chart contains three complete diagrams:
(1) A General View of the Life of Christ.

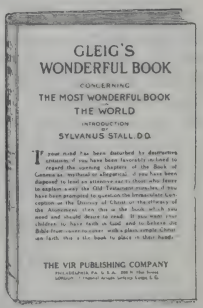
BY REV. GEORGE ROBERT GLEIG, M.A.

With Introduction by Sylvanus Stall, D.D.

711 Pages. $1.80 Net.



This book was written upon the theory that the Bible is all true or it is not true at all. It presents the Bible as a whole, and in such a manner as to unify and centralize the 66 books, giving the reader that unity and comprehensiveness of view which the Bible student needs in order to make effective his reading and study of the Bible itself, and it does two very important things; First, it creates an atmosphere in which doubt and unbelief cannot live; secondly, at the end of each chapter it answers the questions concerning the Bible suggested by Satan to the mind of every intelligent Bible reader.

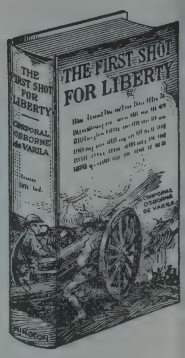
De Varila, Corporal Osborne

THE FIRST SHOT FOR LIBERTY



Corporal de Varila, the red-headed Irish-American, who fired the first shot for America in the World War, comes from a heroic family that participated in all our wars from the Revolution down. His book is a human document of a lad who left a preparatory school to be among the first to serve his country and has done so. With many thrills and frequent flashes of humor, he tells the story from the time of his enlistment in PERSHING'S ARMY, to his going aboard ship; of the passage across, with its dangers, together with its humorous incidents; the remarkable and tear-bringing reception by the French people; the training of our forces in France; life in the trenches and daring deeds of our boys on the firing line; the experience of being gassed and life in the hospitals. It is the experience that many of our boys who are "over there" and those about to go there may expect to find.

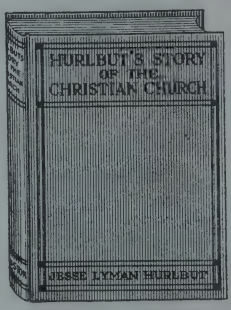
HURLBUT'S STORY OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH—[Published 1918]



In the preparation of a book undertaking to present in a few hundred pages the history of an institution which has existed for nearly twenty centuries, extending over every continent on earth, directed by mighty men, and touching with power untold millions of people, the first requisite is a true perspective,—the power to recognize the events and the leaders supreme in their importance, to make these stand forth in the record as mountains towering over the plains of time, and to omit all the minor measures and men, however influential they may have appeared in their own ages. In this handbook, the spirit of the church, the stream of its tendency, the causes leading to historic events, and the events flowing from them, have been made the center of interest. It has been sought to give in the book a smooth narrative, unbroken by topic heads, so that it may be read continuously as an interesting story. Outlines and references have also been arranged upon the margin, so that it can also be used as a text-book for students, either as individuals or in classes. The divisions and sub-divisions have been stated in detail before the account of each general period; also to each period is given a carefully selected list of books serviceable to either teachers or pupils who may desire a larger knowledge on the subject. At the end of the book will be found a blackboard outline and review questions, covering each chapter. The outlines can be used by the reader who desires to follow it, but it is not thrust upon him. The author has sought to supply a book accurate in all its statements and, at the same time, in a style interesting and attractive to the general reader.

Nearing, Scott, Ph.D. (Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Toledo University)

POVERTY AND RICHES: A STUDY OF THE INDUSTRIAL REGIME

Scott Nearing undertakes to tell why the rich are getting richer and the poor poorer; he points out how the vast wealth produced in this country is controlled, and claims that the heaven of the rich is founded on the hell of the poor. He points out a cure for the rising cost of living; he demands that honest, industrious men be spared the exhausted faces of their women and the sobs of their under-fed children.

A great book, built with science and conscience; packed with sympathy for the poor; crowded with facts, explanations and arguments that will arouse the interest of every lover of social justice. Illustrated with numerous photographs of actual conditions among both rich and poor, and other stirring pictures by celebrated artists. 293 pages. Cloth. Illustrated. Price.....Net $1.00

ANTHRACITE: AN INSTANCE OF NATURAL-RESOURCE MONOPOLY

Dr. Nearing uses the private ownership of the anthracite coal fields to show the way in which consumers and workers may expect to fare at the hands of other monopolies of natural resources. He shows that the price of coal is not based on the cost of production, but on the monopolistic principle of charging "all the traffic will bear;" he shows that the miners receive scarcely living wages, many of them less than that, while on the other hand the mine-owners pocket enormous profits; and draws the conclusion that no one can have an interest in the continuance of the private ownership of natural resources except the private owners themselves—with the consumers footing the bill. The book is an incisive, stimulating analysis of a problem that is vital to every man, woman and child in the country. 251 pages. Cloth. Price.....Net $1.00

PENNYPACKER, SAMUEL W., former Governor of Pennsylvania

The Autobiography of a Pennsylvanian UNALTERED UNEXPURGATED UNEDITED

Probably no writer dealing with public affairs and public men, since the publication o the famous "Pepys' Diary" has exercised so much freedom and intimate knowledge in commenting upon men and events. But while there may be special interest in the blunt references to nearly every man connected with the public life of Pennsylvania for the last fifty years, the value of the book as an important contribution to the literature of the State lies in the fact that Governor Pennypacker was perhaps the greatest student and chief exponent of Pennsylvania history. He himself says that he was the first to insistently call attention to the importance of the State of Pennsylvania in American life. Cloth, gilt top, 560 pages, illustrated. Price..... Net $3.00

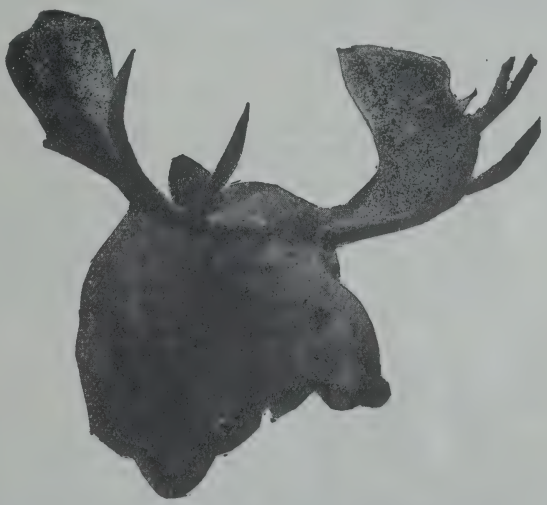
Scull, E. Marshall
HUNTING IN THE ARCTIC AND ALASKA



New Printing. This is the story of a summer cruise down the Yukon River, through Bering Strait to Herald Island and Northeastern Siberia, and by Bering Sea to the Alaska and Kenai Peninsulas. The book is of particular interest, because Mr. Scull's party was the first one successfully to accomplish a hunting trip into this part of the Arctic. Mr. Scull tells the story of a big game hunt, of which the trophies include specimens of practically all the game to be met with in Alaska, the western Arctic Ocean, and the shores of Siberia. The tales of adventures which befell the party, and Mr. Scull's personal impressions of the important places in the interior and around the coast of Alaska, add greatly to the book. Crown octavo. 304 pages. 136 illustrations and 11 new maps. Price.....Net $2.50

An Anthology of the Literature of Social Protest, collected from twenty-five languages, covering a period of five thousand years, with an introduction by Jack London. Bolles, Albert Sidney, Ph.D., LL.D. Author Modern Law of Banking, Banks and Their Depositors, Bank Officers. Formerly Professor of Commercial Law and Banking at the University of Pennsylvania. For 20 years editor of the Bankers' Magazine.

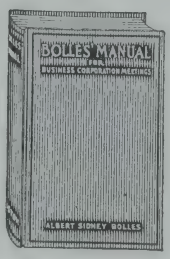
BOLLES' MANUAL FOR BUSINESS CORPORATION MEETINGS (Published 1918). Founded on the judicial interpretation of the rules of parliamentary law, applicable to all the states of the Union and to Canada.



This work covers a field not within the scope of any other parliamentary manual. It contains a full legal exposition of all matters of parliamentary practice by all the courts of last resort in the United States and Canada, as well as all the decisions of the courts of Great Britain deemed applicable to the subject. In the ordinary parliamentary manual, very little attention is given to the time and place of the meetings of associations, yet these matters have been the subject of much judicial inquiry and decision. What meetings, if any, can a business corporation hold outside the state of its incorporation is a live question, asked constantly, but to which no answer can be found in parliamentary manuals.

The qualifications and duties of inspectors of elections are of growing complexity and importance. Likewise, the mode of holding meetings, the selection and duties of the chairman, the rule of the majority, the right of discussion at meetings, the rights of absentees, and how their absence affects the legality of a meeting's proceedings. Who can vote, is another question with many applications, to trustees, executors, option holders, corporations, pledgors and pledgees of stock, etc. Much of the voting nowadays is done by proxies. Many questions have arisen concerning them, all of which are answered in this book. There is a chapter also on voting, the rights of corporations to vote, and all the judicial decisions relating to cumulative voting. Voting agreements have been the subject of frequent judicial inquiry. The courts have greatly modified their earlier views, and the present state of the law is here fully set forth. Beside these matters, many others, pertaining to elections, by-laws, remedies for impending improper action, or for acts unlawfully done, keeping of the minutes, etc., render this a needful book to every business corporation. 16mo. 518 pages.

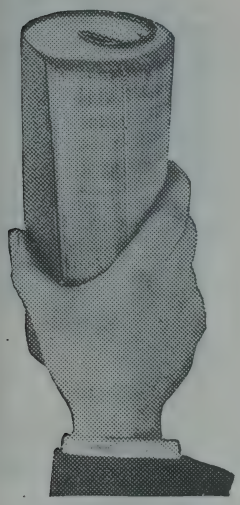
CLEARNUTYPE

DICTIONARIES



ABSOLUTELY FLEXIBLE
The leather Bindings of the Universal CLEARNUTYPE Dictionaries are so flexible and so durable that they can be rolled without injury to binding or sewing.

The Universal CLEARNUTYPE Dictionaries are not called "Webster's" because no dictionary can claim to be modern or useful at the present time which has not been so much changed since the death of Webster in the year 1843 as to render the use of his name as the author of it a misnomer.

As the Language changes and grows Dictionaries must change and grow with it. Dictionaries made a few years ago, even with frequent revision, fail to meet the needs of to-day. It requires rebuilding to give the proper balance between the words and definitions in use to-day and those of yesterday.

The Unusual CLEARNUTYPE Dictionaries are based upon the foundation laid by NOAH WEBSTER and other lexicographers, modernized by CHARLES MORRIS.

In clearness of type and the ease with which the eye finds the word; in simplicity and accuracy of definition; in fullness of contents and logical arrangement Universal CLEARNUTYPE will be found to excel other works of like purpose.

Among the Noteworthy Features are the Following:

Words defined are printed in bold-face type with definitions in clear, easily read type.

Each word is divided into syllables to show the proper syllabication of words.

The capitalization of words. All proper words begin with capital letters, common words with small letters.

Compound words have a bold-face hyphen.

Synonyms and antonyms are given in the body of the dictionary following the definitions of the words.

The Pronunciation of words is shown by a clear and properly accented system of phonetic spelling with key to pronunciation at the bottom of each page.

The parts of speech are given.

All definitions are given in simple language that is easily understood.

Each word and its derivation are defined separately instead of the derivatives being crowded in with the definitions; an expedient which saves space but lacks utility.

Issued in six different forms each containing the largest possible type in a book of the size, and planned to meet the requirements of every variety of service.

They Contain All the Words in the English language in ordinary use, including the many new words that have recently come into use.

The Definitions are Accurate and Reliable and embrace all recent distinctions and shades of meaning.

Words Conveniently Divided Into Syllables in the manner employed by the best writers.

The Proper Use of Capital and Small Letters is clearly indicated. All proper nouns begin with capital letters; common nouns begin with small letters.

The Pronunciation of Each Word is shown by a clear and properly accented system of phonetic spelling, with a key to pronunciation at the bottom of each page.

The Synonyms and Antonyms are given with the definitions, instead of being placed in a separate list in an appendix according to the usual but less convenient method.

Each Word and Its Derivatives are separately indexed instead of the suffix words and prefix words being crowded in with the definitions, an expedient used to save space, but with a loss of clearness and utility.

A Clear Face Type, alike for words and definitions, is employed, to avoid the necessity of close and wearisome scrutiny.

A SILENT WITNESS

The ordinary mystery story seems commonplace when compared with this new novel by Dr. Freeman. It is full of the thrill of perilous adventure, of fiendish conspiracy, and of hazardous attempts to ferret out a resourceful, unscrupulous criminal. How Thorndyke, medico-legal expert, pieces infinitesimal facts together with infinite care, how he bridges the gaps in his network, and triumphantly discovers the undiscoverable, makes him a classical figure among the great detectives of fiction. 8vo. 382 pages. The desert, ever changing, ever mysterious, is less a setting for than an actor in this dramatic story of love and adventure, wherein the eternal word of all romance is written in the sand by a beautiful English girl as her answer to a French captain of spahees. The Reluctant Lover is the most modern of modern young men, and still more advanced is the determined girl who sets out to capture his cool, chaste heart. Sinclair, Upton
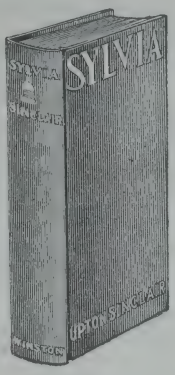
DAMAGED GOODS

From the great play by Brieux, novelized by Upton Sinclair with Brieux's approval. The one work which all authorities agree chastely and adequately warns the new generation of the terrible penalty of sexual immorality. Highly indorsed everywhere. Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, says: "At last, thank God, this conspiracy of silence is ended." The New York Times pronounces it "epoch making." Illustrated with photographs from Richard Bennett's presentation of the play. 194 pages. Cloth. Price.....75 cents

Sinclair, Upton
SYLVIA



Appearing at the psychological moment when social questions are at the front, "Sylvia" is the "inside story of a great society wedding, and reveals the things the public never hears. In its picture of the old, fast-vanishing Southern life, and in the unfolding of the character of a charming girl, the book is surpassing, while in the final, startling scenes, it brings home to the individual reader the horror which is hidden in the phrase, "sowing his wild oats." 413 pages. Cloth. Price... 75 cents

SYLVIA'S MARRIAGE

Upton Sinclair here tells the very human and convincing story of the married life of Sylvia Castleman, a socially-distinguished Southern girl of rare charm, who, against her own inclination, for family reasons married the scion of a great New York family. The story involves a vivid picture of the class system that sacrificed Sylvia. Her beauty and the purity of her character make all the more impressive the tumult of indignation and protest with which she contemplates her child's blindness—the consequence of the former misdeeds of her husband. "Sylvia's Marriage" utterly annihilates the curse of false modesty and reticence in vital sex matters. It is a vital story—a novel that men should read for their preservation, and women for their protection. Cloth, 348 pages. Price.....75 cents

NEW PRACTICAL
"House and Garden" Books
"BEST OF THEIR KIND"

In the preparation of the books described in these pages, the first consideration has been to give practical and dependable information, free from technical terms. They have also been more lavishly illustrated than similar books sold at the same price.

The descriptions of the volumes give an accurate idea of their value and utility, and the high reputation of the editors should in itself be sufficient warrant for the general opinion that they are the "best books of their kind."

Rockwell, F. F.
HOME VEGETABLE GARDENING

Size 5¼ x 7¾ inches

A concise book on home vegetable gardening that also includes the growing of berries and fruit. Books of this kind usually treat the subject in an encyclopedic way, telling what vegetables there are and what pests are likely to attack them, and so on, giving far too much information of this kind and not enough for the man who wants to establish a vegetable garden on his suburban lot for family use. Mr. Rockwell, the author of this work, is a practical gardener himself. From long experience he realizes just what the average layman wants to know in order to raise a successful and varied crop. He realizes also that this information must be presented in a logical sequence in order that it may be used to the best advantage.

The book tells: 1. How much space is necessary for a family of a given size; 2. How to divide the space in the proper proportions for the various vegetables and trees; 3. What varieties have been tried and found true; 4. How to plant, cultivate, spray, fertilize, and finally bring the crop to fruition. 12mo. Bound in dark green cloth decorated with inlaid illustration of an exquisite garden scene done in full color.
Price ..... Net $1.25

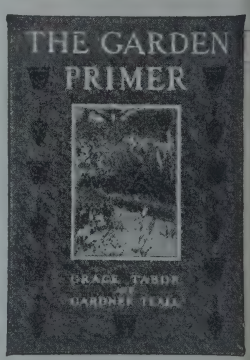
Tabor, Grace
THE GARDEN PRIMER



Size 5¼ x 7¾ inches

An indispensable book for every garden maker. It is a handbook of practical gardening information, covering every branch of the subject from preparing the soil to the gathering of the fruit and flowers. A profusion of illustrations, many of them of the most practical sort in explaining the various garden operations, make the text especially clear. The matter is supplemented by carefully prepared planting tables, an invaluable guide to every garden lover, as well as to the beginner in gardening. 12mo. Bound in dark green cloth, tastefully decorated with an inlaid illustration of an exquisite garden scene done in full colors.
Price ..... Net $1.10

DISTINCTIVE HOMES OF MODERATE COST

New and revised edition. The illustrations, of which there are more than three hundred, both of the exterior of houses, their garden settings, and the principal rooms inside, are all from photographs of houses already built, ranging in cost from $3,000 to $20,000. The floor plans are also given. All architectural styles are represented: Colonial, English Half-timber Stucco, Cement, Dutch Colonial (the gambrel roof type), Swiss Chalet, etc. Chapters written by authorities cover all sides of the fascinating problem of house-building, interior decoration and furnishing. The relations between the home-builder and his architect, the matter of plans, specifications, contracts, the puzzling problem of extras and how to avoid them—all these subjects are clarified in a most comprehensive and interesting way. 4to. Cloth. Price ..... Net $2.00

GRACE BEFORE MEALS

William Nyce and Hubert Bunyea

Brief prayers for every day in the year collected from many sources and arranged. Additional forms for national feast days, so that the monotony of repetition of a single form of grace each day is happily avoided. It also provides a method by which the several members of the family, including the children, can alternate in saying grace by reading the prayer for the day. The book is printed from handsome black type, is attractive in appearance, and will appeal to all persons who customarily say grace before meals, as well as to those who do not make a practice of saying grace, and it is hoped to many who have not been accustomed to this beautiful and simple form of devotion. 16 mo. in size.

TALES FROM SHAKESPEARE

These famous tales, to the number of twenty, were prepared for the purpose of putting into attractive prose the stories of Shakespeare's plays. They were constructed by weaving into the narrative the very words of Shakespeare wherever it seemed possible to bring them in—a method which the gifted brother and sister pursued with such success that this volume has taken a sure place in classical literature. There is no introduction to the study of Shakespeare at once so winning and so helpful as that supplied by these prose stories. 15 photogravures. Price ..... Net $1.50

THE MARY FRANCES KNITTING AND CROCHETING BOOK

As with all the other Mary Frances Story-Instruction Books, the "Mary Frances Knitting and Crocheting Book" will interest children with a delightful story, and will at the same time, teach them how to knit and crochet all kinds of garments for their dolls, and also many of the articles for the Soldiers and Sailors, as approved by the Red Cross.

This book will be just as attractively illustrated as the other Mary Frances Books and will be bound in uniform style of cloth, with inlaid cover design.

MARY FRANCES STORY-INSTRUCTION BOOKS

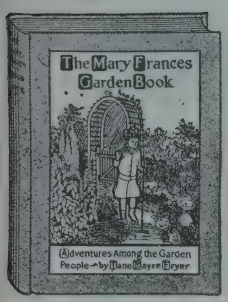
FOR TEACHING CHILDREN USEFUL THINGS IN AN ENTERTAINING WAY

These are not mere story books to be read through and cast aside. They are instruction books in story form which the youthful readers joyfully study because they think it is play. But in this play they learn principles of usefulness which fascinate because of the manner in which these principles are presented.

The Mary Frances Garden Book

Or Adventures Among the Garden People

By Jane Eayre Fryer



When the lure of Spring is in the air, and there is pure joy in simply being out of doors, every childish heart has a wish to "make a garden." For the boy or girl who has this desire there is nothing more appropriate than The Mary Frances Garden Book. This newest Mary Frances book will make Springtime happier for the children—and for grown-ups too.

HOW TO GROW FLOWERS AND VEGETABLES CLEARLY TOLD IN STORY FORM

The Mary Frances Garden Book actually teaches children how to grow all their favorite flowers and vegetables—how to prepare the soil, how to plant the seeds, how to plant bulbs, the names of parts of flowers, how plants grow by fertilization and reproduction, how to guard against insect enemies, how to care for growing plants, how to make a hotbed, what flowers and vegetables are best for children's gardens, etc., etc., and gives an outline of each month's work for a year. In brief, in the simplest possible words and style, and in the most fascinating kind of story, it gives the little reader a more intelligent knowledge of the processes of Nature than the majority of grown people possess. It also instils a love and appreciation of plant and animal life, and of all Nature.

COLORED ILLUSTRATIONS ON EVERY PAGE

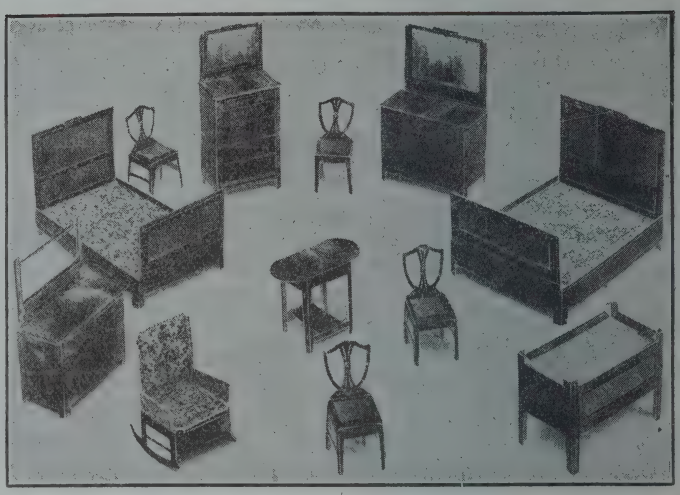
In addition to colored illustrations, on every page, there are a number of colored cut-out gardens painted direct from photographs to show the form and color of the flowers, and to prove that the garden plans in the book are not "ideals," but an actual working basis for little gardeners. 378 pages, 7 x 9½ inches. Attractive cloth binding. Price, $1.50 net.

The Mary Frances Housekeeper

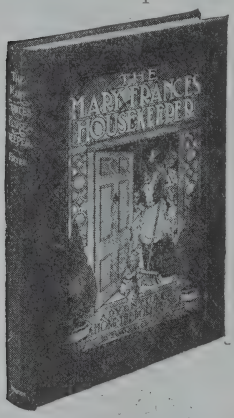
Or Adventures Among the Doll People

By Jane Eayre Fryer

It is doubtful whether any story more captivating than The Mary Frances Housekeeper has ever been written for girls. In the most skilful manner, it takes advantage of the natural childish instinct to "play house," and the opportunity to instil the fundamental principles of good housekeeping is improved through the medium of the delightful story of Mary Frances' experiences in teaching her dolls to keep house.



This reproduced photograph shows the bedroom furniture in the book cut out and set up, but it can give no idea of the realistic graining and beautiful coloring of the paper furniture itself. The book also contains suitable furniture for every room in the house.



36 SHEETS OF WONDERFUL PAPER DOLLS AND CUT-OUT FURNITURE

A glimpse into this book is enough to make a girl's heart leap. Here she finds not only the story of the Paper Doll Family of Sandpile Village, and how they acquired a home, but also the paper dolls themselves—thirty-six sheets of dolls and of the new, patented kind of cut-out furniture. Such paper dolls and furniture no little girl ever saw before! There is a whole family of dolls: Father and Mother Doll and five children, including the baby—besides "Cinda," the colored maid. Then there is a houseful of furniture—furniture for the bedrooms, library, dining-room and kitchen. Every piece has been specially drawn for the book by the designer for one of the largest furniture manufacturers in the United States. The furniture folds together with a patented, self-locking system that obviates the use of paste, pins, etc. The sheer delight of cutting out and playing with the furniture and dolls, whose fortunes are recounted in the story, creates an intense interest in the housekeeping instruction.

CONTAINS A PRACTICAL COURSE IN HOUSEKEEPING

The exciting experiences of the Paper Doll Family of Sandpile Village in setting up housekeeping create in Mary Frances (the heroine of the story) a consuming desire to teach her French dolls how to keep house, and here, as well as in the first part of the story, are woven in the practical explanations of household duties and management. This is done in the most skilful manner, so that, as Mary Frances learns how to dust, or sweep, or iron, or make beds, or polish silver, or use stencils, or assume the duties of hostess or guest, the little reader takes it all in eagerly, and becomes just as anxious to put her knowledge into practice as Mary Frances was.

Size, 7 x 9½ inches; 280 pages; bound in cloth. with attractive cover design, colored frontispiece, and colored decorations on every page. Price, $1.50 net.

The Mary Frances Sewing Book

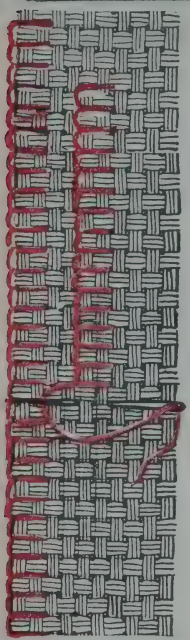
Or Adventures Among the Thimble People

By Jane Eayre Fryer

The story of how the Thimble People taught Mary Frances to sew is as quaint and delightful a story as ever appealed to a child's imagination. It leads the reader irresistibly on to learn what Mary Frances learned, and to find out all the amusing experiences which she had with these comical little elves.

HOW THIS REMARKABLE BOOK TEACHES GIRLS TO SEW

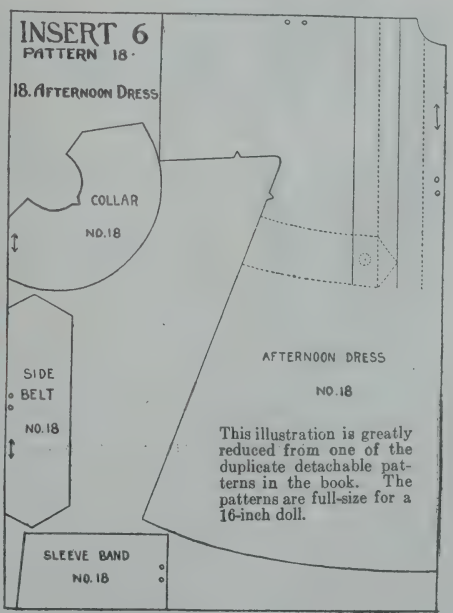
First the Thimble People teach Mary Frances the various "stitches" she needs to know—even and uneven basting, catch stitching, hemming, and all the rest. Then the Thimble People help her to make clothes for "Mary Marie"—her dolly. Here she learns how to use patterns and to bring into use all the progressive elements which she has been taught.



This diagram showing how to make the "blanket stitch" is an example of how everything is made plain in the book. Such diagrams, of which there are a great many, are printed in two colors, the thread, for instance, being shown in red to make it perfectly evident.

THE BOUND-IN AND DETACHABLE PATTERNS ARE WORTH THE PRICE OF THE BOOK

One of the most unique features of this book are the thirty-three patterns, which include everything to complete the doll's wardrobe—underclothes; morning, afternoon and party gowns; coats, bonnets, caps, night-gown, kimono, and all the dainty little things to delight a child's heart. The patterns are bound in the book in duplicate—one set on heavy paper to remain permanently in the book, with a second set on thin paper that can be detached for use. They are regular, full-size working-patterns with full directions for their use, and enable a girl to outfit her doll completely.



This illustration is greatly reduced from one of the duplicate detachable patterns in the book. The patterns are full-size for a 16-inch doll.

NEARLY 300 FASCINATING COLORED ILLUSTRATIONS

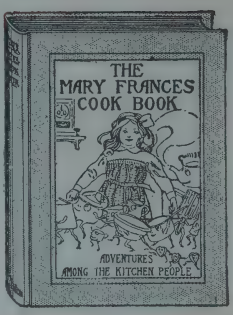
The illustrations in this book are of themselves of sufficient interest to hold a child's attention. Every page contains one or more of Mrs. Boyer's clever colored illustrations which are so popular a factor of the Mary Frances books.

Size 7 x 9½ inches; 320 pages; bound in cloth, with attractive cover design, colored frontispiece, and colored decorations on every page. Price, $1.50 net.

The Mary Frances Cook Book

Or Adventures Among the Kitchen People

By Jane Eayre Fryer



This winsome book tells in story form how Mary Frances learned to cook. It gives the recipes in the simplest, plainest words. It describes every operation clearly—just what she did, the mistakes she made (mistakes other little girls are apt to make at first) and how she learned to overcome them. The recipes are arranged in the order of their simplicity. The easiest comes first, and by gradual steps as experience gives confidence the young reader is led to the preparation of the more difficult dishes.

"A Sauce Pan is a funny thing."

TURNS DRUDGERY INTO PLEASURE AND CREATES A DESIRE TO BE HELPFUL

The book is attractive to children. It makes the use of common kitchen utensils a pleasure instead of drudgery. The pots and pans are made to talk, and what they say entertains as well as instructs. They become the Kitchen People, each with a personality of its own. No one who reads of "Aunty Rolling Pin" and her quaint speeches will ever again think of a rolling pin as a mere thing of wood. So with all the Kitchen People; their personalities are impressed on the young mind in such a way as to attract instead of repel.

Size, 7 x 9½ inches; 175 pages; bound in cloth, with attractive cover design, colored frontispiece, and colored decorations on every page. Price, $1.20 net.

The Mary Frances First Aid Book

By Jane Eayre Fryer

Member of the Red Cross Society
Member of the National Preparedness Society
Author of the Mary Frances Story-Instruction Series

As with all the other Mary Frances Story-Instruction books, the Mary Frances First Aid Book aims to interest children with a delightful story, which is used as a means for conveying information of great and lasting value, impressing it on their minds in such a way that it will always be remembered. The book tells what to do in case of accident or sudden illness, and teaches the value of presence of mind in accidents or emergencies in and outside the home. The story concerns the life of Mary Frances' dolls, and is full of humor, taking away the usual gruesomeness of the subject.

IT INSPIRES CHILDREN WITH A DESIRE TO RELIEVE SUFFERING

But is so skilfully written that they will not be tempted to use medicines or means beyond entire safety. It is also a simplified and handy reference book for grown people in cases of accident, and contains a ready-reference list of remedies for all emergencies, including directions for first aid in cases of burns, scalds, cuts, wounds, fainting, dislocations, broken bones, etc. Attractively and practically illustrated. Cloth. Price, $1.00 net.

ONE NEW 1918 TITLE IN A POPULAR SERIES FOR GIRLS

The "Red Cross Girls" Series

By MARGARET VANDERCOOK

Author of "Stories About Camp Fire Girls," the "Ranch Girls" Series, etc.

While Mrs. Vandercook is widely known, both in America and abroad, for her short stories, poems and other articles contributed to magazines, and more recently as a novelist, her enviable reputation rests chiefly on her popularity as a writer of girls' books. In her latest series, the "Red Cross Girls' Series, she has excelled all her previous achievements. These stories deal with four American girls of widely different education who enlist as Red Cross nurses in the European War. Mrs. Vandercook has avoided everything of a depressing or gruesome nature in the development of these stories, yet the elements of heroism and self-sacrifice are most commendably employed in the account of the services which the girls render on and near the great battle-field. More than that, the lighter and romantic aspects of these stories will endear them to a host of readers. The books are alive with plot and action. Handsomely bound in cloth. Fully illustrated. Attractive cover design. 12mo.

The "Ranch Girls" Series

By MARGARET VANDERCOOK

The first volume of this popular series tells the adventures of four charming girls who inherit a ranch in Wyoming, and of their solution of many difficulties which confront them. The second volume describes the adventures of the Ranch Girls while on a wagon trip to the Yellowstone. The third volume finds the Ranch Girls established in a fashionable boarding school in New York, and the fourth tells of their adventures under alien skies. In "The Ranch Girls at Home Again," the interest returns to the ranch, while in "The Ranch Girls and Their Great Adventure," published this year, the Ranch Girls meet with their happiest experiences, the story of their marriage bringing the series to a delightful conclusion. The rapid action and intense interest will hold the close attention of the old friends of this series and make many new ones. Handsomely bound in cloth and fully illustrated. 12mo.

The Julia Greene Cut-Out Series of Famous Children's Stories

Designed by HELEN PETTES and JULIA GREENE

This unique series provides in a new and doubly attractive form those stories of childhood which though generations or even centuries old, are always as new as the day they first took form. These stories are related in both poetry and prose and are made attractive in a new way by colored cut-out figures and furniture which enable the delighted little readers to reconstruct the stories and act them over and over in all possible variations to their hearts' content. In "Goldilocks and the Three Bears," for example, the cut-outs, printed on heavy, coated paper, include the four characters, with their clothing, and the chairs, beds and porridge bowls which are so real a part of the immortal story. These cut-outs are drawn in a spirit of sympathy and verity, with a real appreciation of childish imagination, and are beautifully colored. Without doubt these books will instantly take their place anywhere among the most attractive and popular of all books designed for little folks. Size, 11 x 8 inches. Bound in cloth, with inlaid front cover printed in colors.

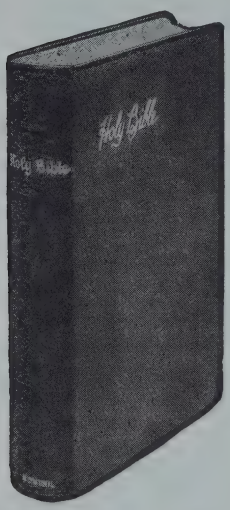
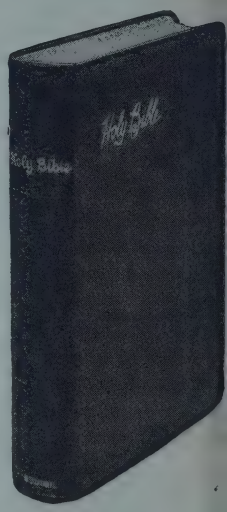
The

Bindings of International Bibles

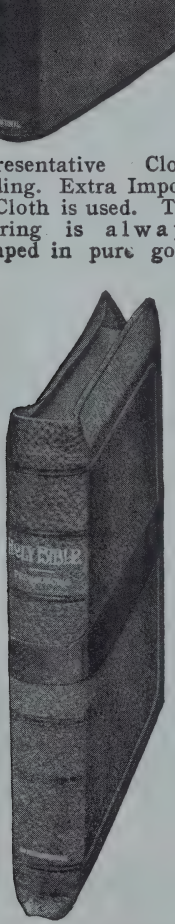


Representative Cloth Binding. Extra Imported Cloth is used. The lettering is always stamped in pure gold.

The cuts used in describing the bindings in this catalog are for the most part wood cuts, and therefore fail to adequately show the beauty of the different bindings, and for that reason we represent the three classes of bindings in the half-tone cuts shown on this page, which are reproduced by photographic process and are therefore exact. The different classes of Bibles are bound similar to these reproductions which will give you a better idea of their attractiveness, but even these cuts fail to represent the beauty of the Bibles themselves.



Representative Leath Limp Binding, usuall Seal Grained Leather used, except on sma Bibles where a sma Grained Leather is use These bindings are ve durable.



Representative Divinity Circuit Binding, with overlapping edges. International Bibles have an appearance that is distinctive.

With Reference to Cuts

We are always pleased to furnish cuts of Bibles to customers for advertising purposes free of charge. In ordering cuts, please always give the number of the page on which the desired cut is printed and also the name of the Bible it represents, so that no mistake can be made in filling the order. We can also furnish electrotypes of type specimens, and are always willing to lend our assistance in the preparation of advertising material.

THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO.

International Bibles a so flexible and durab they can be rolled wit out injury to bindi or sewing.

The saints' resurrection. 1 CORINTHIANS, 16. The manner of it.

25 For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet.
26 The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death.
27 For he hath put all things under his feet. But when he saith, All things are put under him, it is manifest that he is excepted which did put all things under him.
28 And when all things shall be subdued unto him, then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all.
29 Else what shall they do which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? why are they then baptized for the dead?
30 And why stand we in jeopardy every hour?
31 I protest by your rejoicing which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord, I die daily.
32 If after the manner of men I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me, if the dead rise not? let us eat and drink; for to-morrow we die.
33 Be not deceived: evil communications corrupt good manners.
34 Awake to righteousness, and sin not; for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame.
35 But some man will say, How are the dead raised up? and with what body do they come?
36 Thou fool, that which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die.
37 And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat, or of some other grain:
38 But God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body.
39 All flesh is not the same flesh: but there is one kind of flesh of men, another flesh of beasts, another of fishes, and another of birds.
40 There are also celestial bodies, and bodies terrestrial: but the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestrial is another.
41 There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars: for one star differeth from another star in glory.
42 So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption:
43 It is sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness; it is raised in power:
44 It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body.
45 And so it is written, The first man Adam was made a living soul; the last Adam was made a quickening spirit.
46 Howbeit that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; and afterward that which is spiritual.
47 The first man is of the earth, earthy: the second man is the Lord from heaven.
48 As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy: and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly.
49 And as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly.
50 Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.
51 Behold, I show you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed,
52 In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.
53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality.
54 So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory.
55 O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?
56 The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law.
57 But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.
58 Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye stedfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord.

CHAPTER 16.

1 How to proceed for the relief of the brethren.
13 Admonitions, 19 and salutations.

NOW concerning the collection for the saints, as I have given order to the churches of Galatia, even so do ye.
2 Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come.
3 And when I come, whomsoever ye shall approve by your letters, them will I send to bring your liberality unto Jerusalem.
4 And if it be meet that I go also, they shall go with me.
5 Now I will come unto you, when I shall pass through Macedonia: for I do pass through Macedonia.
6 And it may be that I will abide, yea, and winter with you, that ye may bring me on my journey whithersoever I go.
7 For I will not see you now by the way; but I trust to tarry a while with you, if the Lord permit.
8 But I will tarry at Ephesus until Pentecost.
9 For a great door and effectual is opened unto me, and there are many adversaries.
10 Now if Timotheus come, see that he may be with you without fear: for he worketh the work of the Lord, as I also do.
11 Let no man therefore despise him: but conduct him forth in peace, that he may come unto me: for I look for him with the brethren.
12 As touching our brother Apollos, I greatly desire him to come unto you with the brethren: but his will was not at all to come at this time; but he will come when he shall have convenient time.
13 Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong.

A WELCOME IMPROVEMENT

JUST ISSUED — "INTERNATIONAL" CLEARNUTYPE — JUST ISSUED

TEXT BIBLE

SELF-PRONOUNCING

Publishing and manufacturing over five hundred styles of "International" Bibles and Testaments (the largest line of Self-Pronouncing Bibles in the world), it would seem that there was no need for a new edition of the Bible; but this new Bible represents a distinct improvement over any form in which the Bible has hitherto been issued. In clearness of type, convenience of size, and logical arrangement, it is adapted to every class of Bible readers.

CLEARNUTYPE

While the text of the Bible does not change, modern methods of typography make possible the production of a type that is larger in size, more easily read, and more restful to the eyes, and yet makes a more convenient size, and a lighter weight book, than is ordinarily obtainable in a Bible printed from small type. The type used in this new Bible was moulded especially for the purpose. It is the largest, clearest type to be found in any Bible of like size.

Modern Arrangement That Makes This Bible More Usable

It has the books of the Bible printed on outer edge, which facilitates quick reference and overcomes the necessity of cutting an index on edge; has the chapter numbers of each of the Books of the Bible in Arabic numerals and also gives the sequential number of each chapter in the Bible; has all proper words accented and divided into syllables, making pronunciation easy; contains colored maps of the Holy Lands.

The Size Commends It For Many Uses

Notwithstanding the Clear Type used in this Bible the page measures but $5\frac{1}{4} \times 7\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Its adaptability as a most usable hand Bible or a Bible that can be conveniently carried in the coat pocket is instantly apparent.

A Bible You Will Be Proud to Own

This Bible is printed on thin rag paper specially made for it. Jet black ink is used in the printing to make the type stand forth clearly. Handsome Flexible Leather Bindings, with overlapping covers, red-under-gold edges, head-bands and purple ribbon marker, all serve in making it the finest expression in Bible making.

Specimen Page and Explanation of CLEARNUTYPE Bible

The type is larger, clearer and more easily read than any other pronouncing Bible of same size.

The books of the Bible are printed in this clear type on the outer edge, which enables one to find any book in the Bible quickly by simply bending over the upper corner. Many Bible-users prefer this to having an expensive index cut on the edge.

of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.

29 ¶ And God said, Behold, I have given you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat.

30 And to every beast of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is life, I have given every green herb for meat: and it was so.

31 And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

2 CHAPTER 2.

1 The first sabbath. 8 The garden of Eden. 21 The making of woman. 24 The institution of marriage.

THUS the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them.

2 And on the seventh day God ended his work which he had made; and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made.

3 And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because that in it he had rested from all his work which God created and made.

4 ¶ These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were created, in the day that the LORD God made the earth and the heavens,

5 And every plant of the field before it was in the earth, and every herb of the field before it grew: for the LORD God had not caused it to rain upon the earth, and there was not a man to till the ground.

6 But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground.

7 And the LORD God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul.

8 ¶ And the LORD God planted a garden eastward in Ē'dĕn; and there he put the man whom he had formed.

9 And out of the ground made the LORD God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food; the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil.

10 And a river went out of Ē'dĕn to water the garden; and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads.

11 The name of the first is Pī'son: that is it which compasseth the whole land of Hăv'i-lah, where there is gold;

12 And the gold of that land is good: there is bdellium and the onyx stone.

13 And the name of the second river is Gī'hon: the same is it that compasseth the whole land of Ē-thi-ō'pī-a.

14 And the name of the third river is Hĭd'de-kĕl: that is it which goeth toward the east of Ăs-sўr'i-a. And the fourth river is Eū-phrā'tēs.

15 And the LORD God took the man, and put him into the garden of Ē'dĕn to dress it and to keep it.

16 And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat:

17 But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.

18 ¶ And the LORD God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him an help meet for him.

19 And out of the ground the LORD God formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air; and brought them unto Ăd'ăm to see what he would call them: and whatsoever Ăd'ăm called every living creature, that was the name thereof.

20 And Ăd'ăm gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field; but for Ăd'ăm there was not found an help meet for him.

21 And the LORD God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Ăd'ăm, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof;

22 And the rib, which the LORD God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man.

23 And Ăd'ăm said, This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man.

24 Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh.

25 And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

All through the Bible proper words are accented and divided into syllables, which makes pronunciation easy. This feature is useful, especially in the Old Testament which abounds with difficult words.

CHAPTER 3. 3

1 Eve deceived. 6 The fall of man. 14 The curse. 22 Expulsion from the garden.

NOW the serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field

Gives the consecutive number of each chapter of the Bible, showing that there are 1189 chapters in the Bible

Solomon's adversaries. — I KINGS, 11.

Mō'ab, in the hill that is before Je-ru'sa-lĕm; and for Mō'lech, the abomination of the children of Am'mon.

8 And likewise did he for all his strange wives, which burnt incense, and sacrificed unto their gods.

9 And the LORD was angry with Sŏl'o-mon, because his heart was turned from the LORD God of Is'ra-el, which had appeared unto him twice,

10 And had commanded him concerning this thing, that he should not go after other gods: but he kept not that which the LORD commanded.

11 Wherefore the LORD said unto Sŏl'o-mon, Forasmuch as this is done of thee, and thou hast not kept my covenant and my statutes, which I have commanded thee, I will surely rend the kingdom from thee, and will give it to thy servant.

25 And he was an adversary to Is'ra-el all the days of Sŏl'o-mon, beside the mischief that Hā'dăd did: and he abhorred Is'ra-el, and reigned over Sȳr'i-a.

26 And Jĕr-o-bō'am the son of Nĕ'băt, an Ĕph'rath-īte of Zĕr'e-da, Sŏl'o-mon's servant, (whose mother's name was Ze-ru'ah, a widow woman,) even he lifted up his hand against the king.

27 And this was the cause that he lifted up his hand against the king: Sŏl'o-mon built Mil'lo, and repaired the breaches of the city of Dā'vid his father.

28 And the man Jĕr-o-bō'am was a mighty man of valour: and Sŏl'o-mon seeing the young man that he was industrious, he made him ruler over all the charge of the house of Jō'seph.

29 And it came to pass at that time, when Jĕr-o-bō'am went out of Je-ru'sa-

It is confidently believed that this Teachers' Handy Bible Encyclopedia will be found to contain more practical aid to the students and teachers than the helps found in other Teachers' Bibles. The experience of recent years has brought much additional light upon many subjects of Biblical knowledge, has shown that the plan of Bible Aids could be improved, and has also revealed a need among teachers, ministers, and Bible readers for a more popular handbook with the information written in language free from the technicalties of scholars. The work of simplifying was assigned to Rev. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, D.D., widely known as a Biblical scholar and as a TEACHER OF TEACHERS in the Sunday-school. Some of the improvements in this work over other Bible commentaries are noteworthy. (See full description on next page.)

A WELCOME IMPROVEMENT

JUST ISSUED "INTERNATIONAL" CLEARNUTYPE JUST ISSUED

TEACHERS' BIBLE

SELF-PRONOUNCING

Publishing and manufacturing over five hundred styles of "International" Bibles and Testaments (the largest line of Self-Pronouncing Bibles in the world), it would seem that there was no need for a new edition of the Bible; but this new Bible represents a distinct improvement over any form in which the Bible has hitherto been issued. In clearness of type, convenience of size, and logical arrangement, it is adapted to every class of Bible readers.

CLEARNUTYPE

While the text of the Bible does not change, modern methods of typography make possible the production of a type that is larger in size, more easily read, and more restful to the eyes, and yet makes a more convenient size, and a lighter weight book, than is ordinarily obtainable in a Bible printed from small type. The type used in this new Bible was moulded especially for the purpose. It is the largest, clearest type to be found in any Bible of like size.

The Highest Development of Modern Progress

In addition to the large clear type, the full contents also commend this Bible. It contains the Authorized Version of the Old and New Testaments, with sixty thousand references in the center column; has the books of the Bible printed on outer edge, which facilitates quick reference and overcomes the necessity of cutting an index on edge; has all proper words accented and divided into syllables, making pronunciation easy; has the most accurate, most usable aids to Bible study to be found in any Bible; and has seventeen colored maps of the Holy Lands.

New Type of Teachers' Aids to Bible Study

The logical arrangement of the helps is another improvement and a great convenience. All the aids (covering over 400 pages), including Complete Concordance, Subject Index, Dictionary, etc., etc., are under one Alphabetical Arrangement instead of separate headings as employed in the old type of Bible. Furthermore, these new helps are illustrated and are the only helps printed from black face type to be found in any Bible, which makes them more readable and useful.

A Bible You Will Be Proud to Own

This Bible is printed on thin rag paper specially made for it. Jet black ink is used in the printing to make the type stand forth clearly. Handsome Flexible Leather Bindings, with overlapping covers, red-under-gold edges, head-bands and purple ribbon marker, all serve in making it the finest expression in Bible making.

STYLES AND PRICES

No. 8170. FRENCH SEAL, divinity circuit (overlapping covers), round corners, red-under-gold edges, head-band and marker, grained lining..... $3.44

Specimen Page and Explanation of CLEARNUTYPE Bible

The type is larger, clearer and more easily read than any other pronouncing Bible of same size.

At the head of each page is given the approximate date of the incident referred to on that page

The Books of the Bible are printed in this clear type on the outer edge, which enables one to find any book in the Bible quickly by simply bending over the upper corner. Many Bible-users prefer this to having an expensive index cut on the edge.

All through the Bible the proper words are accented and divided into syllables, which makes pronunciation easy. This feature is useful, especially in the Old Testament which abounds with difficult words.

22 ¶ And it came to pass at that time, that [z]Ā-bĭm'e-lĕch and Phī'chol the chief captain of his host spake unto Ā'bră-hăm, saying, [y]God is with thee in all that thou doest:

23 Now therefore [z]swear unto me here by God [1]that thou wilt not deal falsely with me, nor with my son, nor with my son's son: but according to the kindness that I have done unto thee, thou shalt do unto me, and to the land wherein thou hast sojourned.

24 And Ā'bră-hăm said, I will swear.

25 And Ā'bră-hăm reproved Ā-bĭm'e-lĕch because of a well of water, which Ā-bĭm'e-lĕch's servants had violently [a]taken away.

26 And Ā-bĭm'e-lĕch said, I wot not who hath done this thing: neither didst thou tell me, neither yet heard I of it, but to day.

27 And Ā'bră-hăm took sheep and oxen, and gave them unto Ā-bĭm'e-lĕch; and both of them [b]made a covenant.

28 And Ā'bră-hăm set seven ewe lambs of the flock by themselves.

29 And Ā-bĭm'e-lĕch said unto Ā'bră-hăm, [c]What mean these seven ewe lambs which thou hast set by themselves?

30 And he said, For these seven ewe lambs shalt thou take of my hand, that [d]they may be a witness unto me, that I have digged this well.

31 Wherefore he [e]called that place [2]Bē'er–shē'bà; because there they sware both of them.

32 Thus they made a covenant at Bē'er–shē'bà: then Ā-bĭm'e-lĕch rose up, and Phī'chol the chief captain of his host, and they returned into the [f]land of the Phĭ-lĭs'tĭnes.

33 ¶ And Ā'bră-hăm planted a [3]grove in Bē'er–shē'bà, and called there on the name of the LORD, the [g]everlasting God.

34 And Ā'bră-hăm sojourned in the Phĭ-lĭs'tĭnes' land many days.

22 CHAPTER 22.

1 Abraham offers Isaac. 13 A ram substituted. 15 Abraham blessed. 20 Nahor's offspring.

AND it came to pass after these things, that [a]God did tempt Ā'bră-hăm, and said unto him, Ā'bră-hăm: and he said, [1]Behold, here I am.

2 And he said, [b]Take now thy son, thine only son Ī'şaac, whom thou lovest, and get thee into the land [c]of Mō-rī'ah; and offer him there for a burnt offering upon one of the mountains which I will tell thee of.

3 ¶ And Ā'bră-hăm [d]rose up early in the morning, and saddled his ass, and took two of his young men with him, and Ī'şaac his son, and clave the wood for the burnt offering, and rose up, and went unto the place of which God had told him.

4 Then on the third day Ā'bră-hăm lifted up his eyes, and saw the place afar off.

5 And Ā'bră-hăm said unto his young men, Abide ye here with the ass; and I and the lad will go yonder and worship, and come again to you.

6 And Ā'bră-hăm took the wood of the burnt offering, and [d]laid it upon Ī'şaac his son; and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife; and they went both of them together.

7 And Ī'şaac spake unto Ā'bră-hăm his father, and said, My father: and he said, [2]Here am I, my son. And he said, Behold the fire and the wood: but where is the [3]lamb for a burnt offering?

8 And Ā'bră-hăm said, My son, God will provide himself [f]a lamb for a burnt offering: so they went both of them together.

9 And they came to the place which God had told him of; and Ā'bră-hăm built an altar there, and laid the wood in order, and [g]bound Ī'şaac his son, and laid him on the altar upon the wood.

10 And Ā'bră-hăm [h]stretched forth his hand, and took the knife to slay his son.

11 And the angel of the LORD called unto him out of heaven, and said, Ā'bră-hăm, Ā'bră-hăm: and he said, Here am I.

12 And he said, [i]Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: for now [j]I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son from me.

13 And Ā'bră-hăm lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold behind him a ram caught in a thicket by his horns: and Ā'bră-hăm went and took the ram, and offered him up for a burnt offering [k]in the stead of his son.

14 And Ā'bră-hăm called the name of that place [4]Jē-hō'vah–jī'reh: as it is said to this day, In the mount of the LORD it shall be seen.

15 ¶ And the angel of the LORD called unto Ā'bră-hăm out of heaven the second time,

16 And said, [l]By myself have I sworn, saith the LORD, for because thou hast done this thing, and hast not withheld thy son, thine only son:

17 That in blessing I will bless thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy seed as the [m]stars of the heaven, and as the [n]sand which is upon the sea [5]shore; and thy seed shall [o]possess the gate of his enemies;

18 And [p]in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; because [q]thou hast obeyed my voice.

19 So Ā'bră-hăm returned unto his young men, and they rose up and went together to Bē'er–shē'bà; and Ā'bră-hăm dwelt at Bē'er–shē'bà.

INDIA PAPER BIBLE

SELF-PRONOUNCING

Containing the authorized version of the Old Testament and the New Testament, with all proper names accented and divided into syllables—and maps in colors.

While the text of the Bible does not change, modern methods of typography make possible the production of a type that is larger in size, more easily read, and more restful to the eyes, and yet makes a more convenient size, and a lighter weight book, than is ordinarily obtainable in a Bible printed from small type. The type used in this new Bible was moulded especially for the purpose. It is the largest, clearest type to be found in any self-pronouncing Bible of like size.

THE SIZE COMMENDS IT FOR MANY USES

Notwithstanding the Clear Type used in this Bible the page measures but $5\frac{1}{4}$ x $7\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Its adaptability as a most usable hand Bible or a Bible that can be conveniently carried in the coat pocket is instantly apparent.

The Red Letter Bible is the Bible that emphasizes Christ. The Old Testament, in types and prophecies, prefigured and foretold His coming. Christ, himself, endorsed and set His seal upon the Old Testament by continually referring to it and quoting from it. And He commanded us to "Search the Scriptures," for He said, "they testify of me." But how hard it is for the average reader to take the Bible and read it and know what refers to Christ. To such a reader the Red Letter Bible is a great help and benefit.

In the Red Letter Bible eminent scholars have carefully gone through and marked all those passages that point to Christ and all those passages that Jesus himself quoted. And in this volume all those passages and all the words of Jesus are printed in red ink. That is the story of the Red Letter Bible, which has proved so wonderfully popular.

RED LETTER BIBLES

ALL THE TYPES AND PROPHECIES
In the Old Testament, pointing to Christ

ALL THE REFERENCES
In the center column of the Old Testament, referring to the words uttered by Christ

ALL THE PASSAGES QUOTED
By Christ from the Old Testament

AND ALL THE WORDS OF CHRIST
In the New Testament

ARE PRINTED IN RED

The Red Letter Bible is the Bible that emphasizes Christ. The Old Testaments, in types and prophecies, prefigured and foretold His coming. Christ, himself, endorsed and set His seal upon the Old Testament by continually referring to it and quoting from it. And He commanded us to "Search the Scriptures," for He said, "they testify of me." But how hard it is for the average reader to take the Bible and read it and know what refers to Christ. To such a reader the Red Letter Bible is a great help and benefit.

In the Red Letter Bible eminent scholars have carefully gone through and marked all those passages that point to Christ and all those passages that Jesus himself quoted. And in this volume all those passages and all the words of Jesus are printed in red ink. That is the story of the Red Letter Bible, which has proved so wonderfully popular.

EXPLANATION OF MARKINGS

THE INDEX, OR KEY directs the reader to the first verse in the Bible on a subject, and, at the close of the first verse on that subject, there is a reference to the next verse on the same subject; so, that (though it may be fifty or one hundred pages away), the reader turns forward rapidly verse to verse, in regular order, until he reads everything in the whole Bible on that subject. Then he turns back, to the index or key, at the beginning, and takes up the next subject in the general plan of Salvation, with the first verse in the Bible on that subject, and reads straight through as before. And, so, one continues until the seventeen subjects, which complete the whole theme of Salvation, shall have been read through. This arrangement will enable anyone to conduct a Bible Reading on any of the following at a moment's notice.

—THE— EASIEST READING BIBLE

It is believed that no form in which the Scripture has ever been published makes the reading of it so attractive to both old and young, nor are any Commentaries, voluminous and extensive as they may be, to be compared with this simple system of markings and indexing, in explaining and making easy the way of Salvation.

H 6 And it [g]repented the LORD that he had made man on the earth, and it [h]grieved him at his heart.

7 And the LORD said, I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth; [3]both man, and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth me that I have made them. H. 19. 12, 13.

8 But Nō'ah [i]found grace in the eyes of the LORD.

9 ¶ These are the generations of Nō'ah: Nō'ah was a just man and [4]perfect in his generations, and Nō'ah walked with God.

10 And Nō'ah begat three sons, Shĕm, Hăm, and Jā'pheth.

11 The earth also was corrupt before God, and the earth was filled with violence.

C 12 And God looked [5]upon the earth, and, behold, it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth. C. Exod. 20. 5.

F 13 And God said unto Nō'ah, The [k]end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them; and, behold, I will destroy them [5]with the earth.

14 Make thee an ark of gopher wood; [6]rooms shalt thou make in the ark, and shalt pitch it within and without with pitch. F. 6. 20.

15 And this is the fashion which thou shalt make it of: The length of the ark shall be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits.

16 A window shalt thou make to the ark, and in a cubit shalt thou finish it above; and the door of the ark shalt thou set in the side thereof; with lower, second, and third stories shalt thou make it.

17 And, [l]behold, I, even I, do bring a flood of waters upon the earth, to destroy all flesh, wherein is the breath of life, from under heaven; and every thing that is in the earth [m]shall die.

18 But with thee will I establish my covenant; and thou shalt come into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee.

19 And of every living thing of all flesh, two of every sort shalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee; they shall be male and female.

F 20 Of fowls after their kind, and of cattle after their kind, of every creeping thing of the earth after his kind, two of every sort shall come unto thee, to keep them alive. F. 6. 22.

A Galaxy of Promises Like the Milky Way in the Heavens

The "International" Self-Pronouncing
Precious Promise Bible

Being the Authorized Version of the Scriptures with the Exceedingly Great and Precious Promises Indexed and Marked in Red

Size, 5½ x 8½ inches

That which inspires more searching of the Scriptures than any other of their varied contents is the promises In anxiety, in perplexity, in disappointment, in poverty, in loneliness, in sorrow, we turn to this book for guidance, for strength, for comfort, and for cheer. Imagine a Bible with all its promises stricken out, and blank spaces in their stead —would many people spend time in reading such a Bible?

Marks the Promises of Help for Every Human Need in Every Home

Even though one be a daily reader of the Bible, it is not always easy to find or to recall from so large a volume the text needed at some special hour. Profound scholars of the Bible have done this for us in the most simplified form in the PRECIOUS PROMISE BIBLE, and have brought the treasures of the Scriptures to light. Each promise is marked in red, and all the promises are divided into classes. Each class is so indicated and tied together that the reader can easily trace any class of promises through the Bible from text to text, and find for himself a wealth of promises upon any subject desired.

EXPLANATION

In the Precious Promise Bible is an Index (shown in reduced size above) in which the promises are classified under different subjects, and a letter is used to stand for the principal word of each subject.

After each subject in the Index there is a reference to the first verse in the Old Testament and also a reference to the first verse in the New Testament on that subject. Underneath each subject in the Index there are several references to the most important verses in the Scriptures on that subject.

The letter which stands for each subject is printed on the margin of every promise on that subject. The letter which stands for each subject is also used in front of every reference on that subject.

After every promise marked in this Bible there is a reference to the next promise on the same subject. This enables any person to go through the Bible and read every promise on any particular subject.

8 Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your /Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him. K. 7. 7–11.

9 After this manner therefore pray ye: gOur Father which art in heaven, hHallowed be thy name.

10 Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, ias it is in heaven.

11 Give us this day our jdaily bread.

12 And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. F. verses 25–34.

13 And klead us not into temptation, but deliver lus from evil: For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Ā-mĕn'.

14 For mif ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you:

15 But nif ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

16 ¶Moreover owhen ye fast, be not, as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance: for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

17 But thou, when thou fastest, anoint thine head, and wash thy face:

18 That thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly. U. verse 33.

19 ¶Lay pnot up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal:

20 But qlay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal:

21 For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

22 The rlight of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light.

23 But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, show great is that darkness!

24 No tman can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. uYe cannot serve God and mammon.

25 Therefore I say unto you, vTake no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?

26 Behold wthe fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?

27 Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit unto his stature?

28 And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin:

29 And yet I say unto you, That even Sŏl'o-mon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

30 Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to day is, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?

31 Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed?

32 (For after all these things do the Gĕn'tiles seek:) for xyour heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things.

33 But yseek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. U. 13. 8.

34 Take therefore no zthought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. C. 10. 10.

L. 16. 18.

CHAPTER 7. P. 10. 10.*

Christ endeth his sermon on the mount.

JUDGE anot, that ye be not judged.

2 For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: band with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

3 And cwhy beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

4 Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye?

5 Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

CLEARNUTYPE TESTAMENT

WITH A PERSONAL MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT WILSON

is a Testament that will be prized by anyone receiving it. It is printed from remarkably large, clear, easily read type and is smaller in size than the many small type Testaments on the market.

ST. MATTHEW. Parable of the talents. [64]

thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.

24 Then he which had received the one talent came and said, Lord, I knew thee that thou art an hard man, reaping where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou hast not strawed:

25 And I was afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that is thine.

26 His lord answered and said unto him, Thou wicked and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I have not strawed:

27 Thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the exchangers, and then at my coming I should have received mine own with usury.

28 Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents.

29 For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath.

30 And cast ye the unprofitable servant into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

31 ¶ When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory:

32 And before him shall be gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats:

33 And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left.

34 Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world:

35 For I was an hungered, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in:

36 Naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me.

37 Then shall the righteous answer him,

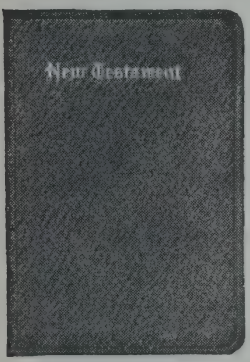
The New Bold Face Type Testament

WITH EXPLANATORY NOTES AND COMPLETE INDEX



Size, 4 x 6 inches

The specimen of type reproduced here shows the Bold Face type from which this Testament is printed. This type is large, clear, and restful to the eye—making this the easiest-reading Testament to be found anywhere. It also shows the foot-notes (printed right on the pages with the corresponding text) and the interpolated explanations which divide the gospel into logical, coherent sections without disturbing the old, but arbitrary, division into chapters and verses. These foot-notes and interpolations clear up obscure points in the text without the inconvenience and time-consuming task of referring to a commentary. Through the employment of this very latest developement of modern Bible-making, this Self-Interpreting Testament takes its place as the most understandable New Testament yet published.

A COPYRIGHTED INDEX FOR FINDING ANY WORD IN THE NEW TESTAMENT

A special feature of this Testament is the complete index by which any verse in the New Testament may be found by looking alphabetically for any important word contained in that verse. It is a combination concordance and subject index, and makes this edition of the New Testament of particular value to all who want to obtain the fullest value from the Scriptures.

Printed on the famous "thin Bible paper" used in many of the "International" Bibles, this Testament is only 4 x 6 inches in size.

The Lord's ST. MATTHEW, 26. supper instituted.

16 And from that time he sought opportunity to betray him.

17 ¶Now the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jē'sus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover?

18 And he said, Go into the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Master saith, My time is at hand; I will keep the passover at thy house with my disciples.

19 And the disciples did as Jē'sus had appointed them; and they made ready the passover.

20 Now when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve.

21 And as they did eat, he said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me.

22 And they were exceeding sorrowful, and began every one of them to say unto him, Lord, is it I?

23 And he answered and said, He that dippeth his hand with me in the dish, the same shall betray me.

24 The Son of man goeth as it is written of him: but woe unto that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! good were it for that man if he had not been born.

25 Then Jū'das, which betrayed him, answered and said, Master, is it I? He said unto him, Thou hast said.

26 ¶And as they were eating, Jē'sus took bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body.

27 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave to them, saying, Drink ye all of it;

28 For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins.

29 But I say unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom.

30 ¶And when they had sung an hymn, they went out into the mount of ŏl'ĭves.

Christian Worker's Testament

Indexed and marked by the best methods of Bible marking on all subjects connected with

THE THEME OF SALVATION

—so as to—

Enable any person to turn rapidly to verses on these subjects. To give Bible Readings at a moment's notice, or to tell at a glance the subject of any verse or passage marked

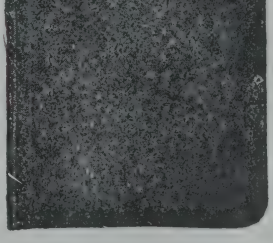
THE TESTAMENT MADE EASY TO READ

In the plan of this Testament Salvation is recognized as the dominant theme in the New Testament. Undoubtedly the greatest benefit in the reading of the Testament comes to the one who searches the Scriptures for himself and finds this stream of salvation running through its pages. But it is evident that the majority of people, even Bible readers and Bible-lovers have neither the time for such deep study nor the peculiar ability which it requires. People in general who would best understand their Bibles must depend upon those who have made a special study of these subjects and must receive the result of their labors. We cannot all be close students, but we can all be diligent readers of the Word of God.

Helpful to Every Class of Scripture Readers

Many methods have been devised for guiding Bible readers and of helping them to become Bible students, but the most ingenious and most helpful of these methods is that presented in this edition of the Testament.

Every class of Scripture students will find enjoyment and benefit in this system of marking. Ministers can use it to advantage. It will enable Lay Workers to interest and impress a company of listeners. The Sunday School Teacher will find it helpful. To the Y. M. C. A. Worker this is a marked Testament of which the key always hangs at the door. If anyone is inquiring the way of salvation what better plan can be suggested than to put this volume in his hands with the recommendation to read from it the texts on that topic which he most needs for his guidance.



In Handsome and Convenient Form

The Christian Worker's Testament is carefully printed from new type-set plates in red and black inks on extra quality of bright, rag Bible paper and is issued in a convenient size $3\frac{3}{4}$ x 4 inches.

For specimen of type and explanation of markings and exact size of Testament, see the following page.

POETRY AND BELLES LETTRES.

Bacon, Leonard.

The Song of Roland.

TRANSLATED INTO METRICAL VERSE BY LEONARD BACON, Instructor in English, University of California. 1914.

"The rendering is both spirited and faithful. . . . The reader who takes up this volume . . . in the patriotic spirit of which France is doubtless finding inspiration today, as she has found it in the past, will not, we venture to say, turn away disappointed."—The Nation.

"A praiseworthy rendering. The spirit of medieval times has been successfully caught. Pictures of splendid armies flashing along the fields in glimmering armor are before us. The eleventh century with its epic revelation of heroic spirits flames from the pages."—Springfield Republican.

*(Second Edition, with revisions, 1918.) 5½ x 8¼. Paper boards, cloth back. 164 pages. $1.50.

Baker, Karle Wilson.

Blue Smoke.

A BOOK OF VERSES. BY KARLE WILSON BAKER.
5¼ x 7¾. Paper boards. 180 pages. $1.50.

Barrès, Maurice.

Les Traits Éternels de la France.

BY MAURICE BARRÈS. WITH AN INTRODUCTION AND NOTES BY FERNAND BALDENSPERGER, LITT.D., Professor of Comparative Literature at the Sorbonne and Exchange Professor of French Literature and History, Columbia University.

The French soldier's devotion to France is the theme of this brilliant address, delivered by M. Barrès before the British Academy in July, 1916. In order that a deeper understanding and appreciation of this loyalty may be gained by American students, the address has now been issued in the original French under the competent editorship of Professor Baldensperger.

In reviewing the English translation, Reedy's Mirror writes: "It is a thrilling address to read. . . . In a series of moving incidents from the field, of wonderful quotations from soldiers' letters, the thesis is established that French heroism of today is only the ever new manifestation of the undying spirit of France. All the romance and chivalry and spiritual elevation of the mediæval French chronicles is here exhibited in a brief but compelling selection of parallels. In these few pages M. Barrès gives us a sense we can never lose of French patriotism and heroic devotion to an ideal which is national, and more than national. A little book of compact feeling, the heart-beat of a nation."

*4¼ x 6¾. Cloth. 100 pages. $1.00.

Benét, Stephen Vincent.

Young Adventure.

By Stephen Vincent Benét. With a Foreword by Chauncey Brewster Tinker, ph.d., Professor of English Literature, Yale College.

Stephen Vincent Benét, of the Class of 1919, Yale College, has already made himself known as a poet through the magazines and the publication of a book of verse. "Young Adventure," his latest collection of poems, represents Mr. Benét's talent for compactness of expression as well as for vigor of thought. He does not often write vers libre; rather does he choose to practice traditional forms, which he proves amply fitted for expressing a love of the sea and the beauty of clouds, the adventure of death and the yet more amazing adventure of living, a vital love of color, whether of the Orient or the drug-shop, a love of melody, the cool cleansing of rain, strange faces and old memories.

5¼ x 8. Paper boards, cloth back. 90 pages. $1.25.

Bordeaux, Henry.

Georges Guynemer: Knight of the Air.

By Henry Bordeaux. Authorized Translation prepared at the request of the author by Louise Morgan Sill. With an Introduction by Theodore Roosevelt. With a colored frontispiece engraved on wood by Rudolph Ruzicka, and four halftone reproductions of paintings by Lieutenant Farré.

From the eleventh century to the present day the name of Guynemer has appeared in the annals of France. It is associated with the romance of the crusades and honor has come to it more than once in the service of the nation. But no deeds have ever brought to France greater glory and none have stirred a deeper romantic feeling than those of Guynemer, Knight of the Air, "the slight boyish figure whose eyes radiated fire and force." The cool detachment of spirit which made possible achievements which won for him the title of

"The Ace of Aces" in the Aviation Service, is shown in his statement in a letter to his mother, written after his first flight under fire, when his machine was hit nine times: "Absolutely no impression except possibly satisfied curiosity."

A great fighter, he was also a great workman. He understood every subtlety of mechanism and was the most rigid of inspectors before each flight. Yet with this went the high carelessness which made him every night on returning to the French lines fly over his mother's house in a series of the most daring manœuvres so that she might feel reassured as to his safety! Strange reassurance!

In his Life of Guynemer, Henry Bordeaux has given us much more than a mere record of the Ace's victories. Through the author's analysis and through quotations from Guynemer's letters we derive a sense of intimacy with this curious modern hero, with the cold fury and precision of his work, with his endearing solicitude for his family and with his relations with his fellow aviators.

Mrs. Sill, whose translations from the French are so highly regarded both in Great Britain and this country, was chosen by M. Bordeaux himself to prepare this authorized translation of his work. She has brought not only sympathy but understanding to the difficult task of preserving in the language of another people the beauty of the original version, with the result that the volume will, the publishers are confident, be recognized for all time as one of the really great books of the War.

6⅛ x 8⅞. Cloth. 250 pages. Wood-engraved frontispiece in colors; 4 halftones. Gilt top. Wrapper in colors. $1.60.

Cooper, James Fenimore, Jr.

Poems by James Fenimore Cooper, Jr.

With a Foreword by Henry Augustin Beers, m.a., Professor of English Literature, Emeritus, Yale University.

Great-grandson and namesake of the novelist, James Fenimore Cooper, Jr., of the Class of 1913 at Yale and a Captain in the 308th Field Artillery, died at Camp Dix on February 17, 1918. During his brief lifetime he had turned his inherited literary ability to the writing of verse and the present volume, containing some sixty poems, mainly lyrical, is of interest both for promise and performance and as the expression of a singularly fine spirit. Included in the book are a photogravure likeness of the author, an essay on "Religion" found in his portfolio, and a brief Foreword by a former college instructor.

Stork, Charles Wharton.

The Lyrical Poems of Hugo von Hofmannsthal.

Translated, with an Introduction, by Charles Wharton Stork. 1918.

Hofmannsthal is well known in America as the author of "Elektra," but his peculiar genius as a poet has been little appreciated. The rare beauty of his lyrics—their melodiousness and colorful imagery—is now brilliantly portrayed for us in the English translation. Mr. Stork, the translator of many well-known foreign masterpieces, has rendered these poems into English lyric verse of a delicacy and charm that does full justice to the quality of the original.

Wolcott, Laura.

The Embarrassment of Years, and Other Stories of New England Life.

By Laura Wolcott.

Part I: "Signal Failures."

The group of sketches and stories that make up the first part of this volume are chiefly of New England in former days. Their author knew New England, not as an onlooker, but as a partaker of its life, which she shared for more than eighty years. But while she delighted in its manner of speech and all its little daily ways, she saw its life also in the light of a large setting; as a child wandering out into the morning sees its own familiar little places bright with the hopes and adventures of a great world.

In these stories meager, unknown lives, hidden away among the New England hills, narrowed and hampered in many a way, give out their own note of joy and triumph. To one with seeing eyes, who knows what has gone into the making of such lives, and under what great skies all lives dwell, they shine out, like the papers in the box labeled "signal failures," touched with vitality and beauty,—part of the great heart of things.

PART II: THE HEART OF A CHILD.

Not everyone has been a child once, long ago, and then again many years after. The little stories in this group were written by one whose first days of childhood came, in New England, in the period of 1830, and whose touch with childhood went on in this world until 1916. The first four stories were made of the vivid memories of those early days—"the days of the Honored Elders," and of fervent Bible-reading; the last four grew from constant contact with children of our present times, whose quality the future must name. Whether the writer of these stories was feeling life, herself a little child, or the white-haired lover of little children who came to her daily showing their treasures, she bore always deep in her own nature the heart of a child.

A Book of Yale Review Verse.

WITH A FOREWORD BY THE EDITORS. 1917.

"Collections of poetry that discriminate against ultra-modern verse are reassuring to say the least; and especially so, when the verse is more than mediocre in quality. Of such caliber is the 'Book of Yale Review Verse.' Robert Frost, John Masefield, Alfred Noyes, Walter de la Mare, Fannie Stearns Gifford, Amy Lowell, Sara Teasdale, and other poets of only a little less distinction are represented by at least one poem each."—Springfield Republican.

Beach, Joseph Warren.

The Method of Henry James.

BY JOSEPH WARREN BEACH, PH.D., Associate Professor of English, University of Minnesota. 1918.

"The work is undoubtedly the best extended study that has yet been made of James's literary achievement."—Springfield Republican.

"We recommend it very strongly to every lover of its subject. Mr. Beach is a thoro student and a clear writer. He makes short work of more than one myth regarding James, and he emphasizes all that is central in his work. His book should be in the possession of every owner of its subject's works, and it should be in every public library in the country."—Lewellyn Jones in the Chicago Evening Post.

Cross, Wilbur L.

The History of Henry Fielding.

By Wilbur L. Cross, ph.d., Dean of the Graduate School, Yale University, and Editor of the Yale Review.

Although the life of Henry Fielding has been written by a number of authors—among them, Sir Walter Scott and Thackeray—no adequate biography has yet appeared. Indeed, such a work has been generally considered impossible owing to the supposed lack of materials and especially to the disappearance of the novelist's personal correspondence. Mr. Cross, however, has discovered in the newspapers and other literature of the period fresh sources of information, which have enabled him to give a graphic account of Fielding's literary career. There is also a full discussion of all the novelist's works and a brilliant criticism of his defamers and apologists. For the first time we have in these volumes a true picture of the greatest genius in English literature since Shakespeare. This is the definitive work on Fielding and will be of permanent value.

An exhaustive bibliography, containing many publications which have never before been suspected as coming from Fielding, aims to establish the Fielding canon. The work is illustrated by many photogravures of rare interest.

Hillhouse, James T.

The Tragedy of Tragedies by Henry Fielding.

Edited, with an Introduction, by James T. Hillhouse, ph.d., Instructor in Rhetoric, University of Minnesota.

"The Tragedy of Tragedies" by that master of satire, Fielding, needs little more than its title to commend it to those of us who enjoy a good-natured and very keen and searching burlesque.

The original of this work, entitled "The Tragedy of Tom Thumb," in two acts, was first produced in 1730 with such marked success that in 1731 Fielding elaborated it into three acts with a preface and notes, containing further burlesque and poking fun at dramatic criticism. Both versions are included in Mr. Hillhouse's edition.

Judson, Alexander Corbin.

The Captives, or, The Lost Recovered.

By Thomas Heywood. Edited, with an Introduction, by Alexander Corbin Judson, ph.d., Adjunct Professor of English, University of Texas.
(Published under the Auspices of the Elizabethan Club of Yale University.)
This play, although one of Heywood's most important productions, has been for some time practically unavailable to scholars because of the fact that Bullen's limited edition of Old Plays, in which "The Captives" was first published, is not easily accessible. Mr. Judson has therefore performed a distinct service in bringing out his edition, presenting the play in such a way as to be attractive to the general reader as well as to scholars.
Basing his text upon a new collation of the original manuscript, Mr. Judson has made a number of additions and corrections in the earlier edition, which are indicated by annotations. The introduction includes a description of the authorship, date, and sources of "The Captives" and the text is followed by a glossary and bibliography.

Pierce, Frederick E.

Currents and Eddies in the English Romantic Generation.

By Frederick E. Pierce, ph.d., Assistant Professor of English in the Sheffield Scientific School, Yale University.
Mr. Pierce traces the various literary groups that formed and scattered in England between the outbreak of the French Revolution and the rise of Tennyson, the mutual effect of authors on each other, and the influence on them of environment, race; and old and new literary traditions. He also describes the rapid changes in popular taste and shows how far popular theories about literature differed from those of many of the great writers. He unrolls in these pages forty years of literary history in chronological order as a panorama of shifting tastes and backgrounds, varying theories, and short-lived waves of enthusiasm.

Whitman, Charles Huntington.

A Subject-Index to the Poems of Edmund Spenser.

COMPILED BY CHARLES HUNTINGTON WHITMAN, PH.D., Professor of English, Rutgers College. (CONNECTICUT ACADEMY PUBLICATION.)

The aim of this Index is to make accessible the riches of Spenser through a minute classification of notable matters gathered in a thorough study of Spenser's text, the Concordance to Spenser, and the investigations of scholars. It includes persons, places, animals, and things—whatever in fact has a function and a definite meaning—whatever, in the author's judgment, would be likely to prove of interest to the student of Spenser and his age.

A strictly alphabetical order has been followed and, when necessary, proper names and subjects are accompanied by brief explanations.

The Yale Shakespeare.

EDITED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF MEMBERS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH, YALE UNIVERSITY.

This edition, to be complete in forty volumes, is edited under the general supervision of a committee consisting of Dean Wilbur Lucius Cross and Professors Tucker Brooke and Willard Higley Durham. The line numbering is that of Craig's Oxford Shakespeare and each volume contains a glossary, notes and appendices.

"Practical teachers of Shakespeare, especially in college classes, usually find something, if not a great deal, to be desired in the comparatively few editions of the single plays which are usable in their classes. . . . This edition is designed to overcome many if not all of these objections, and, it seems, is likely to achieve its purpose. . . . The text, as is most desirable and proper, is given first place . . . and all information matter, such as the history of the play, its sources and the like, is relegated to appendices following the notes. This, perhaps the most distinctive feature of the edition, seems to be a very wise action, for, with college students as with others, 'the play's the thing.' . . . Another wise device is the putting of the brief explanations of obscure or obsolete words or phrases at the bottom of the pages."—Springfield Republican.

"There is a fine air of bookish good-fellowship about the Yale Shakespeare."—The Nation.

"The neat blue volume, with an attractive paper label, is a decided improvement upon the usual school or college edition of classics; indeed, it invites the reader to open and read—and enjoy."—New York Sun.

ART AND ARCHITECTURE.

Bradley, William Aspenwall.

Dutch Landscape Etchers of the Seventeenth Century.

By William Aspenwall Bradley, First Lieutenant, Sanitary Corps, U. S. N. A.

In this volume the author gives the first adequate account in English of the development of an art in which the Dutch, despite the earlier work of Dürer and others, in Germany, were real pioneers and displayed their ability as etchers to greatest advantage. Beginning with such "primitives" as Hercules Seghers and Esaias van de Velde,

Mr. Bradley deals with all of the more important and many of the minor men of the period, with the exception of Rembrandt, concerning whose work in this field so much has already been written.
The book is fully illustrated with admirable reproductions of prints and drawings, for the most part from the collections of the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston.

THE CHRONICLES OF AMERICA.

A SERIES OF HISTORICAL NARRATIVES.

EDITED BY ALLEN JOHNSON, PH.D., Larned Professor of American History, Yale University.

The conception or plan of this work, which has been in preparation for some years under the direction of Professor Allen Johnson, is, editor and publishers believe, new in our historical literature. In brief, the idea has been to present the entire history of our country in the living form of a series of short narratives; each having a unity of its own but all articulated and so related that the reader will not only be entertained by the story in each volume but will also be given a real vision of the development of this country from the beginning to the present day. The purpose of the editor and publishers has been to make the traditions of our nation more real and vivid to those of our citizens who are not in the habit of reading history. The achievement of this result at this time would be of even greater importance than the Yale University Press felt the possibility of it to be when it first planned the work with the approval and endorsement of the Council's Committee on Publications, which is charged by the University with the duty of passing upon all manuscripts submitted to the Yale University Press for publication under its imprint.

In developing his theme, Mr. Hocking discusses the principles of ethics, education, politics, and religion, and makes especial reference to the views of Nietzsche, Freud, and contemporary social psychologists.

It is with especial pleasure that the Yale University Press announces to Professor Sumner's many students and friends and to all interested in sociology the publication of a fourth volume of Sumner's essays, containing articles on protectionism, the money controversy, education, and other economic subjects. The book also includes a bibliography of Sumner's writings and an index to this and the three other volumes of his collected essays issued by the Yale University Press.

Woods, Arthur.

The Policeman and the Public.

By Arthur Woods, A.M., Lieutenant-Colonel, U. S. A., and formerly Police Commissioner of New York City. (Dodge Lectures, delivered at Yale University.)

Colonel Woods was the ablest and most successful police commissioner that New York ever had. His intimate knowledge of the theory of police organization, resulting from his exhaustive study of municipal affairs in the large European cities, together with his practical experience as an administrator, have made him unquestionably the leading authority on this subject in the world.

That Colonel Woods has the happy faculty of describing his theories and methods in an entertaining and instructive way is proved in the present volume, where he discusses the personnel of the police force, the duties each officer has to perform, and the different influences affecting him and his work. Colonel Woods also considers the many troublesome police problems, such as the handling of strikes and street meetings, the enforcement of regulatory laws, promotion, graft, and leadership, and the many dramatic and sensational incidents in connection with the police organization which have been so widely publicized in the newspapers.

Carpenter, William S.

Judicial Tenure in the United States.

With Especial Reference to the Tenure of Federal Judges. By William S. Carpenter, Ph.D., Instructor in Political Science, University of Wisconsin. 1918.

One of the cornerstones of American government is the power of the courts to pass upon the constitutionality of legislative enactments. For the competent exercise of this important function, a judiciary independent of political, executive, and legislative control is necessary.

Mr. Carpenter here presents a historical study of the conditions upon which judicial office is held in the United States, describing the establishment of the federal courts, the power of Congress over inferior courts, methods of selecting and removing judges and the political reactions affecting their tenure. He also gives a summary of the problems involved in securing the tenure of the judicial office at the present time.

4⅞ x 7⅜. Cloth. 240 pages. $1.50.

Lorenzen, Ernest G.

The Conflict of Laws Relating to Bills and Notes.

PRECEDED BY A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF THE LAW OF BILLS AND NOTES. BY ERNEST G. LORENZEN, J.U.D., Professor of Roman Law and Comparative Jurisprudence in the School of Law, Yale University.

Beginning his study by a comparison of the Anglo-American law of bills and notes with that of foreign countries, Mr. Lorenzen proceeds to a presentation of the rules of the conflict of laws relating to bills and notes in force in England and the United States, in France, Germany, and Italy, in Argentina, Brazil, and Chile, and in Japan. He then examines and discusses these rules for the purpose of ascertaining which of them would be the most appropriate for adoption in the framing of a uniform law on the subject for the United States. This volume will be of great value to banks, trust companies, exchange and stock brokers, and all those interested in the conflict of laws, in bills and notes, and in comparative law, especially as no other work on the subject has ever appeared in English.

An appendix contains the English Bills of Exchange Act, the American Negotiable Instruments Law, the Convention of the Hague Relating to Bills and Notes, in French and in an English translation, and comparative tables of sections and articles of the various acts.

SCIENCE.

Barjon, F.

Radio-Diagnosis of Pleuro-Pulmonary Affections.

By F. Barjon. Translated by James Albert Honeij, m.d., Assistant Professor of Medicine, in charge of Radiology in the School of Medicine, Yale University.

Most timely and of immediate value to the medical profession is Dr. Honeij's translation of Barjon's important work. The volume sets forth in a concise and clear manner the interpretation of the shadows in various chest affections, emphasizing the scope of Roentgenological diagnosis and the importance of co-operation between the clinician and Roentgenologist, and the value of supplementing with laboratory findings (serum reaction, tuberculin test, and Wassermann) the radioscopic findings.

Beginning with an exposition of the radioscopic examination of the normal chest, the author proceeds to a discussion of pleurisy pneumothorax, foreign bodies in the bronchi, bronchial affections, tracheobronchial adenopathy, vascular processes, acute infectious pulmonary processes, chronic pulmonary processes, pulmonary tuberculosis and pulmonary tumors. The book contains a chapter of particular interest at this time on penetrating wounds of the thorax by projectiles.

The Medical Department of the United States Army is using this book in its X-Ray Division.

Brown, Ernest W.

Tables of the Motion of the Moon.

By Ernest W. Brown, sc.d., f.r.s., Professor of Mathematics, Yale College. Assisted by Henry B. Hedrick, ph.d.

A permanent and exhaustive work giving the scientist tables of the motion of the moon designed to aid in the calculation of its position at any time in the past or the future. The tables are especially intended for use in the preparation of the various national Nautical Almanacs and are also adapted to the special needs of those interested in ancient eclipses and other astronomical events connected with the position of the moon. Over 1400 harmonic terms are included in the 165 tables which furnish the longitude, latitude, and parallax of the moon, and the use of logarithms is entirely avoided.

The numerical results are deduced from the theory of the moon's motion which was completed by Professor Brown and published in 1908. In the Introduction the final results of the theory are given and a full account of the methods by which these results are combined in the tables.

The work has been printed with remarkable accuracy by the Cambridge University Press in England on hand-made linen paper. The cost of computation and printing has been met from the funds of the Yale University Observatory.

Dana, Edward Salisbury.

A Century of Science: With Especial Reference to The American Journal of Science, 1818-1918.

EDITED BY EDWARD SALISBURY DANA, PH.D., Professor of Physics, and Curator of the Mineralogical Collection, Emeritus, Yale University.

In the midst of a war in which science has played an unexpectedly large and important part, the celebration of the centennial of the American Journal of Science, founded by Benjamin Silliman in 1818, is especially significant. The publication of the present volume, containing the Silliman Lectures delivered at Yale University in 1918 as well as other chapters on the progress made during the last hundred years in the several branches of scientific study, is a fitting memorial of this centennial.

The first article, describing the work of the American Journal of Science from its foundation to the present time, has been prepared by Professor Dana, who for many years has quietly but vigorously carried on its publication in accordance with the standards of its founder. The remaining chapters have been written by scientists, each of whom is eminent in his particular field of research.

Fisher, Irving.

The Effect of Diet on Endurance.

BY IRVING FISHER, PH.D., Professor of Political Economy, Yale College.

A most remarkable and startling confirmation of Professor Fisher's theories of diet is now to be found in Mr. Hoover's recommendations and the widely accepted practice among patriotic Americans today. The use of high-protein foods has been a vicious habit among us spendthrift Americans, which is not only contrary to the patriotic needs of the hour but, as Professor Fisher demonstrates conclusively in this volume, also contrary to the laws of hygiene and of sane living. The observance, therefore, of Professor Fisher's theories of diet becomes not only a patriotic duty but an ethical duty to ourselves; and the present demand for his book, originally published by the Connecticut Academy of Arts and Sciences, has occasioned this revised and reissued edition.

MILITARY BOOKS.

Danford, Robert M., and Onorio Moretti.

Notes on Training: Field Artillery Details.

By Lieutenant-Colonel Robert M. Danford, F. A., U. S. A., and Major Onorio Moretti, F. A., U. S. R. 1917.

Unquestionably the most valuable and successful book in print for the training of American field artillerymen. Now in its seventh printing, this work has met with a remarkable demand, whole training camps often ordering copies for every member. Careful and full instructions are given for the use of the field gun, with many simple tables and maps illustrating the directions.

The present "Campaign Edition," revised and enlarged, contains a new chapter on the corrections of Range and Deflection for variations due to atmospherical conditions and to the different temperatures of powder. This feature of the Battery Commander's Detail work has proved to be most important because of the close shooting that is demanded of field artillery in trench warfare. The chapter contains four very convenient tables, accompanied by problems worked out to illustrate their use.

The page size of the new edition has been reduced so that the volume, now bound in flexible khaki covers with rounded corners, fits the coat pocket.

The Army and Navy Journal pronounces it "the one manual we know on the training of officers, non-commissioned officers, and enlisted men in the duties devolving upon the various members of the battery and battalion commander's details, together with the principles of fire as taught at Fort Sill."

*(Seventh printing, 1918.) 5⅛ x 8 (pocket size). Flexible khaki. 287 pages. Diagrams, tables, and maps. Index. $2.00.

The book has the additional advantage of having been proof-read by Major Durette and Captain Dupont of the French Field Artillery. . . . The book should be in the possession of every field artilleryman in the service."—Journal of the United States Cavalry Association.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE YALE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY.

Facsimiles and Reproductions of Unique or Rare Items from the William A. Speck Collection of Goethiana.

In 1915 the Curator of the Goethe Collection in Yale University Library issued in an edition of one hundred copies a privately printed photographic reproduction of an original silhouette of Goethe, dated Carlsbad, 1786. The picture was enclosed in a folder of hand-made deckle-edged paper bearing two pages of letterpress descriptive of the original portrait, attractively printed under the direction of the Yale University Press.

This publication was greeted with such appreciation by students and collectors that it was decided to publish annually a reproduction of some interesting number of the Goethe Collection, together with a short explanatory or historical account thereof.

Under the general caption of "Facsimiles and Reproductions of Unique or Rare Items from the William A. Speck Collection of Goethiana in Yale University Library," additional publications have appeared in 1916 and 1917 respectively.

The first of these, forming "Number 2" of the series, entitled "Den fünfzehn Englishen Freunden," consists of a highly successful facsimile of an autograph poem signed and dated by Goethe, and eight quarto pages of printed matter bearing all the attainable data on the charming international literary episode which called forth the poem.

"Number 3" bears the title "An Original Drawing by Goethe, with a Short Paper on Goethe and the Graphic Arts." The picture, a more than ordinarily interesting example of Goethe's work, is exquisitely reproduced in brown and blue.

While the series was designed for private circulation only, insistent demand from collectors has induced the Library to offer for sale ten sets of the three numbers at twenty-five dollars per set, with the provision that the buyers shall have the privilege of adding annually the forthcoming numbers at prices to be fixed on their appearance.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE UNIVERSITY PRESS ASSOCIATION.

Memoirs of the American Academy in Rome.

The American Academy in Rome has announced the preparation of a new series, to be called "The Memoirs of the American Academy in Rome," the volumes in which will be issued in this country through the University Press Association under the joint imprint of the Harvard University Press and the Yale University Press.

It is stated that this publication will be devoted in general to the work of past and present students or officers of the Academy, in both the School of Fine Arts and the School of Classical Studies. The first volume will consist mainly of studies by members of the School of Classical Studies. It is therefore a continuation of the "Supplementary Papers of the American School of Classical Studies," of which two volumes had appeared before the School became a part of the American Academy. There are 172 pages, fifty-four plates, and two indices. The titles of the papers are as follows: "The Reorganization of the Roman Priesthoods at the Beginning of the Republic," by Jesse Benedict Carter; "The Vatican Livy," and "The Script of Tours," by Edward Kennard Rand and George Howe; "The Aqua Traiana" and the "Mills on the Janiculum," by Albert W. Van Buren in collaboration with Gorham Phillips Stevens; "Ancient Granulated Jewelry of the Seventeenth Century B. C. and Earlier," by C. Densmore Curtis; "Bartolomeo Caporali," by Stanley Lothrop; "Capita Desecta and Marble Coiffures," by John R. Crawford, and "The Military Indebtedness of Early Rome to Etruria," by Eugene S. McCartney. The book is printed by the Instituto Italiano d'Arte Grafiche at Bergamo, and is thoroughly Italian in appearance. Page and print are simple but dignified; the lettering, without being archaic, suggests the Roman styles of the Renaissance. Volumes will be published at intervals of a year. The first volume, when ready, will be forwarded postpaid on receipt of five dollars. A few copies of Volume II of the "Supplementary Papers of the American School of Classical Studies" may be procured for three dollars each.

Orders, inquiries, et cetera, may be sent to the University Press Association, 280 Madison Avenue, New York.

Harvard and Yale graduates and other friends of these universities are invited to call at the Association's office at any time to inspect the complete collection maintained there of publications issued by the Harvard University Press and the Yale University Press.

INDEX OF AUTHORS AND EDITORS

The page numbers given below refer to books listed in the present supplement. Descriptions of the remainder will be found in the catalogue of publications of the Yale University Press issued in 1917, a copy of which the publishers will be glad to send upon request.

For the convenience of booksellers certain titles, of works usually classed as text-books, et cetera, have been marked with an asterisk (*).

The Rider Press

As printers of the Trade List Annual, as well as the Publishers' Weekly, Library Journal, International Military Digest, Business Digest, and other bibliographical publications, we are experts in bibliograpical composition.

Catalogs, with their finicky composition and extra-accurate proof-reading are an every-day matter with us; we have special equipment to handle them and can keep our charges moderate.

Last year we did work for seven well known book publishers. Why not let us estimate on your catalog or book circular matter?

On long runs of press work which is not immediate, but may be "fitted in" between our periodical publications, we are able to quote prices that will surprise you.
